Grain Rumors Set Off Buying Spree

By The Associated Press

Rumors of new Soviet-American grain transactions touched off a buying spree Tuesday on the Chicago Board of Trade, as dealers recalled the sharp price increases that followed the U.S. sales of wheat, corn and other grains exactly three years ago.

The Department of Agriculture said it had heard, but could not confirm the rumors. The department's weekly review of world farm production and trade, issued Tuesday, made no mention of the Soviet Union's harvest situation, a key factor in determining how much grain the Russians might want.

Deputy Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Richard E. Bell said USDA experts were working on a new analysis and that an updated Soviet harvest estimate is expected in a day or two.

The editor of a Midwest trade publication who was one of the first to learn about the 1972 sales said he had not heard of any new purchases by the Soviets.

Morton I. Sosland, editor and publisher of Milling & Baking News, said in Kansas City that the Russians had made arrangements to charter 15 ships able to carry 25,000 metric tons each, but added that there was no guarantee the ships would be used for grain. Even if they were used for grain, Sosland said, they would be able to carry only 1.8 million metric tons a year — less than the amount rumored to be involved in the new deals.

In a related development, Senate investigators continued probing allegations of corruption in the grain inspection system. Representatives of the grain industry and grain inspectors urged Senate subcommittees not to approve a proposal giving the secretary of agriculture emergency powers to clean up the inspection system.

The reports of the new grain deals, first published in two London newspapers, said the Soviet Union was making arrangements through third parties for ships to use in the possible transport of up to 10 million metric tons of grain — three million from Canada and seven million from the United States.

It was not known how much of any particular type of grain would be involved in the alleged deals, but the total would represent a relatively small fraction of the 1975 U.S. harvests.

Activity was hectic on the Chicago Board of Trade where dealers buy and sell contracts for future delivery. The board limits the amount any commodity can rise or fall in a single session, and grain prices went up to the limit twice during the session, closing at the high level when buyers were unable to find anyone willing to sell.

Wheat for delivery this month closed at $3.22 a bushel, up the 20 cents it was allowed to rise. In 1972, before the grain sale, wheat sold for below $2 a bushel. After the deals, it soared over $6 a bushel.

Trading was a little calmer at the Kansas City Board of Trade, where prices rose almost the limit. Some experts said part of the rise was due to reports of farmers holding wheat, waiting for prices to go up.

Sosland said: "If the Soviet Union has made any big purchases of grain, I do not know about it. They are going to buy some grain from us. They need it. When? How much? For what price? Your guess is as good as mine. They would as soon tell you that as how many nuclear weapons they are going to produce this year."

Discussing the tankers, Sosland said: "They booked 15 . . . bulk cargo ships . . . There are some sources which say they booked them to carry something other than grain. But even if they did, they could move only 1.8 million tons a year . . ."

The USDA's Bell said there was a possibility that 1975 Soviet grain output might drop below last year's harvest of 195.6 million metric tons. Bell added, however, that he did not believe Soviet grain production would drop as low as it did in 1972 when the harvest was 168.2 million metric tons.

Bell said he knew of no evidence that the Russians are about to buy large quantities of U.S. grain. He noted that U.S. exporters are only required to report sales of 100,000 tons or more within 24 hours after a major deal is completed.

But he said that if U.S. crops are as large as expected this year, it would be "no real problem" to provide Russia with as much as five million metric tons each of corn and wheat.

Spokesmen for two of the major U.S. grain dealers, Cargill and Cook Industries, said they did not know of the reported Soviet deals.

Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz, asked about the prospect of new grain sales, he said only: "We want to sell all we can sell abroad this year because there will be a buildup in stocks."

Butz said he doubted the Soviets would want as much as they did in 1972 when they purchased 19 million metric tons of of grain, including one-fourth of the U.S. wheat crop. "Their crop situation is not like it was in 1972," he said.

Soviet officials have made no mention of problems with their year's harvest or of purchases of grain, but reports of such purchases have been circulating in Moscow for some time.

. . . And You Have To Pay, Right?

By WES ALBERS

Most people have to pay for their drinks.

Very few get them courtesty of the Nebraska Safety Council. And even fewer can say that the NSC kept handing them drink after drink, hoping to get them good and . . . well, legally drunk.

But just that happened to three young volunteers at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education Tuesday night. In the interest of science, of course.

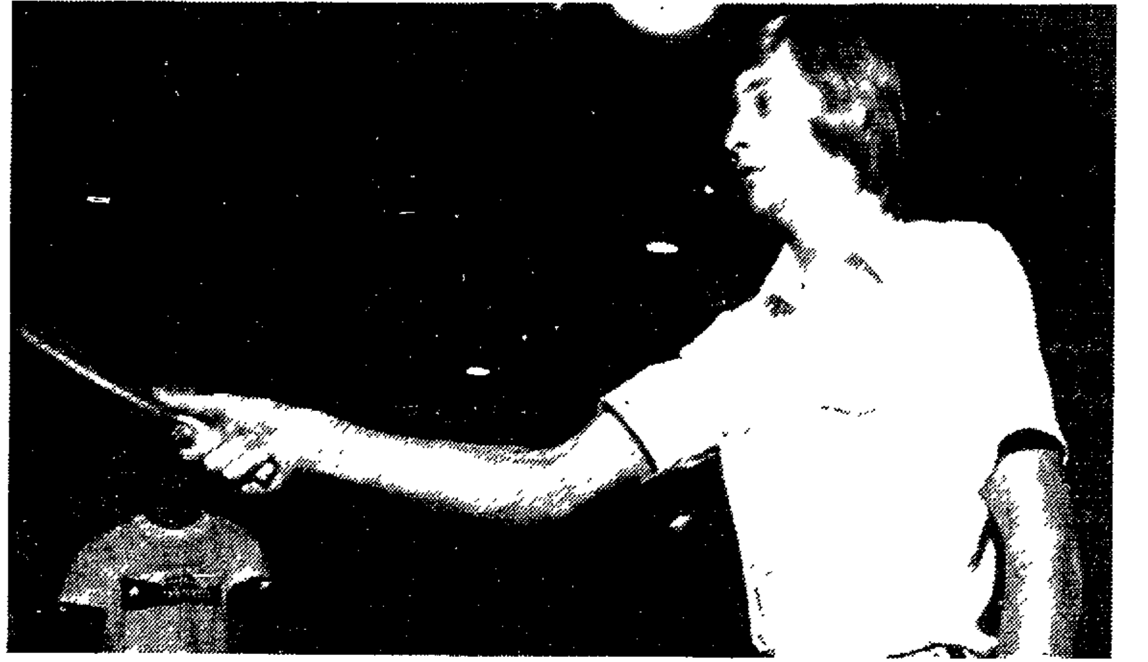
The guinea pigs were three participants in the 17th annual National Student Safety Conference, which runs until Friday: Randy Meyer, 22, 2300 W. Q St.; Ron Heerten, 20, 3601 Apple and Mary McCarville, 19, 946 Y St.

The weapons were screwdrivers — two ounces of vodka cut with just enough orange juice and ice to make things interesting.

The result? Well, Mary started laughing a lot. Ron began to act like he knew what Mary was laughing at. And 200-pound Randy . . . well, Randy threatened to make a sizeable dent in the NSC's vodka supply if they didn't bring things to a stop quick.

The three began downing screwdrivers at 8:30 p.m. as about 100 conference participants looked on. Lincoln Police Sgt. John Briggs waited to give the breath tests that would show how quickly the three reached the magic mark of .10 blood/alcohol content, Nebraska's definition of drunkenness.

After two drinks — four ounces of vodka — Randy, who had eaten only two hamburgers for supper, measured .004 Ron, medium-sized and just back from "my biggest meal of the summer", tested .01; and Mary, the smallest, recorded a .05.



STAR PHOTOS

RON FINALLY QUIT . . . fighting off the balls.

At this point, Mary had no trouble closing her eyes and touching her nose with first the right hand, then the left. But there was something funny about trying to walk a straight line — at least there was to Mary.

Ron found himself confronted with a semicircle of people who pelted him with foam rubber balls, expecting him to bat them away with a paddle and thus demonstrate unimpaired reflexes.

It worked the first time. But after two drinks, Ron started having trouble seeing the balls tossed at him from the side. And later in the evening, Ron showed no interest in such games.

Meanwhile, Randy was acting like he hadn't had anything to drink at all.

At 9:30, after three drinks, Mary tested at .066. Ron hit .038, and Randy, compliments of his size, held himself to .010.

One hour later, things had deteriorated considerably.

Randy, who had had seven screwdrivers — 14 ounces of alcohol, tested .105. He looked sober. He acted sober. But legally, he was drunk.

Mary, who had had six drinks, hit .20.

"That's twice the legal definition of drunkeness," a NSC representative announced.

"Yahooooo," Mary said. A final attempt at walking a straight line failed miserably.

And Ron, who had also had seven drinks, tested at .155. They didn't even bother with the foam balls.

Ron thought it was a good time for a speech.

"Believeeeee me, I'm drrrunk," he said. "You're probably wondering why I did this. Wellllll, if I can prevent jus' one of youse from getting as drunk as I am — and, believeeeee me, I've realllly got to sit down — then it was worth it."

"Yahooooo," said Mary.

Everybody laughed. But this morning, Mary won't think it's so funny.

MARY THOUGHT TEST . . . was worth a laugh.

Ford Men May Want Tax Cut For Business

(c) Washington Star

Washington — The Ford administration told Congress Tuesday that it may propose corporate tax rate cuts along with breaks to encourage investment.

"Reductions in the rate of corporate tax are a sound and neutral way to provide more capital and greater incentives to capital formation," Treasury Secretary William E. Simon testified as the House Ways and Means Committee got down to serious work on tax reform legislation.

Simon deferred specific recommendations on capital incentives until the end of the hearings this fall. His explicit proposals Tuesday were largely an endorsement of the reform bill approved by the committee last year, which never reached the House floor for action.

He also renewed with urgency President Ford's proposal last month for special tax breaks to spur construction of electric power plants fueled by coal and nuclear energy instead of oil.

Simon withheld any recommendation on extending into next year the temporary anti-recession tax reductions enacted this year.

This question will be "evaluated later this year in the light of the prospects for the economy, the apparent need for stimulus and the other actions taken by the Congress," he said.

The administration is cool to the idea of extending the tax cuts for individuals but recognizes that Congress probably will extend them regardless. In fact, there is considerable sentiment in Congress for enacting additional tax cuts instead of just a straight extension.

The tax reform bill approved tentatively by the committee last year, and endorsed in general by Simon Tuesday, would attempt to crack down on persons who pay little or no tax on high incomes because they take advantage of numerous tax preferences in the law.

LT&T Rate Request Halved

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

The Public Service Commission's staff Tuesday recommended that the commission approve less than half the Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph Co. request for rate increases totaling $5.5 million.

Staff recommendations for the company's rate base and rate of return translated into revenue increases of about $2.4 million.

Earlier in Tuesday's hearing, LT&T Vice President-Controller Laurence Connealy told the commission the $5.5 million request is "conservative . . . the minimum amount of increase needed."

What Connealy called "late developments," including a $1 million retroactive adjustment owed to Northwestern Bell Telephone Co., makes the $5.5 million request even more urgent, he testified.

The requested increase would include a boost of 10% to 15% in local service charges.

Commission staff witnesses contended that the company's legitimate rate base should be some $108.4 million, instead of the $125 million listed by LT&T.

A 9.3% rate of return on that base would be justified, Herb Sherdon, the commission's director of communications, testified.

Two commissioners objected to Sherdon's testimony as a rate of return expert.

It is "beyond his area of expertise," James Munnelly of Omaha said.

And his use as a staff witness is "inconsistent" with his other duties for the commissioners, Munnelly said.

Duane Gay of Columbus agreed, suggesting that staff witnesses tend to become "isolated from the commissioners."

LT&T attorneys objected to Sherdon's testimony, but were overruled by Commissioner Robert Marland of Lincoln, acting as hearing examiner.

Kip Hendrickson, PSC accountant, recommended the $108.4 million rate base, excluding a number of items which the company included in its projections.

Connealy told the commission that the recommendation falls short of the company's $117.7 million in investor-supplied capital, leaving "9.4 million of actual outstanding capital for which no return would be allowed."

LT&T Operations Vice President James Geist said the company needs its full request in order to "raise a large amount of a capital" for planned construction and improvements.

The company plans to borrow at least $25 million by late 1975.

Approval of the $5.5 million request would net the company an additional $2.7 million in revenue after taxes. The commission staff recommended a $1.2 million net increase.

Both LT&T and the commission staff completed their presentations Tuesday, but the commission will accept additional testimony from public witnesses, if any, on Wednesday at 9:30 a.m.

Lincoln Using A Lot Less Water

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

Lincolnites are using less water this summer. Some 7 million to 20 million gallons a day less.

And that's just fine with city officials who hope this season's lower water usage will continue so that mandatory rationing won't have to be imposed on city dwellers like it was last summer.

On July 19 of last year the mayor declared a water emergency. Temperatures were stuck at the near 100-degree range, grass, gardens and flowers were withering, the Platte River, source of Lincoln's water, was drying up. Lincolnites kept using up water, breaking all sorts of records.

Under the emergency, people were forced to water lawns on either even-numbered or odd-numbered days.

Public Utilities Director Lee Blocker says he doesn't think a watering ban will have to be imposed this year. People are just using less of the wet stuff.

Blocker's not quite sure whether the lower usage so far can be attributed to a cooler, wetter spring, or to a concerted conservation effort or to an attempt to save money under the new water rate plan.

"It may be a combination of these," Blocker said.

He's convinced, however, there is a conservation effort under way in Lincoln. From his trips around town, he's noticed that the lawns are "not quite a bright, lush green," which would indicate less lawn watering.

And it's been property owners' penchent for keeping city lawns green which is the big culprit. City officials are attempting to convince people that a less than carpet-like lawn, with watering only once a week, is acceptable.

The recently enacted water rates were an attempt to get people to turn off the tap by pinching the pocketbook. The rates penalize water users for increased water consumption over a base-demand amount.

"Water in Nebraska is not an inexhaustible resource," Blocker said.

And, just maybe, he hopes, those new rates are working.

Hard To Judge

But, he admits it is rather hard to judge why Lincolnites are using less water this summer. One big factor is the weather and rain, or the lack of it.

A check with the record book shows that over the last five-year period, Lincolnites tended to use more water during months of hot, dry spells.

For instance, this June, which was unusually wet, resulted in the lowest average daily usage over five years, at 32.2 million gallons per day. Last month the peak usage day was 67 million gallons. In June, 1970, the peak day ate up 75 million gallons.

The all time month for water usage was last July, which on Saturday the 13th ruptured the charts with a 97 million gallons figure. Blocker quickly points out that the figure is somewhat distorted since the city had banned watering on previous days.

On July 7, 1974, 74.6 million gallons of water were pumped into Lincoln, compared to 66.5 million gallons a year later. The record book indicates that a hot July in 1970 resulted in higher water consumption on the 7th at 70.9 million gallons. Two years later, on July 7, 1973, 53.4 million gallons were pumped.

Down In August

The figures show that people use less water during August than the preceeding summer months. During August 1974, the peak day registered 55 million gallons pumped, compared to that 97 million-gallon day the month before. In August 1970, the peak day was 64 million-gallons.

During last summer's drought and subsequent water rationing, city officials started talking about the amount of water used, instead of the amount of water pumped into Lincoln from wells in Ashland near the Platte River.

In normal conditions, Blocker explained, usage and pumpage are the same.

But last summer, Lincolnites started dipping into the city reservoirs, using more water than could be pumped into the city daily.

Might Dry Up

It was that situation which caused the concern, since there was a fear that Lincolnites would dry up the storage tanks. On that July 13th record-breaker alone, Lincolnites used up 15 million gallons out of the 70-million-gallon capacity storage tanks.

While water consumption appears to be down this summer, Blocker said the test of whether Lincolnites are actually conserving water will be recorded during the upcoming weeks.

If water usage climbs, that means people have been using less water because of the cooler weather. But, he says, if the consumption continues to level off, then Blocker belives people really are saving what he calls the peoples' most precious resources. Water.

Omaha Girl, 18, Shot By Robber

Omaha (UPI) — A holdup man shot an 18-year-old girl in the back Tuesday evening at the Boysen Beauty and Weight Salon where she had gone to pick up her mother, who was the wife of the owner.

Mary Boysen was listed in fair condition at Lutheran Hospital.

Her mother said her daughter had her back to the door when the holdup man entered.

"He had this little bitty gun, which looked like a toy gun," she said. "He pulled this thing which looked like a stocking cap over his face, didn't say a thing and just shot my daughter."

Then, Mrs. Boysen said, the gunman "grabbed all the purses, took money from the cash drawer and ran out."

Truck Crash Makes One Giant Omelet

Grand Island (AP) — Some 3,500 dozen scrambled eggs was a result of a single vehicle accident investigated Monday by the State Patrol here.

A semi-truck, driven by Robbie G. Follis, 44, of Salt Lake City, Utah, went out of control approximately 3.5 miles east of Grand Island on Highway 34.

Follis was reported in good condition Monday at St. Francis Hospital following the accident.

Grain Rumors Set Off Buying Spree

He's convinced, however, there is a conservation effort under way in Lincoln. From his trips around town, he's noticed that the lawns are "not quite a bright, lush green," which would indicate less lawn watering.

And it's been property owners' penchent for keeping city lawns green which is the big culprit. City officials are attempting to convince people that a less than carpet-like lawn, with watering only once a week, is acceptable.

The recently enacted water rates were an attempt to get people to turn off the tap by pinching the pocketbook. The rates penalize water users for increased water consumption over a base-demand amount.

"Water in Nebraska is not an inexhaustible resource," Blocker said.

And, just maybe, he hopes, those new rates are working.

Hard To Judge

But, he admits it is rather hard to judge why Lincolnites are using less water this summer. One big factor is the weather and rain, or the lack of it.

A check with the record book shows that over the last five-year period, Lincolnites tended to use more water during months of hot, dry spells.

For instance, this June, which was unsually wet, resulted in the lowest average daily usage over five years, at 32.2 million gallons per day. Last month the peak usage day was 67 million gallons. In June, 1970, the peak day ate up 75 million gallons.

The all time month for water usage was last July, which on Saturday the 13th ruptured the charts with a 97 million gallons figure. Blocker quickly points out that the figure is somewhat distorted since the city had banned watering on previous days.

On July 7, 1974, 74.6 million gallons of water were pumped into Lincoln, compared to 66.5 million gallons a year later. The record book indicates that a hot July in 1970 resulted in higher water consumption on the 7th at 70.9 million gallons. Two years later, on July 7, 1973, 53.4 million gallons were pumped.

Down In August

The figures show that people use less water during August than the preceeding summer months. During August 1974, the peak day registered 55 million gallons pumped, compared to that 97 million-gallon day the month before. In August 1970, the peak day was 64 million-gallons.

During last summer's drought and subsequent water rationing, city officials started talking about the amount of water used, instead of the amount of water pumped into Lincoln from wells in Ashland near the Platte River.

In normal conditions, Blocker explained, usage and pumpage are the same.

But last summer, Lincolnites started dipping into the city reservoirs, using more water than could be pumped into the city daily.

Might Dry Up

It was that situation which caused the concern, since there was a fear that Lincolnites would dry up the storage tanks. On that July 13th record-breaker alone, Lincolnites used up 15 million gallons out of the 70-million-gallon capacity storage tanks.

While water consumption appears to be down this summer, Blocker said the test of whether Lincolnites are actually conserving water will be recorded during the upcoming weeks.

If water usage climbs, that means people have been using less water because of the cooler weather. But, he says, if the consumption continues to level off, then Blocker belives people really are saving what he calls the peoples' most precious resources. Water.

Omaha Girl, 18, Shot By Robber

Omaha (UPI) — A holdup man shot an 18-year-old girl in the back Tuesday evening at the Boysen Beauty and Weight Salon where she had gone to pick up her mother, who was the wife of the owner.

Mary Boysen was listed in fair condition at Lutheran Hospital.

Her mother said her daughter had her back to the door when the holdup man entered.

"He had this little bitty gun, which looked like a toy gun," she said. "He pulled this thing which looked like a stocking cap over his face, didn't say a thing and just shot my daughter."

Then, Mrs. Boysen said, the gunman "grabbed all the purses, took money from the cash drawer and ran out."

Truck Crash Makes One Giant Omelet

Grand Island (AP) — Some 3,500 dozen scrambled eggs was a result of a single vehicle accident investigated Monday by the State Patrol here.

A semi-truck, driven by Robbie G. Follis, 44, of Salt Lake City, Utah, went out of control approximately 3.5 miles east of Grand Island on Highway 34.

Follis was reported in good condition Monday at St. Francis Hospital following the accident.

Candidate Ford Pledges 'Above-Board' Campaign

FORD . . . speaks at same desk at which Nixon announced resignation. AP

©The New York Times

Washington — President Ford announced formally Tuesday that he will seek the Republican nomination for the presidency in 1976 "in order to finish the job I have begun."

Seated at the same 1858 desk in the White House Oval Office from which former President Richard M. Nixon announced his resignation exactly 11 months earlier, Ford pledged "an open and above-board campaign" unlike the one that brought his predecessor to grief.

"I want every delegate and every vote I can get that can be won to my cause within the spirit and the letter of the law," Ford said. He asked for the support of "all who believe in the fundamental values of duty, decency and constructive debate on the great issues we face together as a free people."

Brief, Muted

The expected declaration, by the first American every to attain the White House through appointment, was deliberately brief, muted and in official setting meant to underline Ford's stated determination "never to neglect my first duty as President."

The President made no political promises, struck no specific campaign themes and took no notice in the short statement of other claimants, Republican or Democratic, on his job. He told reporters later that he assumed he would be successful in his first quest for national election.

For the most part, the unusually early announcement by an incumbent president sought to distinugish Ford less from political opponents in 1976 than from the election campaign of Nixon in 1972.

Ford referred to four campaign officials standing behind him — Howard H. Callaway, the chairman; David Packard, the finance chairman; Robert C. Moot, the treasurer, and Dean Burch, the head of an advisory panel — as "outstanding Americans on whose integrity both my supporters and all others can depend."

Three Qualifications

He said he had authorized them to wage a campaign for him with "three qualifications, which I want all Americans to know."

The qualifications Ford cited were that his candidacy be waged openly and lawfully, that it reflect his pledge to be "president of all the people," and that it take into account his obligation to put statecraft before politics.

Without specifically drawing a parallel, Ford thus forswore the secrecy, political espionage and sabotage that the Watergate investigations showed to have marked the campaign approach of the Nixon White House.

Strauss Comments

The point was also drawn, coincidentally, by a statement that Robert S. Strauss, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, issued to acknowledge Ford's declaration.

"Assuming he will be nominated," Strauss said of the President, "I look forward to a clean and vigorous campaign where the concerns, the priorities and different approaches of the two parties are clearly defined."

Aside from television cameramen and a few reporters, the only witnesses to Ford's declaration were White House aides and the officers of the new President Ford Committee. The President's wife, Betty, was not present and their 32-year-old son, Jack, was there in his capacity as an unofficial and unpaid White House intern.

Ford said, however, that he would campaign "with the strong support of my family and my friends."

16 Months Away

His carefully arranged, low-key declaration launched a 16-month campaign by Ford to fend off any possible rivals in his party, to retain Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller on the party ticket and to persuade the electorate at large that his conservative philosophy was attuned to the nation's needs in a bicentennial election campaign.

John P. Sears and Franklyn C. Nofziger, both one-time officials of the Nixon administration and political conservatives, have begun organizing for a possible, but so far indefinite, challenge by Ronald Reagan, former Republican governor of California.

Reagan Denies Reports

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ronald Reagan denied public reports Tuesday that he is committed to challenge President Ford for the Republican presidential nomination in 1976.

"It will be announced some time this year," the former California governor said about his possible presidential candidacy. He told a sidewalk news conference after lunching at Hollywood's historic Brown Derby restaurant that he had no desire to be his party's vice presidential candidate no matter who would occupy the top spot on the slate.

"The GOP is almost lying dead in the water," he said of his party and added that Republicans must draw in independent voters in 1976.

He conceded that he was aware of a committee to investigate his possible presidential candidacy but termed "absolutely incorrect" published reports in Knight Newspapers that he has decided to run.

Convention Freebies Ban Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — The staff of the new Federal Election Commission recommended Tuesday that political parties be prohibited from accepting thousands of dollars in free services at their national conventions.

The cost of most of those services — hotel rooms, convention hall, automobiles and even police protection — traditionally has been picked up by corporations

But the election commission staff advised the panel it believes such corporate contributions violate federal law. The commission began considering the proposal Tuesday.

In asking the commission for an advisory opinion, the Democratic and Republican National Committees noted that their 1972 conventions cost about $1,750,000 each exclusive of the donated services.

Robert S. Straus, Democratic national' chairman, said it would be impossible to put an exact value on the free services "but they are very substantial."

The commission had scheduled an open meeting to consider the staff recommendation. But after a brief debate it voted 4 to 2 to study the proposal in private. There was no indication how quickly the panel would act.

Chairman Thomas B. Curtis, former Republican congressman from Missouri, opposed closing the meeting. "It's important to let the public be educated right along with the commission," he said.

But the majority, led by Vice Chairman Neil Staebler, former Democratic congressman from Michigan and Robert O. Tiernan, former Democratic congressman from Rhode Island, argued that the discussion would be freer if held in private.

The staff recommended that the national committees be allowed to accept a certain number of free hotel rooms but no more than is customarily offered any large convention.

The commission was sworn in last April 14 to administer the Campaign Reform Act of 1974. It is empowered to interpret the law, but its opinions can be challenged in court.

Senate Bill Calls For Federal Oil Cushion

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate passed a major energy bill Tuesday requiring the federal government to store millions of barrels of oil to protect against a future embargo.

Meanwhile, the House approved a bill that would turn the nation's naval petroleum reserves back to the Interior Department for production for the first time since the Teapot Dome scandals of the 1920s.

The Senate Interior Committee estimated the new system of emergency oil reserves could cost the government more than $9 billion, but the figure could be sharply reduced if stored oil were pumped from the naval petroleum reserves.

The bill was approved 91 to 0.

Under an amendment approved 60 to 32, the Federal Energy Administration could require the petroleum industry to increase its storage capacity by 3% to provide the nation a "cushion" of oil during the seven years that would be required to develop the government-owned storage system

The bill, which apparently has the backing of the Ford administration, would require the government to purchase and store enough crude oil to ease the impact of a complete cutoff of foreign petroleum for 90 days.

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — James Rand Agnew, 28-year-old son of former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, faces trial July 30 on charges of trespassing after a young married couple accused him of peering into their bedroom window.

The accused, the only son and second oldest of four Agnew children, was arrested at his home Monday several hours after the alleged incident and was released on his own recognizance.

Police said Agnew received a black eye and facial lacerations after being caught by 17-year-old Timothy Frye.

Israelis Back Off On 2 Key Points

By The Associated Press

Diplomatic sources in Jerusalem said Tuesday that Israel has softened its stand on two key negotiating points, including withdrawal from the Gidi and Mitla passes, but the Israeli government said "central issues" still remain to be settled before it can sign a partial Mideast agreement with Egypt.

The Israeli government also joined the State Department in announcing that Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger will meet Saturday in Bonn to "continue discussions within the framework of their efforts to achieve peace in the Middle East."

Rabin flew to West Germany on Tuesday on the first official visit by an Israeli prime minister. He flew by helicopter to Bergen-Belsen to lay a wreath, light candles and say the prayer for the dead in memory of the 50,000 Jews who perished in one of the worst Nazi World War II death camps.

In central Israel, a military ammunition dump blew up, but there were no casualties and the blast "definitely was not sabotage, it was an accident," the military command said.

Diplomatic sources in the Holy City said, however, that Israel has withdrawn two of the prime demands they made at the start of negotiations.

Originally, Israel had wanted the agreement to be in force for five to seven years, but now would settle for three years, plus six to eight months for implementing the pact on the ground.

The three-year factor is likely to be a secret clause of the agreement, the sources said. Egypt would publicly renew the mandate of U.N. buffer forces in Sinai for a year, while quietly guaranteeing at least two more such renewals.

On the territorial issue, the Israelis now talk of holding only a two-mile piece of the eastern slopes of the Mitla and Gidi passes, while demilitarizing the rest of the strategic 12-mile passes, the sources said. Originally Israel had insisted on keeping at least the whole eastern half of the passes.

An early warning system would be placed on the western side of the passes at Umm Hashiba, a 1,900-foot peak, to provide advance notice of a surprise attack.

While the matter is not fully settled, it seems that American technicians would man the station at Egypt's request, and pledge to hide none of their findings from the Israelis, the sources said.

In return, Egypt would reduce its participation in the Arab trade boycott of Israel, and tone down hostile propaganda. Another secret clause would oblige Egypt to cool its diplomatic campaign against the Jewish state, the sources said.

The Israelis would return the Abu Rudeis oilfield to Egypt after sorting out whether it would be under civil or military rule, and deciding how wide Egypt's land corridor to the oilfield should be.

Dissenters Spurn Plea To Give Up

Anaheim, Calif. (AP) — Before 1,600 assembled Lutherans, their chief national officer Tuesday night told eight dissenting regional presidents that he would try to halt steps to oust them if they would get in step — but none assented.

The dramatic interlude came as the convention of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod debated whether to force the regional presidents to conform to national administration policy or get out. A decision was delayed until Wednesday.

"Will you walk with us, or do you insist on going your own way?" the church's president, the Rev. Dr. J. A. O. Preus, asked, turning to the district leaders under threat of the move to strip them of office.

"That's where it's at, fellows," he said, adding that he stood ready to recommend dropping the measure of "judgment and condemnation" if they simply would relent.

But the district presidents had just finished brief explanations of why they have installed ministers from a breakaway seminary in defiance of the central administration.

They said they could not modify a conscientious course.

"It is neither right, proper nor Scriptural to bar these men from the ministry," declared the Rev. Paul F. Jacobs of Belmont, Calif., head of the Northern California District. The proposed crackdown on him and seven others was seen as threatening to divide the church of 2.8 million members.

FBI Now Says No Sign Shots Fired At Copter

Washington (AP) — An FBI spokesman said early Tuesday there was no indication any shots were fired at an FBI helicopter that crashlanded on the Pine Ridge Indian Reservation in South Dakota last Friday during a search operation.

The spokesman said at first it was thought the helicopter had been shot down. But he said an examination of the helicopter and interviews with the crew turned up no evidence of gunfire, and the FBI belives the accident was caused by mechanical failure.

No one was injured in the crash.

The spokesman said "as far as we know, no shots were fired at the helicopter."

The helicopter was taking part in the search effort for 16 persons sought in connection with the slayings of two FBI agents June 26 on the Pine Ridge Reservation.

Jury Selected For Banks Trial

CUSTER, S.D. (AP) — After 16 days of examination, a jury was selected Tuesday to hear the trial of American Indian Movement (AIM) leader Dennis Banks in Custer, S.D.

Banks faces several charges stemming from the AIM-led, rock-throwing melee at the Custer County courthouse Feb. 6, 1973.

'Chief Muckraker' Turns 95

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Robert H. Simpson, former minister and veteran of the Boer War, liked to call Ronald Reagan a swindler and says the new governor is "a damned dirty rat."

It is all part of his crusade for "the right to complain."

Simpson, the state capitol's self-described "muckraker-in-chief," celebrated his 95th birthday Tuesday.

For a decade, the thin, white-haired "Mister Simpson" has toddled through Capitol hallways, pushing his steel frame walker and holding his salty placards aloft.

"I fight for absolute freedom," he says. "If you want to be a homosexual or anything else, that's your business. When they go bugging your bedroom and everywhere you go, why should you trust goverment?

"I am convinced there is no remedy in either of the old parties. They have reached a menopause. They can't produce a man. We talk about a credibility gap. It's a gulf. We need a man to stand in the gulf, someone they can trust."

One of his signs simply proclaims, "I Am Simpson." But some of his placards call politicians vulgar names.

He has won himself a small band of followers, including a few legislators and a local Sacramento doctor who watches after his health and gives him a birthday cake every year.

But governors and the public have viewed Simpson mostly as someone to tolerate. Reagan used to jokingly tell political gatherings about Simpson's signs blasting him.

Simpson says he believes he has made it easier to protest at the door of state government. He brags about his arrest record and court battles with judges. But some critics view Simpson as something of a harmless nut whose spicy signs might offend capitol tour groups.

"I am all for throwing him out with his blooming signs," said assemblyman John L. E. "Bud" Collier, R-Monrovia, before a 66-to-12 assembly vote approved repeal of the "Simpson Law."

The former Methodist pastor has been arrested more than 300 times for breaking the "Simpson Law," which bans picketing in the capitol.

Simpson, who lives on $255 a month in Social Security and a small family investment, was the only regular picket at the capitol when the bill was passed in 1969. The law has been enforced chiefly against him.

But lately, Simpson has come on better times. Since Democrat Edmund Brown Jr. replaced Republican Reagan, Simpson says state police have quit arresting him. Last year the state assembly approved a resolution commending him for his "extraordinary public advocacy activities." And a pending bill would do away with the Simpson Law.

"I have won," Simpson said at his one-room apartment in the downtown Clunie Hotel three blocks from the capitol.

Reporter Scoops Up Kissinger's Garbage

WASHINGTON (AP) — A 27-year-old reporter says he is looking for news in the secretary of state's trash.

"We've run into a couple of interesting things so far," said Jay Gourley, who collected five bags of Henry A. Kissinger's trash early Tuesday and is now going through the debris.

Gourley said he works for The National Enquirer, a weekly published in Lantana, Fla., and was on assignment for his editor, E.G. Martin.

"We don't often get Henry Kissinger's garbage," Gourley said. "This is a real prize."

State Department spokesman Robert Anderson commented:

"This has caused grave anguish to Mrs. Kissinger and the secretary is really revolted by what he considers a violation of the privacy of his house. Frankly, I'm sure most members of the press would agree with this."

Gourley said he stationed himself in front of Kissinger's Georgetown home Monday night and quickly found the trash in plastic bags on the sidewalk. "Fortunately, he uses the sturdy kind that don't open," he commented.

A Secret Service agent guarding the house shouted, "Hey, what are you doing?"

Gourley said he kept talking to the agent while he stashed the five bags in the trunk of his car. "I knew once I got them into the car there was no way they could get them away from me."

Confirming this, George Cosper, spokesman for the Secret Service, said it was understood that once trash is placed beyond a man's home legally it no longer is his private property.

Gourley said five Secret Service agents and two metropolitan policeman deliberated for almost three hours, until about 2 a.m. before conceding that Gourley could have the trash.

Even Out-Of-Towners Protest 48th Street Plan

Approves Protest

Beatrice, Neb.

In the matter of 48th Street in Lincoln, I have been interested to see how this street-widening project would progress.

I must give my whole-hearted support to those who went to the hearing, protesting the proposed four-lane highway.

Personally I think it would be a disgrace to take out all those nice hackberry trees that have been there for years just to satisfy a few who wish to get to work in less time. It is a pleasure to see those nice trees.

I hope that the property owners succeed in their protest.

Postponement Of Action

Lincoln, Neb.

Widen 48th Street? No, widen 56th and make both one-way streets! No, use 33rd! Obviously each group of property owners along 56th, 48th and 33rd would prefer the use of the "other" north-south streets.

On a weekly basis I personally use all of the above mentioned streets, plus 40th as an access from A to O Streets. In my opinion, traffic flow on all these streets is congested at peak traffic hours, with the exception of 40th. Recently, however, the city has installed automatic signal lights on 40th between A and O. They were badly needed.

My point is, why hasn't a traffic signal been installed at 40th and O? At five o'clock, it is impossible to turn left from O Street onto 40th or left from 40th to O Street. Wouldn't this addition cost the city less than the proposed widening of 48th, or 56th and 33rd? O Street has a left turn lane at 40th, but without a signal, 40th cannot be used as an access south. I for one would not need to use 48th Street south if I had access to 40th from O Street or access to O Street west from 40th.

Certainly this would negate the need to widen any street immediately until the city traffic engineer and director of public works can get their heads together and develop sound proposals for north-south traffic control.

I believe it is the duty and obligation of City Council members to postpone any approval on widening 48th Street at the present time until all alternative solutions can be studied.

GREGORY E. FULLER

No Virtue In Conversion

Lincoln, Neb.

I drive on 48th Street every day and like traffic to move as rapidly as possible. However, I believe it would be utterly obscene to destroy all the shade trees and widen that street into a concrete racetrack.

One thing the people on 48th Street could have done to help the problem would have been to get after the Chamber of Commerce about making such a big effort to attract more industry to the city. Another thing would have been to get the Game Commission to stop sending NEBRASKAland all over the country telling people how wonderful it is to live here.

I agree with the residents of 48th Street that there is no virtue in turning a pleasant place to live into a concrete traffic pattern.

Added Safety Hazard

Lincoln, Neb.

I agree with the many letters expressing concern over destruction of nice neighborhoods when streets are widened. However, through a recent experience, I find that safety presents another objection to creating expressways in residential areas.

I observed a motorcyclist making a left turn on a widened street and intersection. His bike shot out from under him and both he and the machine slid across two lanes of pavement, over the curb and sidewalk and narrowly missed a child playing on the walk. With a sidewalk right next to the street, there is obviously a real hazard for pedestrians.

It seems our city has a penchant for creating bottlenecks by widening streets for one or two blocks from a busy intersection. It shouldn't surprise anyone that this eventually leads to extensive widening projects, Left-turn lanes are fine, but when the curb lane is also added, residents in any direction can expect to lose their front yards at some future date.

It is very unfair that some property owners have to sacrifice so much to make it a bit more convenient for those who live in suburbia. It would seem that those who live farther away would understand that it is going to take a little longer to drive to and from town.

Disappointed In Energy Report

Lincoln, Neb.

In reading the report by the Energy Research and Development Administration entitled "Creating Energy Choices for the Future," I find that it has an extremely large number of shortcomings and failings. Not only does it not make a substantial attempt to alleviate the short-term energy problems of the nation; it lacks the imagination and proper set of priorities to give me much hope for the solving of the long-run energy needs of our country.

Their priorities continue to place too much stock in nuclear fission, the effects of which for electrical generation was never expected to any great extent until 1985. (And even then optimists predicted it would account for only about 15% of U.S. energy production and perhaps 30% by the year 2000.) And this assumes that there will be no additional delays because of technical or environmental failing — but both problems have cropped up and brought the program to near standstill.

Cracks in the inner wall structure of the liquid-metal, fast-breeder reactor have stumped the scientists. And if they remedy that problem, they face the growing opposition from the environmental ranks against the highly radioactive waste material it produces called plutonium; no accepted way has been found to dispose of this extremely dangerous material.

Plutonium is dangerous in many ways. One is that as few as half a dozen drops in a city reservoir are capable of killing virtually millions of people, animals and fishes. Thus, it appears that problems in technology, though not expected to be smoothed out until the late 1980's, will probably be solved long before the environmentalists could be satisfied. And rightly so!

Another basic fault in the ERDA's plan is that they classify nuclear fission and fussion reactions as "energy from virtually inexhaustible sources." It takes more than steam to fuel a nuclear reactor — they use uranium. And uranium is, after all, just another fossil fuel, naturally formed and, like coal and oil, non-renewable in the next million years. And it must be mined (an environmentally bad word) just like coal.

How much uranium will it take to fuel the projected 250 reactors in 1985? How much for at least double that number by the year 2000? Where do the world's richest uranium deposits lie? What nations will become economic giants at the expense of U.S. shortsightedness? Mining, environmental, safety and material shortage problems await us just around the corner. Is this the kind of program we need? Is it what we expect? I suspect that these questions have been ignored!

The point that I am trying to make is that nuclear reactors are not only environmentally hazardous, but the question of their economic value as a stable source of energy should also be raised.

Let's Do It Ourselves

Lincoln, Neb.

Please, not another study! We'd rather do it ourselves. Why must we pay our tax money to bring in "expertise" from corrupt, bankrupt, crime-ridden slums and traffic-congested asphalt jungles. Practically every study made has confirmed previous studies by local organizations.

Does paying for an outsider really mean expertise? The last transportation study yielded suggestions that were presented several months before for free from me. I also suggested commuter buses to outlying towns to encourage out-of-city workers to park their cars at home. Non-rush-hour commuter buses are now being proposed. This would not solve the rush-hour traffic nor the downtown parking.

Why must we tolerate increasing property destruction, loss of trees, four-lane speedways that endanger our children and senior citizens who have to run to get across safely? The cost for buses could not possibly be more than construction and maintenance of an ever-increasing number of four-lane median highways criss-crossing our city or the cost to property owners whose land is covered with concrete.

We have the talent and organization in our own backyard if only our elected officials would use them. Must we always have a nationwide search for the "best qualified" to fill our vacant offices? Our native residents and professionals and workers should be given preference in hiring, our own expertise both paid and volunteer should be utilized and outside studies and persons to be hired should be a last resort and not vice versa. If we have to create a concrete nightmare, please, let us do it ourselves.

What Kind Of Development?

The Barton-Aschman firm of Chicago which has undertaken several consulting projects for the City of Lincoln has suggested that local officials go slow and study the matter before creating a municipal economic development agency.

Some city officials are said to favor the creation of an economic development agency to step up the city's role in attracting business and industry here and in working with existing firms.

The mayor should first appoint a task force to prepare an economic development program, Barton-Aschman said.

We're not necessarily enamored of task forces, especially when count of them is lost, but it might be a good idea in this case because the crucial factor of growth is at issue.

Lincoln has maintained steady growth and has remained an attractive city. So what do we want to change? Private interests, Lincoln's valued business leadership, the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce — all usually with the close cooperation of city officials — have generally succeeded in bringing to Lincoln the kind and numbers of businesses and industries which fit into the Lincoln scheme.

Now, it is perhaps true that the city officials who are most interested in creating an economic development agency are not aiming at a rapid acceleration in the business and industrial growth rate, but want, rather, to establish a growth-monitoring agency which could also exert some influence over the kinds of business and industry which Lincoln would seek to attract.

But we're not sure there is a consensus among city officials over what kind of agency they want, nor is there a sure guarantee, unless guidelines are drawn and intent determined. of what kind of agency the city would get.

There are different ideas about growth (how much and what kind?) existing in Lincoln today. Before the city gets into the "economic development" business, officials had better define the terms.

Facing Down Labor

Just recently we read where "not even governments run by men" dared to face down organized labor in the manner of Senora Peron, president of Argentina, who had demanded union support of her austerity program, which included a relatively modest 50% increase in wages. Already-negotiated contracts provided for wages hikes far higher than the level which Mrs. Peron was willing to accept.

Mrs. Peron had been admired for fearlessly treading on this dangerous ground. But it has just been reported that she has capitulated to labor and the general strike which threatened her government. Apparently wage hikes will go higher than she had originally decreed.

Now Prime Minister Harold Wilson has scolded militant union leaders in Britain for their demands for pay raises of between 64 and 94 per cent.

To their faces Wilson told coal workers that continued inflationary pay raises would be "crazy, even suicidal," given the current state of that nation's economy.

But the workers, it was reported, have maintained their demands nonetheless.

Wilson must be given similar high marks for courage. Although many working Britons have not reached a comparable wage scale or living standard enjoyed by their brethren in other highly developed countries, it does seem "crazy, almost suicidal," for them to demand close to a 100 per cent wage increase for the next year during a time when their nation's economy is struggling for survival. As is the government, just recently come to power.

The predicaments faced by Peron and Wilson, regardless of otherwise unique fact situations or how people might regard their style and philosophies of governing, are shared by free governments the world over and should be appreciated.

In this country, where organized labor has long had its share of the pie and more, the demands are still made and the inflationary fire has been fed by them. And it takes, as elsewhere, a singularly courageous politician to try to face down such a powerful political entity.

NEW YORK — Every time a sane man begins to wonder whether the left hand knows what the right hand is doing in this country, he has to conclude either that (a) he is not so sane, after all, or (b) the left hand has no idea what the right hand is doing, and vice versa.

Take the combined transportation-energy situations as only one incomprehensible example:

—Here's Secretary of Transportation William T. Coleman Jr., who sounds much like a voice of embattled Intelligence amid a babble of incoherence, proclaiming the sensible proposition that cities like New York, with major rapid transit systems, ought to consider the possibility of lower fares for low-income persons, financed by higher fares for the most affluent riders.

—And here's President Ford sending to Congress a proposal that the states be allowed to take over one cent of the present four-cents-per-gallon federal tax on gasoline, with the proceeds to be used by the states for transportation purposes, including the development of mass transit — although no state would be bound to use the one-cent tax for mass transit.

—And here are Ford and the Democratic Congress battling it out over an appropriate program to conserve energy, with neither side courageous enough to impose a stiff new gasoline tax but with both paying lip service to the necessity for making consumers pay more dearly for energy — hence using less.

All that being the case, why should both the Ford administration and the Democratic Congress be cooperating in vastly expanding expenditures for the interstate highway system, when the least school child knows that automobiles account for the most profligate wastage of energy in America, and that the interstate highway system not only encourages the unrestricted use of automobiles but most thoroughly discourages the use of alternate, energy-conserving modes of transportation?

But that is exactly what is happening. As detailed in the New York Times as Edwin L. Dale Jr., the Ford administration decided last December to permit $4.6 billion to be spent in fiscal 1975 from the Highway Trust Fund on remaining links of the interstate system. State matching funds would have substantially increased that total.

In February, as the recession deepened and the administration became (relatively) concerned about unemployment, Ford ordered that another $2 billion, for a total of $6.6 billion, be released from the trust fund to spur construction. Then, in April, when Ford proposed that the rest of the $9.1 billion then accumulated in the trust fund continue to be "deferred," the Senate under the new congressional budget procedures voted instead to release the total as a job-creating stimulus to the economy.

Between that vote and the end of the fiscal year on June 30, the states managed to claim $1.2 billion of the $9.1 billion total; added to the previously released $6.6 billion, that brought approved new spending for fiscal 1975 on the interstate highway system to $7.8 billion. And it leaves $7.9 billion still "released" and available for the states to claim in the coming fiscal year, together with the revenues constantly coming into the trust fund from the gasoline tax.

© 1975 Los Angeles Times

SECRETARY COLEMAN
. . . suggests low-fare, high-fare program . . .

Congress also passed a special law relieving the states from paying their share for much of the highway-building program. That will have the neat effect of urging the states to embark on new, federally funded highway construction projects.

The results are insane. While Secretary Coleman desperately casts about for some means of propping up hard-pressed mass transit systems, while Ford proposes means by which the states at least could have optional funds to pour into mass transit, while both President and Congress talk about conserving energy — while all that is going on, both President and Congress cooperate mindlessly in providing an enormous new stimulus to interstate highway construction, the single expenditure most nearly calculated to increase automobile usage, hence energy wastage, as well as decrease public reliance on mass and inter-city transit.

Jobs are certainly needed, and the Highway Trust Fund is there, with ample money to be spent without the fuss and both of congressional appropriation. But why, it has to be asked, could not the $7.8 billion authorized in fiscal 1975, and the $7.9 billion now available for fiscal 1976 (plus new revenues) not have been dedicated — at least in substantial degree — to job-creating programs that might have improved mass and inter-city transit rather than setting them back?

Why could not some of that money have been poured, for example, into putting unemployed young people to work repairing inter-city roadbeds, or renovating mass transit stations? Why could not more of it have been invested in decent modern rolling stock for Amtrak, and still more used to provide cities with small, energy-conserving buses for off-peak hours or low-use lines?

Almost any project of that kind would make more sense than providing more running room for more gas-guzzlers to waste more energy and pollute more air. But since when did American politics have anything to do with making sense?

Cabbage-Patch Compatibility

NEW YORK — It may be a little late to tell you this, fellow gardeners — but the secret of planting vegetables is much the same as the secret of planning successful parties: the guests in your garden must be compatible.

Applying an old gossip-column format, for example . . . never invite Liz Tomato to the same planting party with Richard Beet. And watch for trouble if you seed Jacqueline Onion next to Ethel Kohlrabi.

Just as a good mix of guests is the vital key to a good party, and an ill-chosen guest list leads to ennui and early evacuation, so goes it with horticulture. Plant compatibility is very important in companion planting, according to "Organic Gardening and Farming," and if your seedlings don't get along it can lead to despair, disease and — heaven help the broccoli! — even death.

☆ ☆ ☆

The factors to be considered, reports the authority, farmer Dick Diebold of Illinois, are plant feeding, habits of growth, times of maturity, hardiness and succession of growth. When the time comes to rotate the crops, it behooves us to remember the following no-nos and yes-dos:

Pole beans planted with sunflowers will grow unsatisfactorily because of light and root interference. Tomatoes and kohlrabi are equally incompatible, as are pole beans and beets, pole beans and members of the cabbage family, potatoes and pumpkins, onions and peas, and onions and asparagus. All these are "unsuitable neighbors."

However, you will find a great many vegetables which share a gracious soil-sociability factor with others, so feel free to invite the following to the same garden:

Beets and onions; cucumbers and sweet corn; leeks with beans or celery; carrots or turnips with peas, cucumber and beans; tomato and parsley; onions or kohlrabi with beets; early potatoes and corn, squash and pumpkins with corn; eggplant with beans, celery and leek.

When the time comes to rotate the vegetables (give a second party, so to speak), authorities suggest that we try a change of pace. The heavy-feeding vegetables should be followed up with light-feeders such as bush beans, carrots, radishes, turnips and rutabagas; otherwise your soil could be eaten out of minerals and vitamins. Leaf crops consume a lot of nitrogen from the soil, while root crops take a lot of potash. So, says Diebold, turnips should not be followed by carrots, another root crop — but rather by lettuce, for example, a leaf crop

On the other hand there are some greedy vegetables who, like the man who came to dinner and stayed, like to have sole possession of their turf for the entire summer. These include lima beans, Swiss chard, eggplant, okra, onions, parsley, parsnips, peppers, sweet potatoes and tomatoes. Unless you're bored with them, tell them to please remain seeded.

To add zest to your guests at a party, you give them interesting food. To add zest to your vegetables in a garden, you can offer them herbs. Planting mint alongside your tomatoes will give the tomatoes health and flavor. Borage planted with tomatoes deters the tomato worm, and thyme is known to deter the cabbage worm.

And marigolds, the warriors of the vegetable patch, do wonders for almost any plant. Put marigolds near cucumbers and they'll fight off the cucumber beetle. Marigolds defend snap beans from the Mexican bean beetles. In fact, Diebold plants the entire perimeter of his patch with marigolds, to keep away all manner of evil spirits and creepy crawlers.

☆ ☆ ☆

And now a final warning:

The sunflower, that glorious caricature of a posy, is a razzle-dazzle addition to any garden plot. But having a batch of sunflowers in the patch is rather like having a bunch of Don Rickleses at a party: They'll not only take the limelight and sunlight, but they may get down to the roots of the other guests and may make them shrivel . . .

Even Out-Of-Towners Protest 48th Street Plan

Approves Protest

Beatrice, Neb.

In the matter of 48th Street in Lincoln, I have been interested to see how this street-widening project would progress.

I must give my whole-hearted support to those who went to the hearing, protesting the proposed four-lane highway.

Personally I think it would be a disgrace to take out all those nice hackberry trees that have been there for years just to satisfy a few who wish to get to work in less time. It is a pleasure to see those nice trees.

I hope that the property owners succeed in their protest.

Postponement Of Action

Lincoln, Neb.

Widen 48th Street? No, widen 56th and make both one-way streets! No, use 33rd' Obviously each group of property owners along 56th, 48th and 33rd would prefer the use of the "other" north-south streets.

On a weekly basis I personally use all of the above mentioned streets, plus 40th as an access from A to O Streets. In my opinion, traffic flow on all these streets is congested at peak traffic hours, with the exception of 40th. Recently, however, the city has installed automatic signal lights on 40th between A and O. They were badly needed.

My point is, why hasn't a traffic signal been installed at 40th and O? At five o'clock, it is impossible to turn left from O Street onto 40th or left from 40th to O Street. Wouldn't this addition cost the city less than the proposed widening of 48th, or 56th and 33rd? O Street has a left turn lane at 40th, but without a signal, 40th cannot be used as an access south. I for one would not need to use 48th Street south if I had access to 40th from O Street or access to O Street west from 40th.

Certainly this would negate the need to widen any street immediately until the city traffic engineer and director of public works can get their heads together and develop sound proposals for north-south traffic control.

I believe it is the duty and obligation of City Council members to postpone any approval on widening 48th Street at the present time until all alternative solutions can be studied.

No Virtue In Conversion

Lincoln, Neb.

I drive on 48th Street every day and like traffic to move as rapidly as possible. However, I believe it would be utterly obscene to destroy all the shade trees and widen that street into a concrete racetrack.

One thing the people on 48th Street could have done to help the problem would have been to get after the Chamber of Commerce about making such a big effort to attract more industry to the city. Another thing would have been to get the Game Commission to stop sending NEBRASKAland all over the country telling people how wonderful it is to live here.

I agree with the residents of 48th Street that there is no virtue in turning a pleasant place to live into a concrete traffic pattern.

Added Safety Hazard

Lincoln, Neb.

I agree with the many letters expressing concern over destruction of nice neighborhoods when streets are widened. However, through a recent experience, I find that safety presents another objection to creating expressways in residential areas.

I observed a motorcyclist making a left turn on a widened street and intersection. His bike shot out from under him and both he and the machine slid across two lanes of pavement, over the curb and sidewalk and narrowly missed a child playing on the walk. With a sidewalk right next to the street, there is obviously a real hazard for pedestrians.

It seems our city has a penchant for creating bottlenecks by widening streets for one or two blocks from a busy intersection. It shouldn't surprise anyone that this eventually leads to extensive widening projects. Left-turn lanes are fine, but when the curb lane is also added, residents in any direction can expect to lose their front yards at some future date.

It is very unfair that some property owners have to sacrifice so much to make it a bit more convenient for those who live in suburbia. It would seem that those who live farther away would understand that it is going to take a little longer to drive to and from town.

Disappointed In Energy Report

Lincoln, Neb.

In reading the report by the Energy Research and Development Administration entitled "Creating Energy Choices for the Future," I find that it has an extremely large number of shortcomings and failings. Not only does it not make a substantial attempt to alleviate the short-term energy problems of the nation; it lacks the imagination and proper set of priorities to give me much hope for the solving of the long-run energy needs of our country.

Their priorities continue to place too much stock in nuclear fission, the effects of which for electrical generation was never expected to any great extent until 1985. (And even then optimists predicted it would account for only about 15% of U.S. energy production and perhaps 30% by the year 2000.) And this assumes that there will be no additional delays because of technical or environmental failing — but both problems have cropped up and brought the program to near standstill.

Cracks in the inner wall structure of the liquid-metal, fast-breeder reactor have stumped the scientists. And if they remedy that problem, they face the growing opposition from the environmental ranks against the highly radioactive waste material it produces called plutonium; no accepted way has been found to dispose of this extremely dangerous material.

Plutonium is dangerous in many ways. One is that as few as half a dozen drops in a city reservoir are capable of killing virtually millions of people, animals and fishes. Thus, it appears that problems in technology, though not expected to be smoothed out until the late 1980's, will probably be solved long before the environmentalists could be satisfied. And rightly so!

Another basic fault in the ERDA's plan is that they classify nuclear fission and fussion reactions as "energy from virtually inexhaustible sources." It takes more than steam to fuel a nuclear reactor — they use uranium. And uranium is, after all, just another fossil fuel, naturally formed and, like coal and oil, non-renewable in the next million years. And it must be mined (an environmentally bad word) just like coal.

How much uranium will it take to fuel the projected 250 reactors in 1985? How much for at least double that number by the year 2000? Where do the world's richest uranium deposits lie? What nations will become economic giants at the expense of U.S. shortsightedness? Mining, environmental, safety and material shortage problems await us just around the corner. Is this the kind of program we need? Is it what we expect? I suspect that these questions have been ignored!

The point that I am trying to make is that nuclear reactors are not only environmentally hazardous, but the question of their economic value as a stable source of energy should also be raised.

Let's Do It Ourselves

Lincoln, Neb.

Please, not another study! We'd rather do it ourselves. Why must we pay our tax money to bring in "expertise" from corrupt, bankrupt, crime-ridden slums and traffic-congested asphalt jungles. Practically every study made has confirmed previous studies by local organizations.

Does paying for an outsider really mean expertise? The last transportation study yielded suggestions that were presented several months before for free from me. I also suggested commuter buses to outlying towns to encourage out-of-city workers to park their cars at home. Non-rush-hour commuter buses are now being proposed. This would not solve the rush-hour traffic nor the downtown parking.

Why must we tolerate increasing property destruction, loss of trees, four-lane speedways that endanger our children and senior citizens who have to run to get across safely? The cost for buses could not possibly be more than construction and maintenance of an ever-increasing number of four-lane median highways criss-crossing our city or the cost to property owners whose land is covered with concrete.

We have the talent and organization in our own backyard if only our elected officials would use them. Must we always have a nationwide search for the "best qualified" to fill our vacant offices? Our native residents and professionals and workers should be given preference in hiring, our own expertise both paid and volunteer should be utilized and outside studies and persons to be hired should be a last resort and not vice versa. If we have to create a concrete nightmare, please, let us do it ourselves.

What Kind Of Development?

The Barton-Aschman firm of Chicago which has undertaken several consulting projects for the City of Lincoln has suggested that local officials go slow and study the matter before creating a municipal economic development agency.

Some city officials are said to favor the creation of an economic development agency to step up the city's role in attracting business and industry here and in working with existing firms.

The mayor should first appoint a task force to prepare an economic development program, Barton-Aschman said.

We're not necessarily enamored of task forces, especially when count of them is lost, but it might be a good idea in this case because the crucial factor of growth is at issue.

Lincoln has maintained steady growth and has remained an attractive city. So what do we want to change? Private interests, Lincoln's valued business leadership, the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce — all usually with the close cooperation of city officials — have generally succeeded in bringing to Lincoln the kind and numbers of businesses and industries which fit into the Lincoln scheme.

Now, it is perhaps true that the city officials who are most interested in creating an economic development agency are not aiming at a rapid acceleration in the business and industrial growth rate, but want, rather, to establish a growth-monitoring agency which could also exert some influence over the kinds of business and industry which Lincoln would seek to attract.

But we're not sure there is a consensus among city officials over what kind of agency they want, nor is there a sure guarantee, unless guidelines are drawn and intent determined, of what kind of agency the city would get.

There are different ideas about growth (how much and what kind?) existing in Lincoln today. Before the city gets into the "economic development" business, officials had better define the terms.

Facing Down Labor

Just recently we read where "not even governments run by men" dared to face down organized labor in the manner of Senora Peron, president of Argentina, who had demanded union support of her austerity program, which included a relatively modest 50% increase in wages. Already-negotiated contracts provided for wages hikes far higher than the level which Mrs. Peron was willing to accept.

Mrs. Peron had been admired for fearlessly treading on this dangerous ground. But it has just been reported that she has capitulated to labor and the general strike which threatened her government. Apparently wage hikes will go higher than she had originally decreed.

Now Prime Minister Harold Wilson has scolded militant union leaders in Britain for their demands for pay raises of between 64 and 94 per cent.

To their faces Wilson told coal workers that continued inflationary pay raises would be "crazy, even suicidal," given the current state of that nation's economy.

But the workers, it was reported, have maintained their demands nonetheless.

Wilson must be given similar high marks for courage. Although many working Britons have not reached a comparable wage scale or living standard enjoyed by their brethren in other highly developed countries, it does seem "crazy, almost suicidal," for them to demand close to a 100 per cent wage increase for the next year during a time when their nation's economy is struggling for survival. The predicaments faced by Peron and Wilson, regardless of otherwise unique fact situations or how people might regard their style and philosophies of governing, are shared by free governments the world over and should be appreciated.

In this country, where organized labor has long had its share of the pie and more, the demands are still made and the inflationary fire has been fed by them. And it takes, as elsewhere, a singularly courageous politician to try to face down such a powerful political entity.

Engineer, Commissioners Lock Horns Over Right Of Way Issue

By NANCY HICKS
Star Staff Writer

Threatening to use their budget control over the Engineering Department, two of the three county commissioners locked horns with County Engineer Marv Nuernberger again Tuesday over the road right of way issue.

Commissioners Jan Gauger and Bruce Hamilton, both strong planning supporters, have repeatedly asked Nuernberger to work with the Planning Department on a transportation plan which can be used to determine how much right of way land subdividers should be required to deed to the county.

"I'm ignorant . . . I don't understand," admitted Hamilton, saying he would no longer forfeit his responsibility by merely "rubber stamping" all engineering proposals. "I'm going to quit voting yes on those I don't understand."

"What I want is a list of which roads require 50 feet of right of way (one-half of the road) and which require 40 feet and why," Hamilton said.

And after a half hour of continued debate, Chairman Gauger said in frustration, "The County Board has only budgetary control over departments. I guess we'll have to use that."

The debate was an old one, one which has been argued at half a dozen meetings during the past month, with no apparent progress toward a solution.

The issue stems from a state law and a subsequent county subdivision ordinance which allows the County Board to require that subdividers (either for large platted areas or for single-home subdivisions) dedicate a minimum of 40 feet of right of way on all major county roads.

No one disagrees that the board has this authority. The question is just what is a "major" road and when should the county ask for more than the minimum 40 feet dedication – or 80 feet for the total roadway.

Nuernberger contends that in order to protect both landowners and the county, the board needs at least a 50-feet dedication along all county roads.

The 50-foot right of way (100 for the total road) means that land owners will not build next to the road nor put in shrubs and trees adjacent to the road.

This will save the county taxpayers money later, when and if the road is improved or widened. For then the county will have to pay damages to those propertys with improvements too close to the roadway.

Mrs. Gauger and Hamilton contend that not all county roads will need the 100 feet nor even 80 feet of right of way and they want some sort of policy on paper telling which roads are major and which roads may be future heavily traveled roadways.

And this plan must be a cooperative effort between engineering and planning, they say.

Nuernberger says he has plans — the one- and six-year road plans already approved by the board and the Planning Commission. However, neither of these plans specify right of way, only which roads are expected to be improved in the near future.

And planning beyond six years for roads is practically impossible, Nuernberger says. No one really knows which roads may become major in the distant future, he contends.

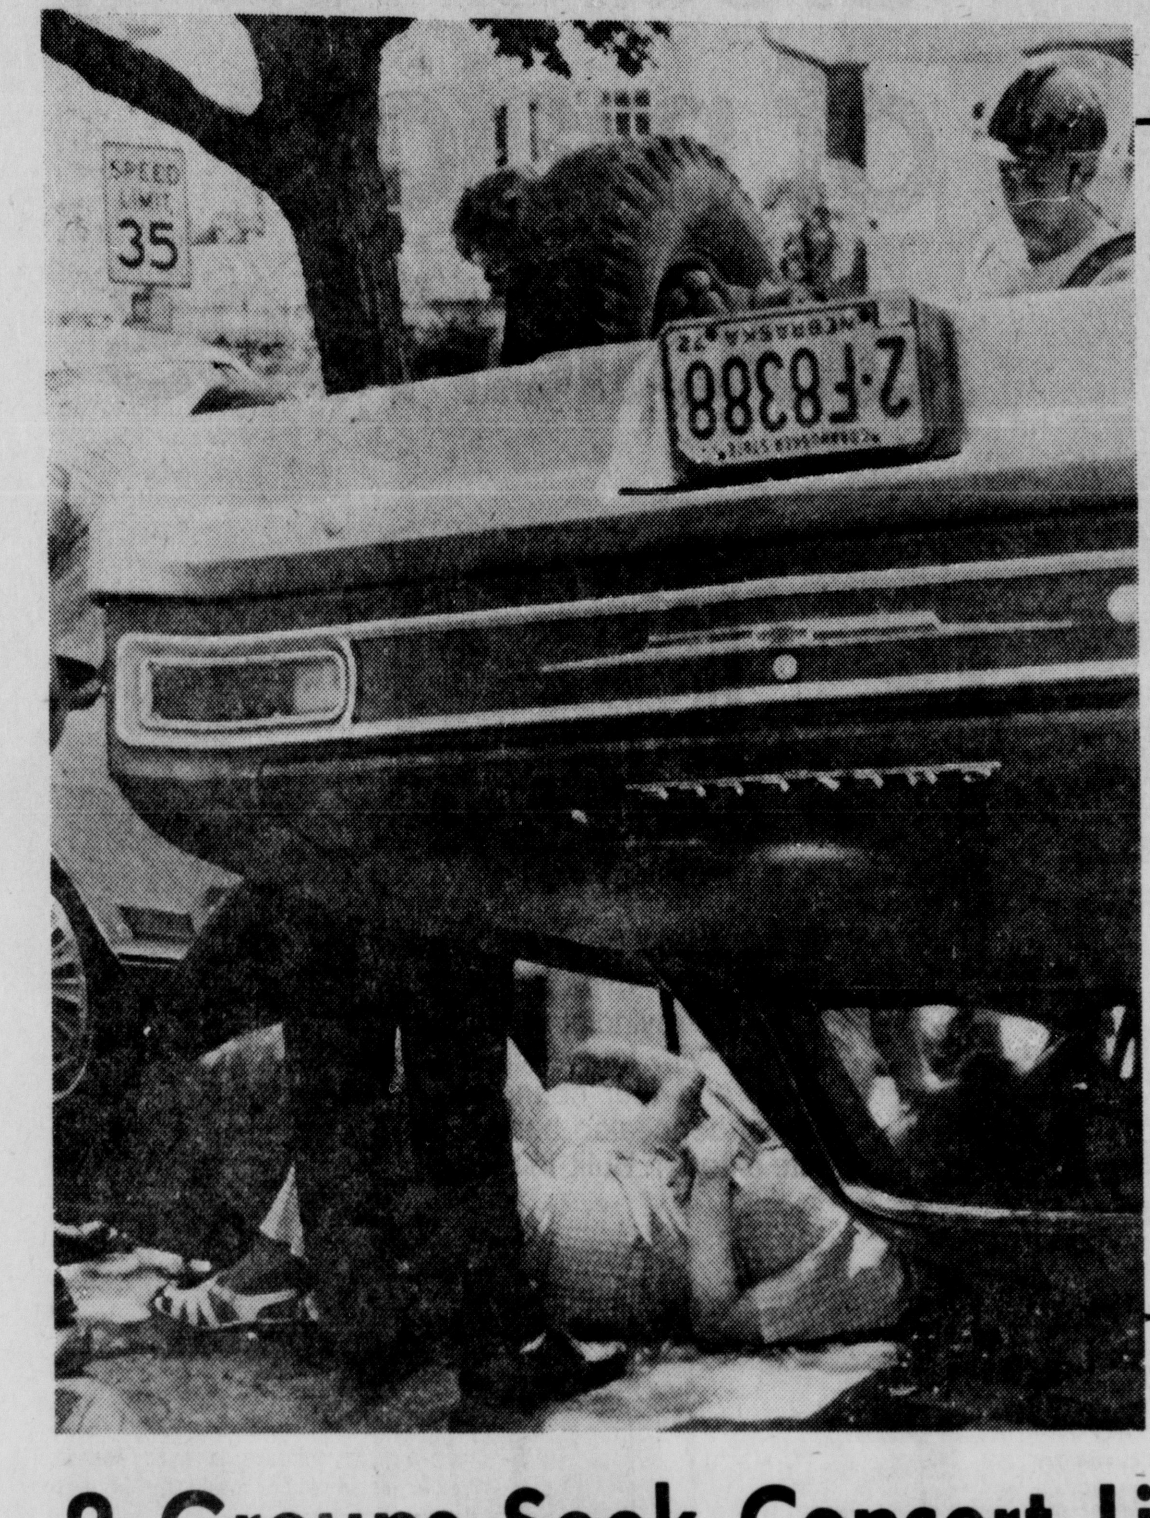
The question in Nuernberger's eyes is not one of specific road plans for the future, but of protection against unforeseeable growth.

And Commissioner Robert Colin, who usually supports Nuernberger's proposals, said the public outcry against the city's proposed widening of 48th and Holdrege Sts. is an example of the type of thing Nuernberger is trying to avoid.

A transportation plan covering county roads will become a part of the countywide comprehensive plan, and thus could be used for right of way decisions. But that comprehensive plan is six months to a year down the road, and the County Board wants something to help them in the interim.

In frustration the board delayed approval of an agreement with the state for six county road and bridge projects. The agreement is a major step in obtaining federal funding, and other similar agreements have been routinely passed by the board.

One of the project agreements delayed was for a replacement bridge on Old Cheney Rd. in Wilderness Park. That bridge, which could involve the taking of additional parkland for right of way, has already brought citizen opposition.



Two Hurt When Car Overturns

Two Lincoln women escaped serious injury Tuesday afternoon when their car overturned after a collision at 13th and A.

Ruth M. Kadavy, 51, of 1324 S. 11th was treated for bruises and scrapes. Dorothy E. Clark, 54, of 1324 S. 11th was treated for back pains. Both women were released from Lincoln General.

Police said Kadavy was driving the car east on A when it collided with a car being driven north on 13th by Gerald L. Fiala, 20, of 1602 S. 13th. After overturning, the Kadavy car was struck again by a car being driven west on A St. by Helen M. Muggy, 53, of 6815 Orchard, police said.

Muggy and Clark were uninjured. No tickets were issued, police said.

2 Groups Seek Concert Licenses

Groups hoping to get into the local outdoor concert business are jumping on the bandwagon.

Two groups are seeking amusement licenses similar to the one recently granted to Belmont Enterprises for a June 28 music festival at Arrow Airport.

The one-night amusement license was granted by the County Board just three days before the festival. The event was opposed by local citizens and some city and county officials.

A public hearing on an amusement license for an outdoor concert planned for Aug. 9 at Midwest Speedway will be held at the board's July 29 meeting.

Speedway Concert

Season's Best Promotions, the group sponsoring the event, is proposing to use the speedway from 6 p.m. until midnight, and is expecting from 3,500 to 5,000 people, according to attorney R. Scott Rager, the same attorney who represented the Belmont Enterprises.

Season's Best Promotions plans to employ 10 security personnel from a local agency, and will serve no alcoholic beverages, Rager said.

A special board meeting July 25 at 10 a.m. will be held for a public hearing on an "Outrageous Musical Spectacle," a periodic Sunday afternoon concert sponsored by Outrage Music.

The concerts, which are expected to draw about 500 people, will be held on the property near Wilderness park owned by David Hibler, local promoter and University of Nebraska-Lincoln instructor.

The public hearing will be held just two days before the first concert on Sunday, July 27.

Teenage Crowd

These Sunday rock concerts, geared to a teenage crowd 13 and 18 years of age, will feature local musical talent and will be used to promote Outrage Records, a local firm, according to Hibler.

The concerts will be held from 2 p.m. to 6 p.m. Sundays, said Hibler, who is seeking an annual, not a one-time, amusement license. The question of one-day licenses, as opposed to the normal one-year, licenses came up after Belmont Enterprises was issued a license which read for "one year," while the County Board's motion on the license limited it to one night only.

The County Attorney has assured the board that they can grant a license for a specific time period, Chairman Jan Gauger said. And Commissioner Bruce Hamilton told the groups he would be more likely to vote for a one-day license than a one-year amusement licence for outdoor, concert-type events.

The new groups also ran into an unexpected ruling by the County Attorney Ron Lahners requiring that legal advertising for the public hearing run 14 consecutive days before the hearing.

In the past legal notices on amusement license hearings have been advertised once each week for two consecutive weeks before the hearing, according to personnel in the County Clerks Office.

Sheriff's Opposed

The Sheriff's Department, which agreed to help patrol the Arrow Airport concert only after the Board indicated they wanted to grant the license, will continue to oppose such events, according to Chief Deputy Del Zieman.

The Department will probably continue to oppose these type of events because of the type of people they draw and the type of activitites which take place, Zieman said.

But the Department is willing to work with individuals sponsoring the events if the County Board grants a license, he said.

In other action, the board granted permission for the Pla-Mor Ballroom to operate a beer garden at the annual Czech Polka Festival, Aug. 16 and 17, but delayed action on the agreement between the city and county on housing country prisoners in the city jail.

The commissioners have asked the City to revise daily rate figures for jail prisoners. The city originally proposed that the county pay $7.50 for each county prisoner housed in the jail, no matter how many meals the prisoner ate.

Of the daily cost, about $5.50 is administrative expenses and another $1.70 covers the cost of three meals.

Board Can't Decide Who Should Be Enforcer

The County Board wants to enforce its 12-year-old subdivision regulations, but it can't decide which department should have the job.

The regulations, passed in 1963, require building permits for any structure on rural land which is not a homestead. And a homestead is defined as having 20 ore more acres and earning a farm income of at least $1,000 a year.

Over the years there has been little apparent enforcement, according to Planning Director Doug Brogden. The good guys have threaded their way through the permit procedure; others have simply built without a permit with no later penalties, he said.

"These rules and regulations are all a joke if we don't enforce them," Commissioner Bruce Hamilton said. Everyone at the Tuesday morning staff meeting agreed.

And sometime during the next two weeks of budget hearings the board will decide who will do the legwork for enforcement, Chairman Jan Gauger said.

For the past year the county sheriff's office and the county engineering crews have reported possible illegal construction sites.

These were normally forwarded to the City Building Inspection Division, where they were checked to see if permits had been issued.

The possible illegal construction sites, often with no indication of owner or specific address, were sent on to the county attorney's office where they accumulated in a thick folder.

No one had been authorized to do the leg work necessary to follow up on the complaint, Dept. Atty., Mike Heavican said.

Planning Director Broaden has proposed that a full-time enforcement person could be added to his staff at a first-year cost of more than $21,000 including $15,000 in wages.

Commissioner Robert Colin feels that the proper place for enforcement personnel would be with the Sheriff's Department, which already has staff enforcing the mobile home licensing.

Commissioner Hamilton thinks the most logical place would be the City Building Inspections Division, which already issues the building permits for the county and knows the subdivision regulations.

But Hamilton is more interested in getting the issue resolved than fighting for a certain department. "I don't want to have 12 more meetings this year to decide where it goes," he said.

Profits On County Investments Reported Up 3,300% Since 1963

The money the county has earned from investment of general funds has risen almost 3,300% since 1963, according to County Treasurer Frank Golden.

The investment earnings in 1963 were $18,000 compared to $589,913 in 1975, Golden's figures show.

In the 1960's the earning figure jumped around, rising in some years and falling in others. But since Golden was elected county treasurer in 1971, the earning figure has always increased, he pointed out.

The earnings for each year since 1971 were $75,645.74 in 1971, $125,272.14 in 1972, $230,145.15 in 1973, $482,275.16 in 1974 and $589,913.99 in 1975.

The treasurer's office currently has 91.54% of the county funds invested in interest bearing accounts, according to the July monthly report to the County Board.

The investments in 18 county banks range from $9,500 in the Firth State Bank to $8,940,927.78 in First National Bank.

Lincoln Youths Collecting Cash Not Paper Boys

Two Lincoln boys have apparently decided that a paper route can be profitable — especially if you just collect the money.

Police received five complaints Tuesday concerning two white juveniles who represented themselves as Lincoln Journal paper boys and collected a total of $17.80 from five apartment house residents at 2626 N. 49th.

The boys collected $4 from each of four residents and $1.80 from a fifth during their June 27-28 rounds, police said.

Engineer, Commissioners Lock Horns Over Right Of Way Issue

By NANCY HICKS
Star Staff Writer

Threatening to use their budget control over the Engineering Department, two of the three county commissioners locked horns with County Engineer Marv Nuernberger again Tuesday over the road right of way issue.

Commissioners Jan Gauger and Bruce Hamilton, both strong planning supporters, have repeatedly asked Nuernberger to work with the Planning Department on a transportation plan which can be used to determine how much right of way land subdividers should be required to deed to the county.

"I'm ignorant . . . I don't understand," admitted Hamilton, saying he would no longer forfeit his responsibility by merely "rubber stamping" all engineering proposals. "I'm going to quit voting yes on those I don't understand."

"What I want is a list of which roads require 50 feet of right of way (one-half of the road) and which require 40 feet and why," Hamilton said.

And after a half hour of continued debate, Chairman Gauger said in frustration, "The County Board has only budgetary control over departments. I guess we'll have to use that."

The debate was an old one, one which has been argued at half a dozen meetings during the past month, with no apparent progress toward a solution.

The issue stems from a state law and a subsequent county subdivision ordinance which allows the County Board to require that subdividers (either for large platted areas or for single-home subdivisions) dedicate a minimum of 40 feet of right of way on all major county roads.

No one disagrees that the board has this authority. The question is just what is a "major" road and when should the county ask for more than the minimum 40 feet dedication – or 80 feet for the total roadway.

Nuernberger contends that in order to protect both landowners and the county, the board needs at least a 50-feet dedication along all county roads.

The 50-foot right of way (100 for the total road) means that land owners will not build next to the road nor put in shrubs and trees adjacent to the road.

This will save the county taxpayers money later, when and if the road is improved or widened. For then the county will have to pay damages to those propertys with improvements too close to the roadway.

Mrs. Gauger and Hamilton contend that not all county roads will need the 100 feet nor even 80 feet of right of way and they want some sort of policy on paper telling which roads are major and which roads may be future heavily traveled roadways.

And this plan must be a cooperative effort between engineering and planning, they say.

Nuernberger says he has plans — the one- and six-year road plans already approved by the board and the Planning Commission. However, neither of these plans specify right of way, only which roads are expected to be improved in the near future.

And planning beyond six years for roads is practically impossible, Nuernberger says. No one really knows which roads may become major in the distant future, he contends.

The question in Nuernberger's eyes is not one of specific road plans for the future, but of protection against unforeseeable growth.

And Commissioner Robert Colin, who usually supports Nuernberger's proposals, said the public outcry against the city's proposed widening of 48th and Holdrege Sts. is an example of the type of thing Nuernberger is trying to avoid.

A transportation plan covering county roads will become a part of the countywide comprehensive plan, and thus could be used for right of way decisions. But that comprehensive plan is six months to a year down the road, and the County Board wants something to help them in the interim.

In frustration the board delayed approval of an agreement with the state for six county road and bridge projects. The agreement is a major step in obtaining federal funding, and other similar agreements have been routinely passed by the board.

One of the project agreements delayed was for a replacement bridge on Old Cheney Rd. in Wilderness Park. That bridge, which could involve the taking of additional parkland for right of way, has already brought citizen opposition.

However, he says this is the exception and under normal circumstances his men aren't allowed to fly at less than 5,000 ft. altitude. He says the only other possibility he can think of is the fly-by that was performed in conjunction with Memorial Day services. ACTION LINE: A new city ordinance has amended the laws dealing with railroad crossings, explains police inspector Dean Leitner. However, he notes it's still a violation if the motorists tries to race a train through the crossing.

Riccardo Named Chrysler Chairman

DETROIT (AP) — John J. Riccardo was named chairman of Chrysler Corp. Tuesday and said the steps needed to restore profitability to the auto company have been set in motion by outgoing chairman Lynn Townsend.

Riccardo was elected to succeed Townsend at a board of directors' meeting in New York. Eugene A. Cafiero was selected to succeed Riccardo as president of the nation's third largest automaker.

The board accepted Townsend's early retirement, effective Oct. 1, and unanimously ratified his recommendation to elevate Riccardo and Cafiero, who is now automotive vice president.

Riccardo said management policies established under Townsend to lift the firm out of the slump that cost it $52 million last year would be continued. "At the present time, the plans in progress have come about jointly. There may be new decisions in the near future as market conditions change."

"We're very encouraged by what we see in the marketplace," he added. "And we expect solid growth and considerable improvement in sales."

Cafiero said: "We realized a few years ago that we would have to take this company in another direction. We already are doing things differently. We're entering a radically different world and for an organization to survive it will need the flexibility to move very quickly with changing times."

Townsend said there was no pressure on him to quit. He said staying on until age 65 would have had him in a top post at the firm for a quarter-century and said that a company so large shouldn't be dominated by one man.

Although Townsend remains chairman for nearly another three months, he made it clear at a news conference that an "orderly transition in management" had taken place with the board's action Tuesday.

Townsend, 56, who in nine years as chairman had transformed Chrysler from a struggling $2 billion company with only 8% of the auto market to an $11 billion-a-year multinational with a 15% market share, announced an early retirement last week amid criticism over Chrysler's record loss of $52 million last year.

Riccardo, a Chrysler employe since 1959 and the No. 2 man since 1970, was Townsend's hand-picked successor. His selection Tuesday to succeed Townsend was all but assured last week when Riccardo was named to head Chrysler's operations committee.

Unlike Townsend and Riccardo, whose backgrounds were mostly in money and financial matters, Cafiero, 49, worked his way through the automotive end of the business. He joined Chrysler's automotive body division in 1953, and rose to the No. 3 spot of automotive executive vice president last December.

ACTION LINE: Col. Fred H. Bailey Jr. says there were two special photo flights over Lincoln recently that went over the city at an altitude of 2,000 feet. However, he says this is the exception and under normal circumstances his men aren't allowed to fly at less than 5,000 ft. altitude. He says the only other possibility he can think of is the fly-by that was performed in conjunction with Memorial Day services. Bailey says very close track is kept of flights and if his office is contacted quickly he would be able to determine whether an errant pilot descended below the 5,000 foot limit.

The other day I saw several cars go around a railroad crossarm while the lights and bells were operating. The crossarm was down across the street and a police car was right there, but the officer did nothing. Can ACTION LINE find out why the law isn't being enforced?

—Safety Conscious, Lincoln

ACTION LINE: A new city ordinance has amended the laws dealing with railroad crossings, explains police inspector Dean Leitner. He says its now legal for motorists to cautiously go through the crossing when a train is stopped or switching. However, he notes it's still a violation if the motorists tries to race a train through the crossing.

Riccardo Named Chrysler Chairman

DETROIT (AP) — John J. Riccardo was named chairman of Chrysler Corp. Tuesday and said the steps needed to restore profitability to the auto company have been set in motion by outgoing chairman Lynn Townsend.

Riccardo was elected to succeed Townsend at a board of directors' meeting in New York. Eugene A. Cafiero was selected to succeed Riccardo as president of the nation's third largest automaker.

The board accepted Townsend's early retirement, effective Oct. 1, and unanimously ratified his recommendation to elevate Riccardo and Cafiero, who is now automotive vice president.

Riccardo said management policies established under Townsend to lift the firm out of the slump that cost it $52 million last year would be continued. "At the present time, the plans in progress have come about jointly. There may be new decisions in the near future as market conditions change."

"We're very encouraged by what we see in the marketplace," he added. "And we expect solid growth and considerable improvement in sales."

Cafiero said: "We realized a few years ago that we would have to take this company in another direction. We already are doing things differently. We're entering a radically different world and for an organization to survive it will need the flexibility to move very quickly with changing times."

Townsend said there was no pressure on him to quit. He said staying on until age 65 would have had him in a top post at the firm for a quarter-century and said that a company so large shouldn't be dominated by one man.

Although Townsend remains chairman for nearly another three months, he made it clear at a news conference that an "orderly transition in management" had taken place with the board's action Tuesday.

Townsend, 56, who in nine years as chairman had transformed Chrysler from a struggling $2 billion company with only 8% of the auto market to an $11 billion-a-year multinational with a 15% market share, announced an early retirement last week amid criticism over Chrysler's record loss of $52 million last year.

Riccardo, a Chrysler employe since 1959 and the No. 2 man since 1970, was Townsend's hand-picked successor. His selection Tuesday to succeed Townsend was all but assured last week when Riccardo was named to head Chrysler's operations committee.

Unlike Townsend and Riccardo, whose backgrounds were mostly in money and financial matters, Cafiero, 49, worked his way through the automotive end of the business. He joined Chrysler's automotive body division in 1953, and rose to the No. 3 spot of automotive executive vice president last December.

Kennecott Asks Reconsideration Of FTC Order

New York (AP) — Kennecott Copper Co. has asked the Federal Trade Commission to reconsider its order that Kennecott divest itself of the Peabody Coal Co.

Kennecott said it was urging the new study because changing U.S. energy patterns led it to believe the retention of the big coal producer would enhance, not restrict, competition.

Plant sales are booming.

Lincoln greenhouses and florists estimate a 300-500% increase in plant sales since the "big boom" hit about three years ago.

That's just the beginning. New plant shops have sprouted while established greenhouses have branched out to sell their greens in more-traveled locations. In the meantime, department and discount stores have begun to stock plants.

The temptation to indulge in "just one more" is everywhere. And it's working. The plants literally walk out of the stores, disappearing from the shelves to be replaced by more pots of green.

Most plant shop owners and managers attribute the plant boom to the ecology spirit.

There's also a "bit of a fad to it," admitted Arthur Danielson of Danielson's Floral.

Chan Tyrrell Sr., of the shop by the same name, says not only is plant-loving infectious, but it carries a tinge of "keeping up with the Joneses."

Those interviewed by the Star said the popularity of individual plants seems to go in cycles.

Right now, ferns are the biggest sellers at Tyrrell's. Unfortunately, "the availability isn't that great," Tyrrell said. "You're dealing with nature; you can't manufacture them."

Trailing ferns as top sellers are the schefflera (umbrella plant), and the Dracena marginata.

Danielson said anything suitable for a hanging basket is tops in demand, especially varieties of Swedish ivy, wandering Jew and bridal veil.

At Green Fingers, an outgrowth of the plant movement, dracenas and philodendrons top the popularity charts, said Stewart Nelsen.

More Than Green Thumb Needed For Healthy Plants

By LINDA OLIG
Star Staff Writer

It takes more than a green thumb to keep a plant alive, much less make it thrive.

The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) has found "a high incidence of plant death in the first six to nine months" after purchase, William Erxleben, director of the FTC's regional office in Seattle, Wash., told the Star in a telephone interview.

"We have reason to believe" the premature death of many plants "is the result of improper and inadequate care" by people whose interest in plants is just budding, he said.

In May, the FTC launched an industry-wide investigation of growers, wholesalers and retailers of indoor and outdoor plants to determine if they are violating an FTC regulation by failing to provide plant buyers with enough information to save their purchases from a premature death.

Houseplants returned to popularity about three years ago and have since grown to a multi-billion dollar business.

Erxleben, whose office is heading up the study, sees the plant boom as a "return to nature, a revulsion against the concrete, the freeways, the mechanical things that surround us."

But he thinks "consumers are entitled to have information before they buy." From that information they can make more educated decisions about whether or not to make the investments, where to place them in their homes — on a sunny windowsill or shady corner, on the floor or on high.

New Tags

The investigation, an outgrowth of "a staff member's personal evaluation of her own plant purchases," will center upon the need for and consumers' desire for informational tags on each plant, identifying the plant by its scientific and common names, how-to instructions for care of the specific plants' plus toxicity warnings on those plants that could cause rashes or even death if handled or eaten.

Poison control centers have witnessed "a marked increase" roughly "paralleling the plant boom" in frequency of plant poisonings, Erxleben said.

He equated the potential need for toxicity warnings on plants to those on paint or turpentine cans.

Weighted against the need and desire for information will be the cost to retailers or wholesalers who would be responsible for providing the information, he said.

Tyrrell's, Danielson's and Richman Gordman — which also sells plants a-plenty — provide care and identification tags for their customers, the managers said.

DISH GARDENS
& GREEN PLANTS

Light: Plenty of indirect or diffused sunlight. Artificial light is also helpful.

Temperatures: From 70° to 75° during day, lower at night preferred. Avoid cold drafts or any direct source of heat which can be harmful even for short periods. This includes top of TV set which is hot when set is on.

Water: Overwatering is fatal! When soil is dry to touch, water thoroughly but don't allow plants to stand in water. In containers without drainage holes, periodically dig to bottom of soil to insure that excess water is not collecting.

Fertilizer: Use house plant fertilizer as directed by manufacturer.

"We aim to have every plant that goes out have them," said Arthur Danielson.

Chan Tyrrell Sr. said his employhes try "very desperately to inform customers to the best extent," even asking where a plant is to be placed to insure proper lighting.

Tyrrell and Danielson agreed it is difficult to keep the grower-provided tags on hand because of the popularity of certain varieties.

Hue And Cry

"There may be a hue and cry but growers do a great job" providing information about a plant, "especially if it is a very nice plant," Danielson said.

In his 45 years in the floral and plant business, Bob Danielson said he has never heard of a person becoming ill or dying from plant poisoning. Nevertheless, the Society of American Florists is conducting its own investigation of plant poisoning, he said.

Campbell's Nurseries started marketing houseplants a year ago, said Maxine Standley. Customers are not provided care-tags but "we do try to inform them and let them know we will help with problems."

Green Fingers also has no printed material to accompany every plant that goes out of the store. "We talk to them (customers)" and tell them about proper care at the time of purchase, Stewart Nelsen said.

What's more, Green Fingers's service includes counseling . . . and housecalls for people with problem plants.

Nelsen said it's disturbing when plants don't survive. But people "are coming around," he said. "They read and experiment."

Arthur Danielson agreed. "People are learning" by trial and error. "That's part of the fun."

If they don't succeed the first time, "they try again."

Opening lead — king of hearts.

It is often difficult to achieve par on a deal, especially when the competition is fierce and the participants are all accomplished practitioners of the game.

But here is a case from a team match where each player gave his all and the par result was achieved with honor to both sides.

East's spade bid was normal and South, convinced that the opponents could make at least a game after his partner's pass, made a provocative overcall of four clubs.

This posed quite a problem for West, who had no fully satisfactory bid available at this point. West came forth with five hearts, which was probably the best he could do under the circumstances, and East raised the ante to six, despite the minimum nature of his opening bid.

West wisely converted this to six notrump — a spade lead by North would have defeated six hearts — and East-West thus achieved par on the deal by arriving at their best possible contract. They would have scored 1,440 points for making six notrump, had they been allowed to play that contract.

But at this point North upset the applecart when he entered the fray with his miserable hand by bidding seven clubs. Not many players would bid seven with North's hand, but subsequent events proved him right.

East doubled and South went down five, thus reducing a potential loss of 1,440 points to 900 and saving 540 points in the process. Sacrifice bids in either rubber bridge or team of four play are not exactly the greatest joy in the world, but they do cut your losses to more acceptable proportions.

But here is a case from a team match where each player gave his all and the par result was achieved with honor to both sides.

East's spade bid was normal and South, convinced that the opponents could make at least a game after his partner's pass, made a provocative overcall of four clubs.

This posed quite a problem for West, who had no fully satisfactory bid available at this point West came forth with five hearts, which was probably the best he could do under the circumstances, and East raised the ante to six, despite the minimum nature of his opening bid.

West wisely converted this to six notrump — a spade lead by North would have defeated six hearts — and East-West thus achieved par on the deal by arriving at their best possible contract. They would have scored 1,440 points for making six notrump, had they been allowed to play that contract.

But at this point North upset the applecart when he entered the fray with his miserable hand by bidding seven clubs Not many players would bid seven with North's hand, but subsequent events proved him right.

East doubled and South went down five, thus reducing a potential loss of 1,440 points to 900 and saving 540 points in the process Sacrifice bids in either rubber bridge or team of four play are not exactly the greatest joy in the world, but they do cut your losses to more acceptable proportions.

Houseplants, used so frequently today for house trimming, are a potential source of danger, particularly to young children.

English Ivy, Philodendron and Dieffenbachia are only three of 700 kinds of poisonous indoor and outdoor plants, according to Julie Sullivan, director of community services at Childrens Memorial Hospital in Omaha.

"We have been seeing an increase in the number of incidents regarding plants," she said. "During 1974, we (the state's poison centers) received 560 calls out of a total of 8,000 calls on plants alone.

"Overall, this is an increase of 100 calls over the 1973 figures. I'm sure the 1975 figures will be even higher."

"No one really thinks of plants as being toxic," Ms. Sullivan added. "This is a real problem because as more and more people use them as decoration, they (plants) become pretty accessible to children."

However, she stressed that parents in increasing numbers are calling the poison centers to find out more information about plants.

Parents Aware

"Parents are becoming more aware of plants that are poisonous because it is a current trend and more is being published about plants," she said.

Also, Ms. Sullivan said through the Childrens Memorial speakers bureau, even more information about poisonous substances and items, including plants, is being disseminated to the public.

Among the precautions parents can take, she said, is to know what kinds of plants they have, whether or not they are toxic and if they are toxic, to what degree.

"With some plants, just a little bit could kill a child," she said.

Ms. Sullivan added that if a child eats part of an unfamiliar plant, be sure to describe it when you call a poison center or "bring it in so that we can identify it."

This process of plant identification should be made easier this fall, as researchers from Creighton University in Omaha are planning to compile a book on plants. It is hoped that the compilation will be made available to the general public, Ms. Sullivan said.

Teach Children

Although plants should be placed where they are not within a youngster's reach, Ms. Sullivan stressed that parents still should "teach their children that plants are things they shouldn't get into."

The best way to teach children that plants are nothing to eat is by setting a good example, she explained.

"Some people, when they are out in their yards, will pick up a leaf or piece of grass and chew on it," she said. "If you are in this habit, stop it, because if a child is around, he may do the same thing."

Parents can also ensure their children's safety by storing outdoor plant bulbs — such as tulip bulbs — in places which are inaccessible to children.

LOCAL CHILDREN . . . play with rhubarb, whose leaves are poisonous.

Also, parents should exercise extreme caution when fertilizing or spraying their plants with insecticide, she added.

"Most people will spray their houseplants outdoors," she said, "but you have to remember that when you bring them inside, the leaves will still be coated with the fertilizer or insecticide."

This situation presents a double hazard: Even if the plant itself is not poisonous, the fertilizer or insecticide is almost bound to be harmful if taken internally.

Year-Around Poisons

Be it winter or summer, there is always a danger of poisoning due to plants, Ms. Sullivan said.

Even if you don't have houseplants, at Christmas, many people have holly, mistletoe or poinsettia plants or sprigs in their homes. These three alone, when eaten, can cause death.

In the summertime, people often use sticks to roast weiners, she said. This is extremely dangerous because twigs from certain trees — such as the cherry tree — or plants — such as the oleander — are very poisonous and can cause death.

"You never really can tell," she explained. "I wouldn't want to chance it.

"Sometimes people just don't think of things which might be potentially dangerous to a child," she said. Therefore, persons should conscientiously examine their homes for possible health hazards.

Persons interested in learning about poisonous plants — indoor and outdoor — can call local poison centers or plant stores for information. Also, the poison center at Childrens Memorial Hospital in Omaha provides a small pamphlet listing common poisonous plants.

Cure Sweaty Palms With Self-Confidence

DEAR ABBY: A young lady wrote to you about her boyfriend's refusing to shake hands with anyone, and you said he probably had a "thing" about germs.

That's possible, but there could also be another reason, one that's plagued me for years — sweaty palms.

The only time my palms aren't wet is when I'm asleep. They even sweat in cold weather. In school, I used to wad up a handkerchief and keep it in my hand while I wrote. Otherwise, the sweat would drip off my palm onto the paper, the ink would run.

I hesitated to ask a girl to dance because I'd get the back of her dress wet before the first dance was over. And the hand I held would get wrinkled from sweat until it looked like she just did a sink full of dishes.

No doctor has been able to help me, so I just live it. It's rude to refuse to refuse to shake hands, so I just wipe my hands on my pants leg or coat at the last moment before shaking hands — but it's embarrassing.

I sympathize with anyone with this problem because I know how frustrating it is. If you should ever hear of a remedy, please let me know.

SWEATY PALMS

DEAR SWEATY: Doctors say it's nervousness. And the only remedy for nervousness is to build self-confidence and a better self-image. Work on it.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are both 63. His father is 84, and a more handsome, robust, vigorous man you couldn't hope to meet.

Eight years ago, when my father-in-law was 76, his wife died. A year later he married a 40-year-old maiden lady. To everyone's surprise, a year later they became proud parents of a baby boy!

Obviously, this child is my husband's half-brother. The problem is that it sounds so utterly ridiculous for a 63-year-old man to introduce a 6-year-old child as his brother. People either say, "You're kidding," or they look at him as though he's crazy. (Everyone assumes the boy is his grandchild.)

Is there some way to get around this since the child calls my husband by his first name?

PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: Why try to get around it? If an 84-year-old man doesn't mind being called "Daddy" by a 6-year-old, your 63-year-old husband shouldn't worry about introducing the boy as his brother.

To Your Good Health:

Low Adrenal Function Can Be Controlled

By George C. Thosteson, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can you please explain the term "low adrenal function"? Can it be detected by some test? Can it be controlled or improved with medication? — Mrs. R.S.A.

Yes to both questions.

It is also called Addison's disease (after Dr. Thomas Addison, the English physician who described it in 1849) — the adrenal gland is not producing sufficient hormones for the body's needs, as in maintaining proper blood pressure.

Before the discovery of cortisone drugs the disease was almost always fatal. Today, with available drugs, even severe cases need not handicap victims. Diagnosis is rather easy, both by chemical tests and classic symptoms — a brownish pigmentation of the skin and extreme fatigue. In blood chemical tests the sodium level is found to be low and the potassium level high.

Treatment is by hydrocortisone, which helps replace the hormones not produced in sufficient supply by the gland. Salt intake is increased also. Such therapy is continued for life.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband has severe cramps in his feet and calves, generally the full length of the shin bone. These come on both in the daytime and at night when he is relaxing or sleeping.

He is 53, not overweight, but he does work eight to 10 hours at a time on his feet. I have been told there is a vitamin that can give some relief. Can you tell us which one, or offer any suggestions? — Mrs. J.K.

Dear Doctor: What can I do for the foot and leg cramps I have from time to time? I have heard that vitamin E can help, but I cannot say it has helped me. I get the cramps usually at night.—Mrs. G.F.S.

Footwear should be examined and adjusted if necessary. Ill-fitting footwear is a common cause of leg and foot cramps, a fact nurses and others who must be on their feet over long periods learn quickly. Another thing, the legs should be examined for possible circulatory problems.

Various other measures to alleviate such problems comprise too long a list to include here. Among them is the use of quinine to be taken at bedtime, the possible need for a calcium supplement in the diet, and the need, in some cases, to reduce or cut down on smoking, a factor in poor circulation.

As to the vitamins, the use of vitamin E has been reported helpful in some cases of leg cramps. The recommended dosage is 100 units four times a day. But, as Mrs. G.F.S. reports, this is not a universally successful measure.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please write something on the subject of "carpal tunnel syndrome." I believe this is my problem. Recently, I suffered a Colles fracture and was in a cast for a month.

Since then I have had an abnormal sensation in the tips of the index and middle finger of the affected hand. I mentioned this to the orthopedist, and he said it might clear up or it might become permanent.

This is a very peculiar sensation in my fingers, and inasmuch as typing is the major part of my work, I am hoping you can hold out some hope for me that it might eventually disappear.

If not, do I have any way to obtain relief? Will there be any deterioration to my hand?—Mrs. V.T.L.

"Carpal" refers to the wrist. In each wrist there is a "tunnel," actually a tiny passage formed by the wrist bone and the tendons. The median nerve serving the thumb and two adjacent fingers passes through this space, which is just sufficient to allow the nerve through. Any encroachment on this nerve can produce the carpal tunnel syndrome, which is as you describe it, numbness, tingling and pain in the affected fingers.

For some reason, it is a problem middle-aged women encounter more often than men. But your Colles fracture would have been sufficient to disturb this nerve trunk and cause the symptoms. The syndrome can also result from a swelling around the nerve, a tumor, scar formation from a wrist fracture, or even from such occupational hazards as those involved in operating a pneumatic hammer.

Carpal tunnel has even been linked in some cases to use of the contraceptive pill, as swelling promoted by the pill interferes with the nerve tunnel. Relief comes with discontinuation of the pill.

Otherwise, treatment for the problem consists of injection of hydrocortisone into the tunnel. Thyroid extract has been helpful and, in severe cases, so has surgery to relieve pressure on the nerve.

HEALTH TIP

FROM THE NEBRASKA MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

More drownings come from boating accidents than swimming. Observing common-sense rules can reduce the number of deaths.

Most drownings might have been prevented simply by knowing how to stay afloat with clothes on, reports the Nebraska Medical Association. The majority of incidents occur while fishing; many by falling from docks and piers.

Swimmers should not swim at a beach or pool posted as dangerous. Never swim alone, but have a buddy who can at least seek help if something does happen.

Do not swim at night except in lighted and attended pools.

If you are swimming across a lake or river or performing other endurance tests, have a boat accompany you. Pay attention to posted depth signs, if you are not a good swimmer.

Never dive into strange waters where rocks or tree stumps may be concealed under water, or you do not know the depth.

POSTCARD

by Stan Delaplane

Nova Scotia — The province of Nova Scotia stands out in the Atlantic with only a finger hold on the mainland of Canada. It is an ideal fishing platform and Nova Scotians have harvested the sea for 400 years.

This warm, sunny morning a man came to the door and asked if I'd like to go fishing.

"We'll try for tuna," he said. He said this was not the Pacific tuna. Not the aku of Hawaii, the tuna Japan slices raw into sashime.

It's a traditional gift to newcomers, and the Tourist Bureau gave me a bottle of rich Black Diamond.

I keep it in sight of the typewriter. Not sure when I'll open it — you have to feel your way into these things.

I told the children. "You'll know when I sing out, 'All hands lay aft and splice the mainbrace.' "

(The children said: "The Cap'n's put on all sail. He'll bring her safe to harbor or he'll put her on the rocks.")

These are warm and sunny days beside the quiet cove of St. Margaret's Bay. On weekends people from Halifax drive out there to camp underneath the pines that fill the air with resin breath.

The Quarterdeck is a small motel of 10 Nova Scotia pine cabins and a main building with a small dining room.

Nova Scotia gets most of its summer visitors from the Canada mainland. Tourists from the eastern United States have discovered it — there are car ferries running up from Maine.

☆ ☆ ☆

Not many of the other States know these salt-sprayed maritime provinces. They're fairly untouched land — only 790,000 people in the whole province.

Houses remain much as they were a couple of hundred years ago. White frame buildings with wide porches. Rocking chairs and a creaking slat frame swing.

☆ ☆ ☆

The tuna now. I'd just figured out the recipe: "To one tuna, add a barrel of mayonnaise and a hundred pounds of chopped celery." That should be about right.

Unfortunately, we'll never know.

"We didn't catch anything," they said. "But we had a good sail."

Nova Scotia — The province of Nova Scotia stands out in the Atlantic with only a finger hold on the mainland of Canada. It is an ideal fishing platform and Nova Scotians have harvested the sea for 400 years.

This warm, sunny morning a man came to the door and asked if I'd like to go fishing.

"We'll try for tuna," he said. He said this was not the Pacific tuna. Not the aku of Hawaii, the tuna Japan slices raw into sashime.

He said: "This is the bluefin tuna. They run 700, maybe 800 pounds. The biggest one ever caught was over a thousand pounds."

I sent the children out with him—I'm more a two-pound trout man, fishing on a quiet river bank.

It's a traditional gift to newcomers, and the Tourist Bureau gave me a bottle of rich Black Diamond.

I keep it in sight of the typewriter. Not sure when I'll open it — you have to feel your way into these things.

I told the children. "You'll know when I sing out, 'All hands lay aft and splice the mainbrace.' "

(The children said: "The Cap'n's put on all sail. He'll bring her safe to harbor or he'll put her on the rocks.")

Northern Stockholders To Vote On Stock Split

Omaha (AP) — Stockholders of Northern Natural Gas Co. will vote this fall on a proposal that the company split its common stock two-for-one by declaring a 100% dividend.

The company also announced Tuesday its intention to consider an increase in the current quarterly dividend on common stock from 77.5 cents per share to 85 cents, effective with the fourth quarter dividend to be paid in December.

W.A. Strauss, chairman of the board and president, said a special meeting of stockholders will be held Oct. 22 in Omaha to consider the proposal to amend the company charter to increase the authorized common stock from 15 million shares, par value $10 per share, to 30 million shares with the same par value.

If approved, the company proposes a 100 per cent stock dividend be distributed to shareholders of record as of Oct. 27.

Stockholders also will be asked to vote on a proposal eliminating preemptive rights. Strauss said elimination will provide the company with greater financial flexibility in meeting its capital needs.

Stockholders of record on Sept. 2 will be eligbile to vote at the special meeting.

Northern Natural is a diversified energy company with interests in natural gas and and petrochemicals. The company supplies natural gas to customers in seven upper Midwest states.

Note Said, 'Please Give Victor A Proper Home'

Omaha (AP) — Douglas County authorities are investigating the abandonment of a phonograph.

The solid state record player was turned over by Mrs. Jan Owens, who said she found the machine on her doorstep a few days ago.

Attached to the phonograph was a note on an old envelope, which read:

"To whom it may concern: We couldn't give this phonograph a proper home. Please take him. His name is Victor."

The note was signed, "Very sorry, Mrs. RCA"

However, the phonograph was manufactured by General Electric.

Officials said the phonograph will be held to see if anyone reports it missing or stolen. If it is not claimed, the machine will be sold at auction.

Douglas County Probation Chief Quits

Omaha (AP) — Saying she has run into some "personal problems and philosophical differences," Dr. Janet Porter has tendered her resignation as the chief probation officer for Douglas County's Juvenile Court.

The resignation becomes effective July 15.

Mrs. Porter said there have been differences among Juvenile Court authorities about where the court is going, and what needs to be done, but that she does not want to place the blame for her resignation on any one person.

Presiding Juvenile Judge Joseph Moylan said he was not aware of any philosophical differences among the court's officials.

Judge Moylan said he had been aware for some time that Mrs. Porter was planning to leave. "I think she just wanted to try something else for awhile," he said.

Moylan said he would appoint chief deputy probation officer Michael King as acting chief probation officer. Mrs. Porter heads a staff of 13.

Births Give Zoo Largest Collection

Omaha (AP) — Omaha's Henry Doorly Zoo has achieved international recognition, according to its director, Dr. Lee Simmons.

Simmons said two amur leopards were born at the zoo Sunday, giving the zoo a total of eight, the largest collection in the world.

Only eight other zoos have any amur leopards, with a combined total of 22 between them at last count.

The status of the anur leopard, a native of North Korea, is severely endangered in the wild, Simmons said.

The amur cubs appeared to be doing fine Tuesday, but the first two weeks are always touch-and-go, Simmons said.

Lodge News — The "Sunday Journal and Star" has it.

Omaha Man Is Charged In Shooting

Omaha (AP) — An Omaha man has been charged in connection with the slaying of a cafe manager early Monday.

Second-degree murder charges have been filed against George F. Beagle, 40, in connection with the shotgun death of Pete G. Petros, 58.

Witnesses told police that Petros was shot as he attempted to subdue a man who entered the cafe with a shotgun.

The incident followed an argument at the cafe between the suspect and a woman.

Police said Beagle turned himself in Monday.

Two Wanted In Nebraska Are Arrested

Tucson, Ariz. (AP) — An Arizona man and his wife, both wanted by law enforcement officers in two Nebraska cities, have been arrested near here.

A spokesman for the FBI said Jerry T. Miller and his wife, Jennette, were arrested at their residence in nearby Marana.

A warrant from Omaha charges the two with unlawful flight to avoid prosecution on narcotics charges.

North Platte authorities are also looking for the Millers.

Police said the Millers pleaded guilty to charges of distributing a controlled substance, and were to have undergone a court-ordered, 90-day evaluation. However, they did not report for the beginning of the evaluation period, which was to have begun May 5.

Inflows High To Reservoirs On Missouri

Omaha (AP) — Army Engineers said inflows at the Fort Peck and Garrison Reservoirs on the Missouri River continued at high rates during the past weekend, resulting in an increase in lake levels.

The Reservoir Control Center of the Corps of Engineers' Missouri River Division said continued high inflows are expected the next few days, but tributary streams in the headwaters area of the basin have started to fall.

Brig. Gen. Philip T. Boerger, head of the division, said this should result in a decrease in reservoir inflows by the end of this week, barring further heavy rains.

Boerger said unusually high storage and release levels resulted in record daily power generation in the overall system during the weekend.

Crews Begin Fifth Summer At Bison Kill

Chadron (AP) — Crews moved in Monday to begin the annual summer excavation at the Hudson-Meng bison kill site about 24 miles northwest of Crawford.

This is the fifth summer scientific researchers have worked at the site where hundreds of bison were slaughtered an estimated 9,300 years ago.

Again heading the excavation is Dr. Larry Agenbroad, professor of earth science at Chadron State College.

This year's work will continue through Aug. 10, said Agenbroad, and will concentrate on the location of the area where the bison were actually killed.

So far, workers have found more than a dozen spear points and butchering tools along with the bones of about 300 bison. However, the exact spot where the animals plunged to their deaths, after being chased by hunters, has not been found.

Purchase Vote Slated

Des Moines (UPI) — Polk County voters will decide Oct. 21 if the country should buy the old post office building in Des Moines and remodel it for county offices at a cost of $5.8 million.

Hearing Set For Suspect In Homicide

A preliminary hearing for Wesley Harms Peery, 50, has been set for July 17 at 9 a.m. in Lancaster County Court.

Peery was arrested June 25 and charged June 27 with first degree murder in the shooting death of Mrs. Marianne Mitzner, 50, of 4928 N. 70th.

Her body was found June 6 in the Mitzner Rare Coin Shop, 6106 Havelock. She was bound and gagged and had been shot three times in the head.

The purpose of the hearing on July 19 is to determine if there is sufficient reason for prosecution of the case to continue in Lancaster District Court, a higher state court.

No plea will be entered in the case unless it reaches Lancaster District Court.

The preliminary hearing date was selected Tuesday under a new court procedure aimed at reducing delays.

Rate Of Nebraska Cancer Deaths Said Among Highest Nationwide

Omaha (AP) — A national study and a local investigation have ranked Nebraska high in certain cancer occurrences.

The studies were by the National Cancer Institute and Eppley Cancer Institute.

Nebraska ranked fourth among the 48 contiguous states and the District of Columbia in the rate of leukemia deaths among males, said Dr. Ezatollah Mahboudi, Eppley Institute epidemiologist.

Nebraska's rate was 9.84 male leukemia deaths per 100,000 population, compared to the national rate of 8.81 for males. Nebraska's rate for females was 6.31 compared to the nation's 5.74.

However, Mahboubi said, of particular interest is very high rates found in some counties.

For males, the highest rates were 17.3 in Wayne County, 14.4 in York, 13.7 in Saline and 13.3 in Dodge.

Two Nebraska counties, Butler and Colfax, have death rates for cancer of the colon that are among the highest in the U. S., said Mahboubi.

Eppley Institute Director Dr. Philippe Shubik said the counties need to be studied because the death rate is high for both males and females. He said it is uncommon for a county to have elevated death rates for both sexes.

Other Nebraska counties which showed high death rates for cancer of the colon in either men or women were Douglas, Johnson, Richardson, Lancaster and Cass.

When all types of cancer were combined in the National Cancer Institute study, Nebraska ranked below the national death rate and Douglas County above.

Health Board Okays Revised Pollution Law

The Lincoln-Lancaster Health Board Tuesday night approved a revised air pollution control ordinance that will bring present pollution control ordinances into agreement with state law.

The ordinance had been reviewed by the Air Pollution Control Advisory Board (APCAB) and will now go to the City Council for final approval.

If approved, the proposed ordinance will abolish the Air Pollution Control Appeals Committee and give the APCAB responsibility for hearing appeals, Health Director Dr. Ed Lyman said.

The proposed ordinance would also give the APCAB advisory status with the Board of Health, he said.

Motorcycle Rider Hurt In Wreck

A 37-year-old Lincoln man suffered a broken leg Tuesday afternoon when his motorcycle collided with a car at 27th and Vine, police said.

Sterling Brooks, of 637 N. 24th, was listed in fair condition at Lincoln General Hospital Tuesday night.

Police said Brooks was eastbound on Vine when his motorcycle collided with a car driven by 22-year-old Linda Canning, of 1631 A St., Apt. 2. Canning was turning south onto 27th, police said.

Trail Riders Find Small Towns Friendly

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The Lincoln Star is among the sponsors of the Oregon Trail Riders, seven Nebraskans who are retracing on horseback the 2,000-mile Oregon Trail that opened the west. Allen Maybee, group leader, is doing the drawings and Cher Hummel, another member, is writing the reports.)

By CHER HUMMEL

We have become acquainted with the small-town nostalgia traveling the southeastern Nebraska trails.

The trail has led us through Alexandria, Belvidere, Oak, Angus, Spring Ranch and Deweese, all small dots on the map but big places in genuine American hospitality and friendship.

As we rode into each of these towns, we were greeted with an enthusiasm we had not yet known. These communities are very proud of their Oregon Trail heritage, and the people keep its spirit alive.

Big Welcome

Arriving in Alexandria, we found community members out on the road looking for us. That night, the American Legion hall on main street was the setting of a festive pot-luck supper. Dressed in our leathers and buckskins, we talked about our travels and heard stories about the trail from area people.

Residents from the next towns along the trail, Belvidere and Hebron, treated us to a tour of their towns. In Belvidere, we also visited the Thayer County Museum, the result of a group effort by area citizens to keep the story of the past alive.

We then traveled to Oak, Deweese and Spring Ranch, each town's residents meeting us with the same warmness. In this part of Nebraska, the trail's past is very evident. We could follow the trail almost exactly, actually seeing in several places sets of wagon wheel ruts worn into the hills.

The trail narrows near Oak to a passage between the Blue River and a butte, wide enough for only one covered wagon at a time to pass.

Known as the narrows, this passage was in stories of 1864 Indian massacres and the kidnapping of an emigrant girl named Laura Roper.

Another story, that of the first woman hanged in Nebraska, was told to us in Spring Ranch. The woman, Elizabeth Taylor, and her brother were hanged from a bridge after they killed a neighbor, suspecting him of chopping wood on their land, according to Spring Ranch residents.

Small town nostalgia turned into a mood of tragedy as the trail led us into Angus. Here is a town with only a past, once very much alive with a car manufacturing plant. The town will die July 18, as the local post office is being "deleted."

Lowell is another example of a town killed by time. Riding through this former railroad town, all we saw was a small cluster of houses at a gravel intersection.

The only evidence of its history was a sign which read that Lowell's population stood at 2,500 in 1872. Then its streets were filled with homesteaders, supplying themselves to go west. As the railroad expanded west, Lowell lost its livelihood.

Graves Common

It has been said there is a grave every 50 yards along the Oregon Trail. Our travels took us past the grave of Susan Hail, 34, who died from drinking contaminated water.

According to a story, her husband bought a stone marker for the grave back east, then pushed it in a wheel barrow from St. Joseph, Mo., 350 miles to her grave. His name and fate are unknown.

We reached Ft. Kearney, the 320-mile mark, July Fourth. Ft. Kearney was built in 1848 solely for the protection of the emigrants.

Now at the end of our third week, we have gone 350 miles and continue west.

Whelan, Varner To Seek Okay, Assistance In Energy Research

Lt. Gov. Gerald Whelan and University of Nebraska President D. B. Varner will leave for Washington a week from Tuesday to probe the possibilities federal approval and assistance for what Whelan termed "exotic" energy production research, it was learned.

In an interview, Whelan told UPI he and Varner were particularly interested in the possibilities of conducting research programs on harnessing solar energy and wind to produce energy for industrial purposes.

"In Nebraska, we have a lot of wind and sun," the lieutenant governor said, and he said it should be harnessed for practical purposes, especially in an age when using other resources, such as petroleum, for energy production poses national and international problems.

Whelan said a series of visits are scheduled for July 16 with officials of the Federal Energy Resources Development Association and others.

He said that agency has asked for proposals in the energy production research area and, in short, the purpose of the trip is to find out just how serious the agency is in asking for proposals.

"We think they are in ernest but we want to know for sure before we get heavily involved in something," Whelan said.

The university is already involved in a joint project with the Lincoln Electric System in solar energy production for residential purposes. Construction on such an experimental house has been started.

But Whelan said he and the state energy office and NU officials felt that the real direction in future experimentation should be in industrial uses.

He said he and the others involved are particularly interested in industries which are now on so-called "interruptable" status when it comes to fuel supplies. Under those contracts with fuel suppliers, fuel may be cut off whenever a critical point in supply is reached.

Whelan indicated that one potential proposal is being considered but he said he could not disclose any specifics at this time.

On that point he would say only that the delegation, which will also include Dr. Robert Bourne of the NU Engineering College, would be seeking preliminary information preparatory to proposing "models and prototypes for use in Nebraska."

Whelan said the trip results from decisions by him and energy officials, as well as the university, that it was extremely important to get moving on the energy matter in Nebraska.

Hearing Set For Suspect In Homicide

A preliminary hearing for Wesley Harms Peery, 50, has been set for July 17 at 9 a.m. in Lancaster County Court.

Peery was arrested June 25 and charged June 27 with first degree murder in the shooting death of Mrs. Marianne Mitzner, 50, of 4928 N. 70th.

Her body was found June 6 in the Mitzner Rare Coin Shop, 6106 Havelock. She was bound and gagged and had been shot three times in the head.

The purpose of the hearing on July 19 is to determine if there is sufficient reason for prosecution of the case to continue in Lancaster District Court, a higher state court.

No plea will be entered in the case unless it reaches Lancaster District Court.

The preliminary hearing date was selected Tuesday under a new court procedure aimed at reducing delays.

Rate Of Nebraska Cancer Deaths Said Among Highest Nationwide

Omaha (AP) — A national study and a local investigation have ranked Nebraska high in certain cancer occurrences.

The studies were by the National Cancer Institute and Eppley Cancer Institute.

Nebraska ranked fourth among the 48 contiguous states and the District of Columbia in the rate of leukemia deaths among males, said Dr. Ezatollah Mahboudi, Eppley Institute epidemiologist.

Nebraska's rate was 9.84 male leukemia deaths per 100,000 population, compared to the national rate of 8.81 for males. Nebraska's rate for females was 6.31 compared to the nation's 5.74.

However, Mahboubi said, of particular interest is very high rates found in some counties.

For males, the highest rates were 17.3 in Wayne County, 14.4 in York, 13.7 in Saline and 13.3 in Dodge.

Two Nebraska counties, Butler and Colfax, have death rates for cancer of the colon that are among the highest in the U. S., said Mahboubi.

Eppley Institute Director Dr. Philippe Shubik said the counties need to be studied because the death rate is high for both males and females. He said it is uncommon for a county to have elevated death rates for both sexes.

Other Nebraska counties which showed high death rates for cancer of the colon in either men or women were Douglas, Johnson, Richardson, Lancaster and Cass.

When all types of cancer were combined in the National Cancer Institute study, Nebraska ranked below the national death rate and Douglas County above.

Health Board Okays Revised Pollution Law

The Lincoln-Lancaster Health Board Tuesday night approved a revised air pollution control ordinance that will bring present pollution control ordinances into agreement with state law.

The ordinance had been reviewed by the Air Pollution Control Advisory Board (APCAB) and will now go to the City Council for final approval.

If approved, the proposed ordinance will abolish the Air Pollution Control Appeals Committee and give the APCAB responsibility for hearing appeals, Health Director Dr. Ed Lyman said.

The proposed ordinance would also give the APCAB advisory status with the Board of Health, he said.

Motorcycle Rider Hurt In Wreck

A 37-year-old Lincoln man suffered a broken leg Tuesday afternoon when his motorcycle collided with a car at 27th and Vine, police said.

Sterling Brooks, of 637 N. 24th, was listed in fair condition at Lincoln General Hospital Tuesday night.

Police said Brooks was eastbound on Vine when his motorcycle collided with a car driven by 22-year-old Linda Canning, of 1631 A St., Apt. 2. Canning was turning south onto 27th, police said.

Proposed Schools Budget Up $240,000 In Waverly

Waverly — Schools Supt. Dale Siefkes has proposed a $2,036,034 budget for 1975-76, an increase of $240,000 over the current school year expenditures.

The District 145 Board of Education has set a special meeting at 8 p.m. Tuesday, in Hamlow Elementary School, to discuss the budget requirements. A public hearing will be held on Aug. 4.

Based on a district property valuation of $38 million in 1975-76 (up from $36.8 million currently), Siefkes said the district would require a 37.86 general fund mill levy. It is 32.19 this year.

The building fund levy of four mills will remain unchanged, Siefkes said, and the bond retirement fund requirement will decrease from 5.23 to 4.85 mills.

Thus the total mill levy could be increased by 5.29 mills, to 46.71, Siefkes said.

He attributed the proposed spending increases mainly to improved teacher salaries and inflation affecting supplies and utilities.

The district expects a slight reduction in state aid next year, but Siefkes said that could be offset by increased enrollments, which are projected. Federal funds will be slightly more than in this school year, and school funding from local sources will remain about the same.

At a Monday meeting, the board authorized the district to seek unpaid, second semester tuition for wards of the court assigned to Waverly schools. The amount due is $7,000, but the amount of reimbursement was only $1,387.

Siefkes said he'll file with the legislative claims board for the difference. Under the law providing state payment of tuition for wards of the court, $160,000 was appropriated initially, but first-semester costs were $122,000.

A $140,000 deficit appropriation for second-semester costs was never funded, thus the remaining $38,000 was pro-rated among eligible districts.

The problem of insufficient tuition payments for services rendered is statewide, Siefkes said. The Alliance schools have filed a similar claim, and North Platte came up far short.

In other business, the board approved policies on student suspension and expulsion, trips and conventions, and complaints about instructional materials. The latter policy sets up a review committee of educators, students and community members.

Board members approved a contract to educate 7th- and 8th-grade students from Cheney District 153, southeast of Lincoln. Five students will be served, and the contract is renewable after one year.

Nonresident student tuition rates were set for 1975-76: High school students, $2,500 annually; secondary, through contracting districts, $1,500; elementary, $1,000.

Nonresident tuition for special programs will be the applicable rate for grade level plus excess costs required in the programs. The rate for optional bus transportation for nonresident students was set at $140 annually per child.

Lahners Probes Regents Meet

Atty. Gen. Paul Douglas Tuesday said Lancaster County Atty. Ron Lahners would be in charge of an investigation to determine whether a University of Nebraska Board of Regents meeting last month violated the state's open meetings law.

Douglas turned the investigation over to Lahners during a meeting with him Tuesday.

Lahners said he would investigate to decide whether charges should be filed. Lahners said he would base his decision on "whether or not the terms and conditions of the statute have been violated."

Douglas had said he would probably not file charges unless there was a willful violation.

Lahners said he would let the wording of the open meetings law determine if charges should be filed against individuals who did not willfully violate the statute.

He said the investigation would take a few days. Regents who attended the meeting with University Athletic Director Bob Devaney could face a maximum fine of $50.

Sources have said that Devaney vigorously defended basketball ocach Joe Cipriano at the breakfast meeting held before the regents' regularly monthly business meeting.

A letter to the regents from the university corporate secretary, William Swanson, indicates all of the board members were invited to the breakfast meeting. However, public notices published in newspapers by the university did not mention the breakfast portion of the meeting.

Hospital Staff Paid To Stay Home

Neligh (UPI) — Antelope Memorial Hospital in Neligh believes it has found a way to save money and at the same time keep its employes happy as well as challenged.

In short, the hospital pays its nurses and other workers who volunteer to stay home days when the patient load is down.

Steve Urosevich, hopsital administrator, said the program was started this spring. Initially, the nursing staff endorsed it but it now covers all employes.

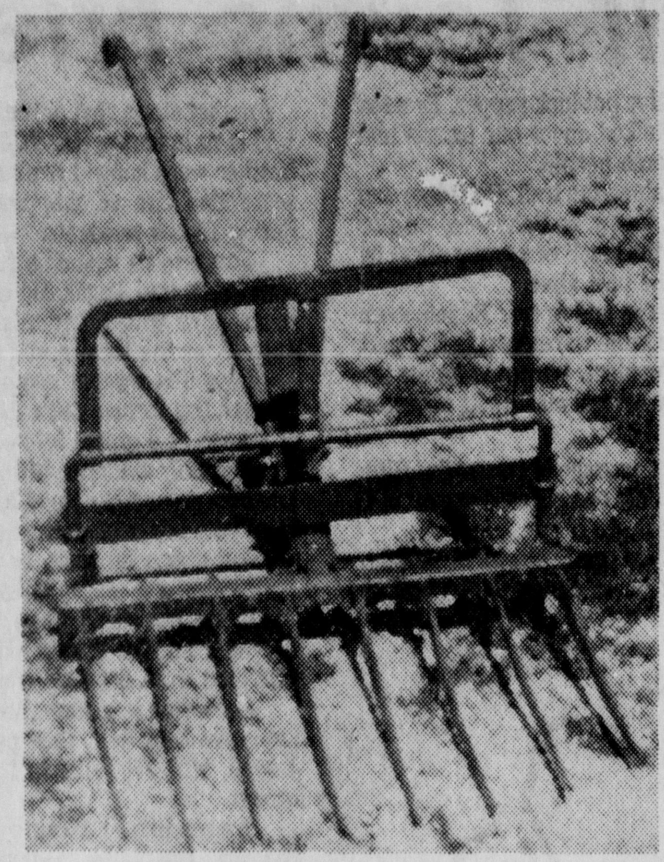
Under the program, about 90% of the staff participates, but can't take off more than two days in any one week.

The employes don't receive full pay, which means the hopsital has a chance to save money, and yet employes benefit by not having to show up only to find nothing to do. The administrator said that means when they are on the job they are more than ready and willing to work.

Beaches Closed

The State Game Commission said Tuesday all swimming beaches at Branched Oak Lake near Malcolm have been closed.

The commission said the closing was ordered so that commission personnel can deal with excessive growths of aquatic plants that have invaded the swimming areas.



MACHINE . . . also found potatoes.

'Whatsit' Identified As Straw Mover

Maurice Robertson's whatsit has been identified as a tool used to move straw away from a hand powered threshing machine.

John Armstrong of Lincoln said, "I saw them used in California in 1908 to move straw from threshing machines."

Les Seacrest of Lincoln also recalled using the gadget to separate potatoes from earth. "You had to plow first and then used the thing to get the potatoes to surface. It brought up clods and potatoes when the ground was ploughed first," he said.

The potatoes then had to be picked up and loaded into wagons.

Robertson received a number of calls on possible uses for the machine, but only Armstrong and Seacrest actually recalled having seen such a machine used.

Robertson who farms near Eagle found the machine while planting grain. The tines flattened the tires on his tractor and grain drill when he passed over the area where the machine was buried along a creek bank.

Public Hearing Set For Monday On Grand Island School Budget

Grand Island (AP) — A public hearing will be held Monday on the expenditure of more that $7.4 million to operate the Grand Island school system for the 1975-76 school year.

This represents an increase of approximately 17 per cent in the school budget.

Coupled with another $1.2-million for operation of federal and state programs, this brings the budget increase to 29% above last year.

The proposed budget will besult in an estimate increase of 2.66 mills for a total mill levy for the 1975-76 year of 61.79, compared to 59.13 of last year.

NEA Asks Boys Town Rehiring

Omaha (AP) — Delegates attending the Representative Assembly of the National Education Association (NEA) in Los Angeles have endorsed a resolution calling for the reinstatement of 19 Boys Town educators.

The 19 were notified earlier this year that their contracts would not be renewed.

The issue was raised Monday by the Nebraska delegation to the assembly, according to Phil Kaldahl, president of the Nebraska State Education Association.

The dismissed educators claim they were not afforded due process before being released, but Boys Town officials maintain that Boys Town is a private institution, and they are not required to grant due process for terminations.

A special NSEA committee studied the situation, and came to the conclusion that the dismissals were legal, but "unethical."

Kaldahl said the resolution approved Monday calls for the NEA to support the Boys Town teachers in obtaining due process and satisfactory employment conditions.

The resolution also calls for the NEA's executive director to work with the Boys Town Education Association to "secure a satisfactory resolution of problems at Boys Town," said Kaldahl.

Kaldahl added that part of the NEA's role in the dispute will be to explore legal routes under which the teachers might get their jobs back.

Some of those dismissed have already filed appeals to the Nebraska Equal Opportunity Commission.

Omaha Union Projectionists Picket Theater

Omaha (AP) — Members of the local projectionists union are picketing the Center Theater after theater owners said they do not need a union projectionist.

The theater was purchased last year by Omaha Junior Theater, with plans for a conversion into a live performance facility. Between shows, the owners plan to show second-run movies for additional income.

The Junior Theater board recently purchased and plans to install a fully automatic projection system, and will not need the services of a projectionist.

Board member June Russell said the theater's contract with the union expires June 1, and that the union was informed that a union projectionist was no longer needed.

Floyd Gibson, business agent for the Omaha and Council Bluffs Moving Picture Machine Operators Union, said, "They locked us out a week ago."

Gibson said the action replaces a union projectionist with another man, and that the union wants a union projectionist in the theater whenever movies are shown.

Trail Riders Find Small Towns Friendly

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The Lincoln Star is among the sponsors of the Oregon Trail Riders, seven Nebraskans who are retracing on horseback the 2,000-mile Oregon Trail that opened the west. Allen Maybee, group leader, is doing the drawings and Cher Hummel, another member, is writing the reports.)

By CHER HUMMEL

We have become acquainted with the small-town nostalgia traveling the southeastern Nebraska trails.

The trail has led us through Alexandria, Belvidere, Oak, Angus, Spring Ranch and Deweese, all small dots on the map but big places in genuine American hospitality and friendship.

As we rode into each of these towns, we were greeted with an enthusiasm we had not yet known. These communities are very proud of their Oregon Trail heritage, and the people keep its spirit alive.

Big Welcome

Arriving in Alexandria, we found community members out on the road looking for us. That night, the American Legion hall on main street was the setting of a festive pot-luck supper. Dressed in our leathers and buckskins, we talked about our travels and heard stories about the trail from area people.

Residents from the next towns along the trail, Belvidere and Hebron, treated us to a tour of their towns. In Belvidere, we also visited the Thayer County Museum, the result of a group effort by area citizens to keep the story of the past alive.

We then traveled to Oak, Deweese and Spring Ranch, each town's residents meeting us with the same warmness. In this part of Nebraska, the trail's past is very evident. We could follow the trail almost exactly, actually seeing in several places sets of wagon wheel ruts worn into the hills.

The trail narrows near Oak to a passage between the Blue River and a butte, wide enough for only one covered wagon at a time to pass.

Known as the narrows, this passage was in stories of 1864 Indian massacres and the kidnapping of an emigrant girl named Laura Roper.

Another story, that of the first woman hanged in Nebraska, was told to us in Spring Ranch. The woman, Elizabeth Taylor, and her brother were hanged from a bridge after they killed a neighbor, suspecting him of chopping wood on their land, according to Spring Ranch residents.

Small town nostalgia turned into a mood of tragedy as the trail led us into Angus. Here is a town with only a past, once very much alive with a car manufacturing plant. The town will die July 18, as the local post office is being "deleted."

Lowell is another example of a town killed by time. Riding through this former railroad town, all we saw was a small cluster of houses at a gravel intersection.

The only evidence of its history was a sign which read that Lowell's population stood at 2,500 in 1872. Then its streets were filled with homesteaders, supplying themselves to go west. As the railroad expanded west, Lowell lost its livelihood.

Graves Common

It has been said there is a grave every 50 yards along the Oregon Trail. Our travels took us past the grave of Susan Hall, 34, who died from drinking contaminated water.

According to a story, her husband bought a stone marker for the grave back east, then pushed it in a wheel barrow from St. Joseph, Mo., 350 miles to her grave. His name and fate are unknown.

We reached Ft. Kearney, the 320-mile mark, July Fourth. Ft. Kearney was built in 1848 solely for the protection of the emigrants.

Now at the end of our third week, we have gone 350 miles and continue west.

Whelan, Varner To Seek Okay, Assistance In Energy Research

Lt. Gov. Gerald Whelan and University of Nebraska President D. B. Varner will leave for Washington a week from Tuesday to probe the possibilities federal approval and assistance for what Whelan termed "exotic" energy production research, it was learned.

In an interview, Whelan told UPI he and Varner were particularly interested in the possibilities of conducting research programs on harnessing solar energy and wind to produce energy for industrial purposes.

"In Nebraska, we have a lot of wind and sun," the lieutenant governor said, and he said it should be harnessed for practical purposes, especially in an age when using other resources, such as petroleum, for energy production poses national and international problems.

Whelan said a series of visits are scheduled for July 16 with officials of the Federal Energy Resources Development Association and others.

He said that agency has asked for proposals in the energy production research area and, in short, the purpose of the trip is to find out just how serious the agency is in asking for proposals.

"We think they are in ernest but we want to know for sure before we get heavily involved in something," Whelan said.

The university is already involved in a joint project with the Lincoln Electric System in solar energy production for residential purposes. Construction on such an experimental house has been started.

But Whelan said he and the state energy office and NU officials felt that the real direction in future experimentation should be in industrial uses.

He said he and the others involved are particularly interested in industries which are now on so-called "interruptable" status when it comes to fuel supplies. Under those contracts with fuel suppliers, fuel may be cut off whenever a critical point in supply is reached.

Whelan indicated that one potential proposal is being considered but he said he could not disclose any specifics at this time.

On that point he would say only that the delegation, which will also include Dr. Robert Bourne of the NU Engineering College, would be seeking preliminary information preparatory to proposing "models and prototypes for use in Nebraska."

Whelan said the trip results from decisions by him and energy officials, as well as the university, that it was extremely important to get moving on the energy matter in Nebraska.

Traffic Accidents Leave Two Dead

By The Associated Press

Two Nebraskans lost their lives in traffic accidents Tuesday, raising the state's 1975 death toll to 158, compared with 186 on the same date last year.

The latest reported victim is an elderly Wausa woman.

The State Patrol said Edna Nelson, 77, died Tuesday morning when the car she was riding in collided with a semi tractor-trailer rig at the intersection of Highway 81 and Riverside Blvd., about one mile north of Norfolk.

The driver of the car, Annie A. Samuelson, 67, also of Wausa, was taken to a Norfolk hospital for treatment of multiple fractures and lacerations. A nurse at the hospital said Mrs. Samuelson was listed in guarded condition, and was being cared for in the hospital's intensive care unit.

The driver of the truck, Francis F. Davis, 65, of Atkinson, was not injured.

Investigators said the accident occurred as Mrs. Samuelson attempted to make a left hand turn off of Highway 81.

Earlier in the day, an Ogallala man, Michael Clouse, 19, was killed in a one-car mishap in Ogallala.

Police said Clouse was apparently a passenger in an open vehicle that ran into a brick building.

The owner of the vehicle, Jim Smythe of Ogallala, was critically injured, and was flown to a Denver hospital for treatment.

Plane Crash At Wilber Fatal To 2 Crete Men

Wilber (AP) — The two persons killed Monday night in a light plane crash near Wilber were identified Tuesday as Crete residents.

The Saline County sheriff's office identified the victims as David C. Heacock, 23, the pilot, and Carlton G. Morris, 36.

Their plane plowed into a milo field about two miles west and three and one-quarter miles south of Wilber.

Victor Vesely witnessed the crash on the Gilbert Slepicka farm. Vesely lives nearby and farms the vacant Slepicka land.

Authorities said the cause of the crash was not determined and the Federal Aviation Administration was investigating.

In December a similar proposal was defeated. The latest issue was placed on the ballot after a petition was presented to the village board.

The other three dead in the crash were also from Omaha. They were identified as Bruce Bell, 26, Mary Ronk, 23, and Sheryl Williams, 18.

Overseas Grain Sales 'Overestimated'

McCook (UPI) — A recent statement by a Kansas agricultural expert that the United States would soon make large sales of grain to the Republic of China and the Soviet Union was "grossly overestimated," Irv Friehe of McCook said Tuesday.

Friehe, board chairman of the Western Wheat Association, said he disagreed with a statement by Dr. Robert Lewis of Larned, Kan., that the sales to Russia would "make the 1972 deal look like peanuts."

Friehe said he assumes the Russians will buy American wheat this year but figures their purchases will amount to approximately 3 million metric tons, compared with 20 million in 1972.

He based his assumption on reservations made by the Russians for cargo vessels. He said the Soviet Union this week contracted with a foreign company to haul 1 million metric tons of cargo.

United States maritime unions require that a foreign country buying grain must split the cargo equally between the United States, foreign and country-of-origin ships.

Friehe's deduction is that 3 million metric tons are involved.

Concerning speculation over a deal with China, Friehe said U.S. traders and Chinese buyers do not see eye-to-eye on trade conditions, with China insisting on grain quality inspection at their ports and the United States wanting it done in this country. Because of this disagreement, he said, China refuses to make purchases.

Regional Cold Front Brings Relief

Movement of a cold front through parts of Nebraska Tuesday, including the southeast, brought a welcome drop in temperatures in addition to scattered thundershowers.

Although no rain fell in Lincoln, winds gusted up to 46 miles an hour at the airport during the afternoon. And during the period of blowing dust, temperatures dropped from 94 to 82 degrees.

Numerous thunderstorms were reported in northeast Nebraska during the morning, moving through the southeast in the afternoon.

At Columbus over an inch of rain was reported plus winds up to 52 miles an hour at the airport.

Small hail, heavy rain and gusty winds moved through the Waverly area in the middle of the afternoon.

Rains varied in the Omaha vicinity from .92 of an inch at the Southroads to .59 at 78th and Military.

Proposed Schools Budget Up $240,000 In Waverly

Waverly — Schools Supt Dale Siefkes has proposed a $2,036,034 budget for 1975-76, an increase of $240,000 over the current school year expenditures

The District 145 Board of Education has set a special meeting at 8 p.m Tuesday, in Hamlow Elementary School, to discuss the budget requirements. A public hearing will be held on Aug 4

Based on a district property valuation of $38 million in 1975-76 (up from $36.8 million currently), Siefkes said the district would require a 37.86 general fund mill levy. It is 32.19 this year.

The building fund levy of four mills will remain unchanged, Siefkes said, and the bond retirement fund requirement will decrease from 5 23 to 4 85 mills.

Thus the total mill levy could be increased by 5.29 mills, to 46 71, Siefkes said.

He attributed the proposed spending increases mainly to improved teacher salaries and inflation affecting supplies and utilities.

The district expects a slight reduction in state aid next year, but Siefkes said that could be offset by increased enrollments, which are projected. Federal funds will be slightly more than in this school year, and school funding from local sources will remain about the same.

At a Monday meeting, the board authorized the district to seek unpaid, second semester tuition for wards of the court assigned to Waverly schools The amount due is $7,000, but the amount of reimbursement was only $1,387.

Siefkes said he'll file with the legislative claims board for the difference. Under the law providing state payment of tuition for wards of the court, $160,000 was appropriated initially, but first-semester costs were $122,000.

A $140,000 deficit appropriation for second-semester costs was never funded, thus the remaining $38,000 was pro-rated among eligible districts.

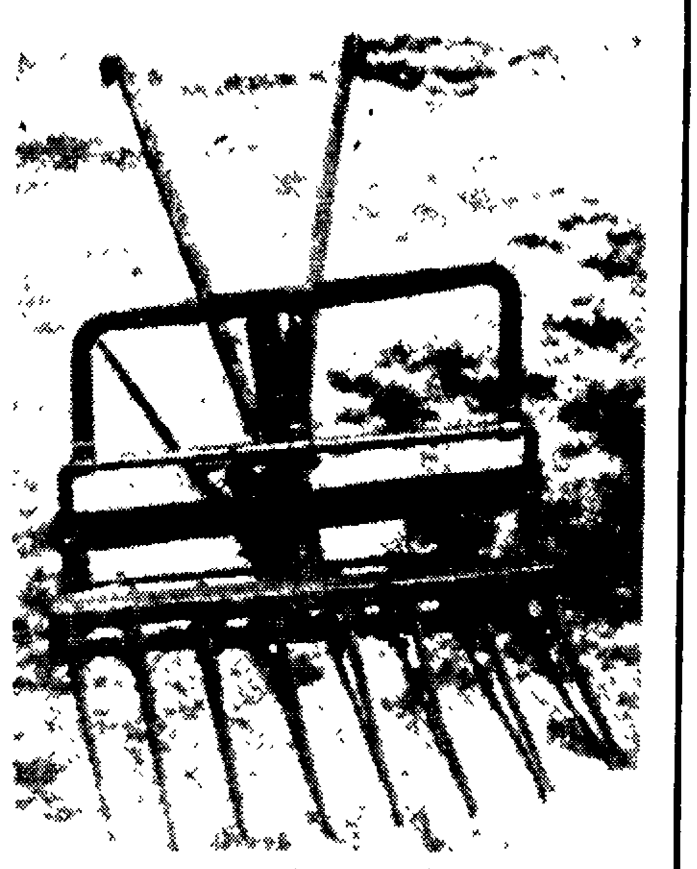
The problem of insufficient tuition payments for services rendered is statewide, Siefkes said The Alliance schools have filed a similar claim, and North Platte came up far short.

In other business, the board approved policies on student suspension and expulsion, trips and conventions, and complaints about instructional materials. The latter policy sets up a review committee of educators, students and community members.

Board members approved a contract to educate 7th- and 8th-grade students from Cheney District 153, southeast of Lincoln. Five students will be served, and the contract is renewable after one year.

Nonresident student tuition rates were set for 1975-76: High school students, $2,500 annually; secondary, through contracting districts, $1,500, elementary, $1,000.

Nonresident tuition for special programs will be the applicable rate for grade level plus excess costs required in the programs. The rate for optional bus transportation for nonresident students was set at $140 annually per child.



MACHINE . . . also found potatoes.

'Whatsit' Identified As Straw Mover

Maurice Robertson's whatsit has been identified as a tool used to move straw away from a hand powered threshing machine.

John Armstrong of Lincoln said, "I saw them used in California in 1908 to move straw from threshing machines."

Les Seacrest of Lincoln also recalled using the gadget to separate potatoes from earth. "You had to plow first and then used the thing to get the potatoes to surface. It brought up clods and potatoes when the ground was ploughed first," he said.

The potatoes then had to be picked up and loaded into wagons.

Robertson received a number of calls on possible uses for the machine, but only Armstrong and Seacrest actually recalled having seen such a machine used.

Robertson who farms near Eagle found the machine while planting grain. The tines flattened the tires on his tractor and grain drill when he passed over the area where the machine was buried along a creek bank.

NEA Asks Boys Town Rehiring

Omaha (AP) — Delegates attending the Representative Assembly of the National Education Association (NEA) in Los Angeles have endorsed a resolution calling for the reinstatement of 19 Boys Town educators.

The 19 were notified earlier this year that their contracts would not be renewed.

The issue was raised Monday by the Nebraska delegation to the assembly, according to Phil Kaldahl, president of the Nebraska State Education Association.

The dismissed educators claim they were not afforded due process before being released, but Boys Town officials maintain that Boys Town is a private institution, and they are not required to grant due process for terminations.

A special NSEA committee studied the situation, and came to the conclusion that the dismissals were legal, but "unethical."

Kaldahl said the resolution approved Monday calls for the NEA to support the Boys Town teachers in obtaining due process and satisfactory employment conditions.

The resolution also calls for the NEA's executive director to work with the Boys Town Education Association to "secure a satisfactory resolution of problems at Boys Town," said Kaldahl.

Kaldahl added that part of the NEA's role in the dispute will be to explore legal routes under which the teachers might get their jobs back.

Some of those dismissed have already filed appeals to the Nebraska Equal Opportunity Commission.

Omaha Union Projectionists Picket Theater

Omaha (AP) — Members of the local projectionists union are picketing the Center Theater after theater owners said they do not need a union projectionist.

The theater was purchased last year by Omaha Junior Theater, with plans for a conversion into a live performance facility. Between shows, the owners plan to show second-run movies for additional income.

The Junior Theater board recently purchased and plans to install a fully automatic projection system, and will not need the services of a projectionist.

Board member June Russell said the theater's contract with the union expires June 1, and that the union was informed that a union projectionist was no longer needed.

Floyd Gibson, business agent for the Omaha and Council Bluffs Moving Picture Machine Operators Union, said, "They locked us out a week ago."

Gibson said the action replaces a union projectionist with another man, and that the union wants a union projectionist in the theater whenever movies are shown.

$49.98 A Day Spent

Austin, Tex. (UPI) — Conventioners spent $394.2 million in Texas during 1974, an average of $49.98 per day. Statistics show the state attracted 2.3 million convention delegates during the year.

Lahners Probes Regents Meet

Atty. Gen. Paul Douglas Tuesday said Lancaster County Atty. Ron Lahners would be in charge of an investigation to determine whether a University of Nebraska Board of Regents meeting last month violated the state's open meetings law.

Douglas turned the investigation over to Lahners during a meeting with him Tuesday.

Lahners said he would investigate to decide whether charges should be filed Lahners said he would base his decision on "whether or not the terms and conditions of the statute have been violated."

Douglas had said he would probably not file charges unless there was a willful violation.

Lahners said he would let the wording of the open meetings law determine if charges should be filed against individuals who did not willfully violate the statute.

He said the investigation would take a few days. Regents who attended the meeting with University Athletic Director Bob Devaney could face a maximum fine of $50.

Sources have said that Devaney vigorously defended basketball ocach Joe Cipriano at the breakfast meeting held before the regents' regularly monthly business meeting.

A letter to the regents from the university corporate secretary, William Swanson, indicates all of the board members were invited to the breakfast meeting. However, public notices published in newspapers by the university did not mention the breakfast portion of the meeting

Hospital Staff Paid To Stay Home

Neligh (UPI) — Antelope Memorial Hospital in Neligh believes it has found a way to save money and at the same time keep its employes happy as well as challenged

In short, the hospital pays its nurses and other workers who volunteer to stay home days when the patient load is down.

Steve Urosevich, hopsital administrator, said the program was started this spring Initially, the nursing staff endorsed it but it now covers all employes.

Under the program, about 90% of the staff participates, but can't take off more than two days in any one week.

The employes don't receive full pay, which means the hospital has a chance to save money, and yet employes benefit by not having to show up only to find nothing to do. The administrator said that means when they are on the job they are more than ready and willing to work.

Beaches Closed

The State Game Commission said Tuesday all swimming beaches at Branched Oak Lake near Malcolm have been closed.

The commission said the closing was ordered so that commission personnel can deal with excessive growths of aquatic plants that have invaded the swimming areas.

Public Hearing Set For Monday On Grand Island School Budget

Grand Island (AP) — A public hearing will be held Monday on the expenditure of more that $7.4 million to operate the Grand Island school system for the 1975-76 school year.

This represents an increase of approximately 17 per cent in the school budget.

Coupled with another $1.2-million for operation of federal and state programs, this brings the budget increase to 29% above last year.

The proposed budget will besult in an estimate increase of 2.66 mills for a total mill levy for the 1975-76 year of 61.79, compared to 59.13 of last year.

Traffic Accidents Leave Two Dead

By The Associated Press

Two Nebraskans lost their lives in traffic accidents Tuesday, raising the state's 1975 death toll to 158, compared with 186 on the same date last year.

The latest reported victim is an elderly Wausa woman.

The State Patrol said Edna Nelson, 77, died Tuesday morning when the car she was riding in collided with a semi tractor-trailer rig at the intersection of Highway 81 and Riverside Blvd., about one mile north of Norfolk.

The driver of the car, Annie A. Samuelson, 67, also of Wausa, was taken to a Norfolk hospital for treatment of multiple fractures and lacerations. A nurse at the hospital said Mrs. Samuelson was listed in guarded condition, and was being cared for in the hospital's intensive care unit.

The driver of the truck, Francis F. Davis, 65, of Atkinson, was not injured.

Investigators said the accident occurred as Mrs. Samuelson attempted to make a left hand turn off of Highway 81.

Earlier in the day, an Ogallala man, Michael Clouse, 19, was killed in a one-car mishap in Ogallala.

Police said Clouse was apparently a passenger in an open vehicle that ran into a brick building.

Plane Crash At Wilber Fatal To 2 Crete Men

Wilber (AP) — The two persons killed Monday night in a light plane crash near Wilber were identified Tuesday as Crete residents.

Their plane plowed into a milo field about two miles west and three and one-quarter miles south of Wilber.

Victor Vesely witnessed the crash on the Gilbert Slepicka farm. Vesely lives nearby and farms the vacant Slepicka land.

Authorities said the cause of the crash was not determined and the Federal Aviation Administration was investigating.

Overseas Grain Sales 'Overestimated'

McCook (UPI) — A recent statement by a Kansas agricultural expert that the United States would soon make large sales of grain to the Republic of China and the Soviet Union was "grossly overestimated," Irv Friehe of McCook said Tuesday.

Friehe, board chairman of the Western Wheat Association, said he disagreed with a statement by Dr. Robert Lewis of Larned, Kan., that the sales to Russia would "make the 1972 deal look like peanuts."

Friehe said he assumes the Russians will buy American wheat this year but figures their purchases will amount to approximately 3 million metric tons, compared with 20 million in 1972.

He based his assumption on reservations made by the Russians for cargo vessels. He said the Soviet Union this week contracted with a foreign company to haul 1 million metric tons of cargo.

United States maritime unions require that a foreign country buying grain must split the cargo equally between the United States, foreign and country-of-origin ships.

Friehe's deduction is that 3 million metric tons are involved.

Concerning speculation over a deal with China, Friehe said U.S. traders and Chinese buyers do not see eye-to-eye on trade conditions, with China insisting on grain quality inspection at their ports and the United States wanting it done in this country. Because of this disagreement, he said, China refuses to make purchases.

Regional Cold Front Brings Relief

Movement of a cold front through parts of Nebraska Tuesday, including the southeast, brought a welcome drop in temperatures in addition to scattered thundershowers.

Although no rain fell in Lincoln, winds gusted up to 46 miles an hour at the airport during the afternoon. And during the period of blowing dust, temperatures dropped from 94 to 82 degrees.

Numerous thunderstorms were reported in northeast Nebraska during the morning, moving through the southeast in the afternoon.

At Columbus over an inch of rain was reported plus winds up to 52 miles an hour at the airport.

Small hail, heavy rain and gusty winds moved through the Waverly area in the middle of the afternoon.

Rains varied in the Omaha vicinity from .92 of an inch at the Southroads to .59 at 78th and Military.

G.I., Nicaragua Firms Ink Pact

Grand Island (AP) — Saying there is a lack of adequate grain storage and drying equipment in Central America, Chief Industries of Grand Island has signed an agreement with a Nicaragua firm to help alleviate the problem.

The shortage has been created by the demands to increase agricultural production, according to officials of the diversified Nebraska-based manufacturer and distributor of grain bins, accessories, pre-engineered farm and commercial buildings, mobile homes, automotive service equipment and sewage treatment systems.

Chief has negotiated an agreement with Metasa Metales y Estructuras, S.A., of Managua.

Metasa, a structural steel manufacturer, will produce various sizes of the Chief drying and storage bins, and bulk feed tanks.

Component parts, such as doors, ladders and lids, will continue to be manufactured by Chief, and will be shipped to Metasa.

Production is expected to begin next year.

Iowan Gets Position

Ankeny, Iowa (UPI) — David Dirks, 29, assistant to the city manager at Council Bluffs for the past four years, will take over as city manager here July 28, Mayor Ollie Weigel announced.

Potted Pots Extra Color At Kearney

Kearney (AP) — It appears that a project sponsored by Kearney's Downtown Improvement Board is blooming, but some of the greenery is on the illegal side.

About two months ago, the board set about placing large redwood planters on the sidewalks in front of downtown businesses. Petunia's were planted in the circular containers to add a little color to the business district.

Tuesday, one of the merchants found more than petunias in the planter in front of his store.

In the planter, along with the petunias he had carefully been watering and caring for, were two, healthy marijuana plants.

Officials believe someone dropped the marijuana seeds into the planter as a joke.

More State Employes Seeking Overtime Pay

By United Press International

Three more claims have been filed with the State Claims Board in connection with request for payment of overtime pay owed to state employes, it was learned Tuesday.

The claims brought to five the total number that have been filed by employes seeking payment of overtime wages they feel are due them.

Among the claims was one filed by Mrs. Eunice Thein, 49, of Greenwood, the widow of the late deputy state fire marshal, Paul Thein, who was killed in an auto accident on March 10, while on a state business trip.

Mrs. Thein asked for all overtime monies due her late husband but could not supply a dollar figure in her claim. The state fire marshal's office, however, said as near as it could determine, some $4,437 was owed and recommended payment.

But, the office said, it did not have the money in its budget, which means the matter would have to be decided by the 1976 Legislature.

The man was killed at the intersections of Nebraska Highways 20 and 18 in Pierce County when he attempted a left turn. He turned into the path of an oncoming truck.

The former director of the State Commission on Aging, Joseph Gaida, 29, also filed a claim for $58.51 in overtime pay. He recently left the commission post.

The third claim was filed by Lyle K. Tanderup, 50, a State Game Commission employe. He said the state owes him for 77 hours of overtime pay.

King Leading As Jones Presses

By CHUCK SINCLAIR

Lincoln Country Club professional Jerry Fisher worked out a program to speed up play Tuesday for the notoriously slow men's city golf tournament and it was rewarded with a barrage of sub-par rounds besides speeding up play a little.

Fifteen-year-old Knox Jones mastered the shortened LCC layout with four straight birdies on the final four holes for a six-under-par 66 to move within two shots of the lead maintained by former University of Nebraska golfer Steve King.

With early play in the first round at Holmes Park taking five and one half hours to complete and past city rounds as long as seven hours, Fisher had the ICC greenskeeper set the tees and pins in relatively easy position to cut down the time around the greens.

Jones, Steve Statton, Rennie Sasse and King all found the pine placements to their liking as each scored under par for the day and King's 142 total put him two under for the tourney.

Statton, a recent graduate of Southeast High, fashioned a three-under 69 for an even par total of 144 and second place.

Jones, who played on Southeast's state championship runner-up golf team with Statton, combined his 66 with a 79 Monday at Holmes to put him three shots back tied with first round leader Mike Golter and Sasse who shot the day's second best round at 68.

King's leading score came after a three-week layoff following a poor showing at the Tournament of Champions in Grand Island June 10 where he shot 85 in the rain shortened meet.

"I've just played nine holes since Grand Island," King said. "I played so bad there, I decided to put away my clubs for awhile."

King couldn't explain how his score remained in the low 70s two days straight after such a long layoff.

"I thought being away from the course that long my short game would go bad," King said. "But the short game stayed and I lost my long game."

King had just 11 putts the entire back nine while shooting a three-under par 33. "My putting stroke feels unbeleivably good," he said.

Sasse celebrated his 20th birthday with his score of 68 following a disappointing 77 at Holmes.

"It (the birthday) never even entered my mind until the 13th hole when Rod (partner Rod Little) mentioned his boy's birthday was coming up next week," he said. "I was playing so good, I just didn't have time to think about it."

Sasse improved tremendously on the greens as he took just 26 putts compared to 39 at Holmes.

Statton's round, like Jones', was the best he's ever had in competition.

"I usually don't score real well, and if I do win any tournaments, the final scores are higher than usual, so I'm real surprised with my round," Statton said.

Statton, who was teeing off with irons the first six holes, discarded them and went to the woods with his drive on No. 6.

"I hit it into the trees, but it felt so good, I thought I could hit it the rest of the day," he said.

Statton stayed with his driver and shot a four-under-par 32 on the back nine.

Golfer, who scored consistently with his first round score (72-73), found trouble on the Country Club's 'coffin corner' (Nos. 15-18) and lost three shots to par on those four holes, the same holes that Jones birdied.

"I thought I played pretty good through 14," Golter said. "But when I hit 15, I just couldn't release on the ball. I started protecting and couldn't let go."

Golter was referring to 15 and 16 where there's out of bounds to the right side of the fairway.

"I think if I could've parred 15, I would have parred in for 70," Golter said.

Finishing with his 70, King admitted that luck played an important role in his score and looked for Sasse to provide the score to shoot at when the tournament moves back to Holmes on Wednesday.

"Sasse will be just as tough as nails tomorrow," he said.

Following Wednesday's round, the tournament moves to Hillcrest for the last of the 72 holes.

Winning Can Still Be Fun

By KEN HAMBLETON
Star Sports Writer

Terry Seymour doesn't think his approach is much different than any other swim coach. But his methods do sound refreshing, if not unique.

Seymour's Downtown YMCA team captured the AAU class A division of the Kearney Swim Association A-B Open Swim Meet last Sunday, the first meet win for the club; in over six years. And Seymour just became head coach this year, after a year as assistant.

"I don't know how they coached here before," the Nebraska swim team letterman said. "We're basically trying to teach the basic strokes and how to swim well fast."

Just those two things imply the fun aspect of the Seymour's coaching. "We have a lot of beginners on the team and a lot of kids who'll quit competitive swimming by the time they reach high school," Seymour said, "but we're teaching them a skill they will be able to use the rest of their lives."

"I went through a win-or-else program in competitive swimming, and it wasn't a lot of fun," Seymour noted. "We know we have some kids who'll never win in a meet but their enjoyment seems to come through improvement, no matter how fast they swim."

The Downtown YMCA team also has some top swimmers including Steve Kirby and Jon Divis.

Kirby won the 25-meter butterfly, 25-meter backstroke, 25-meter breaststroke, 100-meter individual medley and the 25-meter freestyle in the Kearney meet to take top honors for eight and under boys. He also participated on the winning 100-meter medley and freestyle relays.

Divis, a 12-year-old, won the 50-butterfly, 50-backstroke, 50-breaststroke, 200 IM and the 50-freestyle besides swimming legs on the winning relay teams for his age group.

"We have a lot of kids, that in three or four years will be the top high school swimmers in the area, I hope," Seymour related.

"But we make sure a kid wants to compete before we take him to a meet. If he doesn't want to swim alone we try to put him on a relay team," Seymour said. "We schedule a lot of relay meets for that reason, and because the kids get more of a team-effort feeling."

"We also stress a lot of individual attention in working with the kids," Seymour said. "If a kid hasn't learned a stroke correctly we'll take some time until he gets it right or at least improves it."

Seymour also notes the individual attention helps the kids get to know the coaches better and they seem to work harder, and have more fun.

"We try to reward hard work," Seymour said, "that means if a class B swimmer improves three seconds on his best time he's doing just as well as a class A swimmer improving 7 seconds.

"We hope to keep the program low profile so the kids don't feel they have to compete unless they want to," Seymour concluded.

Through his methods it appears coach Seymour has found a way to make his team a happy one and a winning one.

The perennial Kearney Meet winners, the Lincoln Swim Club faired well in the weekend meet.

Jeanie Neal won the class A open division 100-meter breaststroke, 200-meter individual medley relay, and swam on the winning 200-freestyle relay.

Dick Conradt won the boy's 10 and under 100-meter freestyle and backstroke and the 200-IM.

Other Lincoln Swim Club members participated in the Lewis & Clark Swim Meet in Yankton, S.D.

Kathy Gustafson took honors in the girls 10 & under 200-IM, 50-breaststroke, 50-backstroke, 50-butterfly and 50-freestyle.

Barb Rutford won four events in the girls 13-14-year-old division, capturing the 100-meter breaststroke, butterfly, and freestyle plus winning the 200 IM.

Ak-Sar-Ben Hit By Storm

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer

Omaha — While no action was taken at an eight-hour meeting Tuesday of the Nebraska State Racing Commission, the weatherman must have been angry about something at Ak-Sar-Ben.

A brief, yet violent wind and rain storm struck the track during the running of the second race Tuesday, causing minimal damage.

"It knocked out our closed circuit television camera for a while, knocked out a couple of tower cameras, blew off part of the inside rail near the eighth-pole and the canopy on the Junior Jockey Club," said Ak-Sar-Ben general manager Dick Becker.

"It also knocked out the air conditioning for a little bit and the tote machines (which control the pari-mutuel operation) have to be kept cooled by the air conditioning. But it's all right," he said.

Becker noted that parts of the press box, much of the lower levels and the exposed parts of the grandstand were slightly flooded with water. Cleanup crews spent most of the afternoon mopping water which caused no damage and only slightly inconvienced patrons.

"Our track could really use the water," Becker said. "The last time it rained was June 18. We had a lot of rain for a while, but we haven't had much lately. I'm sure our track can take this much water.

"I think it will be all right. Sometimes you can use some rain on the race track because you can only put so much water on it," he continued.

Meanwhile, Commission chairman Harry Farnham noted that no decisions were reached on the six cases presented to the commission in the all-day meeting.

This is the status of the following Tuesday presentations:

1. The case involving trainer S. A. Long over the finish of the June 28 Omaha Gold Cup Stakes where his My Juliet, owned by George Weasel, finished second was continued. Farnham requested legal briefs from Lang's attorney, Robert Mullin of Omaha.

2. The hearing involving H. A. Mayer and Richard Bouskka, owners of the horse, Bold Trap, who won but was disqualified and placed third in the 4-H Handicap here on June 14, was concluded. It was continued until the legal briefs, explaining the position of the State Racing Commission in relation to overruling judgments of the stewards could be determined.

3. The case of patron Harry E. Velpe of Bellevue concerning pari-mutuel disbursements for the third race here on May 24 was concluded. No decision was reached.

4. No decision was reached after the hearing of jockey Perry Compton, who is protesting a five-day suspension for alleged careless riding and interference leaving the starting gate in the eighth race on June 27.

5. The case of pony boy Jerry Breezes was continued to later this week since his attorney had to appear in a Lincoln court hearing.

6. No decision was reached in the case involving James W. Knowles and Stan Pulaski in a pari-mutuel disagreement at Fonner Park in Grand Island.

The first five cases protesting rulings issued by the Ak-Sar-Ben stewards Neel Chilcutt, Jack Fickler and Jim Hall.

Other commissioners present Tuesday included vice-chairman Ken Jenkins of Grand Island and member Duane Fudge of Newman Grove.

'Sex' Bill Altered

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House Education subcommittee approved legislation Tuesday that would let colleges use income from a particular money-making sport and contributions to the team primarily for that sport or team.

Under new federal regulations aimed at sex discrimination, the schools would have been required to put revenues from and contributions to those sports into a general fund. It would be used to be used to support, in equal measure, noncontact and minor sports in which women could field better-trained and better equipped teams than now exist.

National sports organizations and college athletic directors have complained that major crowd-attracting sports like football and basketball, with their scholarship programs normally geared only to men, would be devastated without the bill.

The bill, introduced by post-secondary education subcommittee Chairman James G. O'Hara, D-Mich., "will continue the inequities in sports all over this country for years to come," declared Rep. Michael T. Blouin, D-Iowa, the father of two girls.

Alston Skips Reds' Hurlers

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — National League All-Star manager Walter Alston Tuesday bypassed pitchers from the Cincinnati Reds, owners of the best winning percentage in the major leagues, but named three of his own hurlers for next week's game against the American League.

In addition to tapping Andy Messersmith, Don Sutton and Mike Marshall, aces of the Los Angeles Dodgers pitching corps, Alston selected Tom Seaver and Jon Matlack of the New York Mets, Philadephia's Tug McGraw, Randy Jones of San Diego, Pittsburgh's Jerry Reuss and Atlanta's Phil Niekro.

Baygo, Stratton Get Firsts

Omaha — Baygo and trainer Jerry Stratton each recorded a personal first here Tuesday at Ak-Sar-Ben.

The 6-year-old mare won the featured $21,300 Pioneer's Stakes by a neck over L. Lea Davis' Quivira on a muddy Ak oval. It was Baygo's and Stratton's first stakes win, and it was accomplished in Baygo's usual style.

"She's a come from behind horse," Stratton noted of R. B. Jaquith's runner, who was fifth through much of the mile and 70-yard chase before making her typical rally around the far turn. "I knew she'd come on — she won't back up in the mud."

Stratton, who trains four horses, said Baygo will not run again here. Her next appearance will be at Centennial Track near Denver.

A muddy John Lively finally scored his first stakes riding here this season. Although Lively has easily annexed his fifth straight Omaha riding crown, he has not had an Omaha stakes win before the Pioneers.

As the even-money favorite of the crowd of 14,748 (the best Tuesday gathering since opening-day's 15,258), Baygo earned $11,715 and paid $4.00, $3.00 and $2.40. Quivira placed for $4.80 and $2.80 and Silver Pick Stable's Sacarlet Nymph showed for $2.80.

The mutuel handle of $1,221,885 set a non-holiday Tuesday standard, breaking the previous mark of $1,118,013 set on opening day this year.

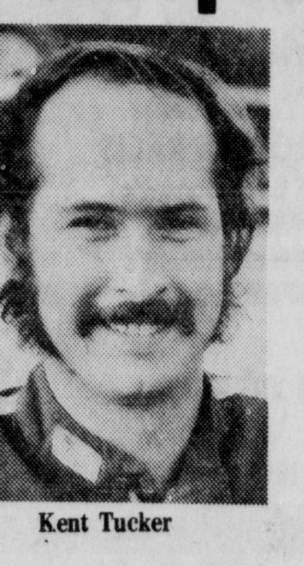
Kosiski Expecting Battle

By KEN HAMBLETON
Star Sports Writer



Kent Tucker

Bob Kosiski isn't about to become overconfident.

Kosiski, an Omaha stock car driver, won the first half of the Twin City Challenge race at Sunset Speedway in Omaha and is now preparing to compete for the second leg at Lincoln's Midwest Speedway Wednesday night at 8 p.m.

"They'll be running to win," Kosiski said of the top twenty Midwest Speedway drivers, who'll be running against Sunset's top 20.

"I know that Kent Tucker will be trying harder than ever because of the way the race ended up here (Omaha)," Kosiski said referring to the first race.

In that match Kosiski ran off with the lead on the second lap and pulled away from the pack, expecting Tucker. Tucker stayed right on the Omaha driver's bumper throughout the next 15 laps before dropping from the race with a broken axle.

"I still think I could have beaten him," said Kosiski, "but it would have been a really good race if he had been able to stay in there."

"Just because I won in Omaha doesn't mean that much," he added. Tucker, the Midwest Speedway point leader, agreed.

"I really wasn't pushing him at all. I was going to let him lead for a while and then take him. It's much easier to drive from second place because the other driver makes a mistake and you can take the lead," Tucker said.

Kosiski, a former NASCAR driver, felt the races between the two tracks were good for racing.

"We never get to race each other because both tracks run on Sunday nights," Kosiski noted. "So this is a challenge and a lot of fun."

"I haven't raced in Lincoln, except at the State Fair, for about 15 years," Kosiski explained. "That was back when I was first starting in the coupe racing."

But a lot of things including skills and cars have changed since then and Kosiski figures to be the favorite in the race along with Tucker.

Other Lincoln drivers expected to compete include Al Humphrey, who placed second in the 35-lap feature at Sunset and Jerry Reeder, who placed third in the B feature.

Midwest Speedway drivers who did not compete in the first half of the series but plan on competing in Wednesday's race include Al Truax, Ardean Buller, and Randy McDonald, who won last Sunday's feature race.

Top Omaha drivers expected to attend the race are Ed Morris, Jerry Wamcewicz, Bill Wrich and Keith Leithoff who will also compete for the $3,000 purse.

Lincoln High's Pfeiff Still Keeping Things Simple

By RANDY YORK

Bill Pfeiff

It's early morning in Bill Pfeiff's enclosed porch patio. He's sitting at the picnic table. Nearby is a portable television, but FM-radio is the preference.

Plant growth is robust in the Pfeiff sanctuary, which uses a single-car garage as its north wall. On the west wall is a sign: "Grant Me Patience Lord . . . But Hurry." Two books lie on an end table: All The President's Men and This Game Called Life.

Pfeiff, the Sunday Journal and Star's first High School Coach of the Year in 1952 and now vice-principal at Lincoln High, was enjoying the early-morning serenity and the opportunity to pleasantly reminisce.

He's spent the last 29½ years at Lincoln High and admits he hasn't changed much. "I still follow the same motto," he says, holding up a worn-out piece of cardboard inscribed in red letters with KISS (Keep It Simple, Stupid).

"That still applies to me," says Pfeiff with a hearty chuckle. "Someone gave that to me when I first started coaching football."

Pfeiff has kept things simple for almost three decades — 10 years as football coach and teacher, 10 years as dean of boys and athletic director and 10 years as vice principal.

At Lincoln High's centennial reunion, Pfeiff recalls "seeing all kinds of people from all socio-economic levels. I wasn't envious of a person I saw. I can't think of anything I'd rather do with my life than work with young people.

"I tried to stress to my kids the importance of doing something you enjoy doing. Otherwise, don't bother," Pfeiff says.

Bill Pfeiff Jr., a 33-year-old Army major who is vacationing at his parents' Lincoln home before moving his own family to Japan, was sitting in a lawn chair, listening to his father.

"Biff (a 32-year-old engineer in Kansas City) and I weren't near the athlete dad was, but we both got so much out of it," Bill offers.

As a coach, Pfeiff indeed was demanding, according to Bill Jr. As a counselor, they don't come any friendlier. Pfeiff has touched the lives of hundreds with positive impact.

"Each year, before school starts, I tell my staff the next best thing to being young is working with young people," relates Pfeiff. "Kids always deserve enthusiastic, well-prepared, responsible leadership.

"There's a couple of times where maybe I could have made a move," says Pfeiff. "But there's too much satisfaction, staying with a school you've developed loyalties to.

"The best thing about high school athletics is that kids come to you because they want to, not because of grant-in-aid or something similar," he adds.

Lincoln High's athletic fortunes have dipped in recent years, admits Pfeiff. "But," he insists, "I'm not going down with the ship. Perhaps we need a few more athletes. But we'll come back. I recall times when some other schools were on the other end."

Pfeiff credits a couple of Lincoln sportswriters, Jack Donovan and Wayne Panter, for helping him change his coaching outlook.

"I used to be a statistical nut," he explains. "In 1950, we outdowned and outyarded Northeast and got beat four touchdowns. Donovan wrote me and said, according to the rulebook, games are won on an accumulation of points.

"Since we didn't have film in those days, I started going through the sportswriters' notebooks after games and found my coaching was doing more to interrupt the ball than my team," recalls Pfeiff.

"My basic philosophy and guidance changed after analyzing the situation," says Pfeiff. "We started working on keeping the ball. The best defense is still possession of the ball."

He also learned to keep things simple. "My teams played basic football. I was a single wing man. The T-formation meant excessive ball handling and therefore, more room for error.

"I always thought you could run from a mud formation if you blocked and tackled and kept it simple," says Pfeiff.

Since such simplicity reaped so much success, it's no wonder Pfeiff stays with his "Keep It Simple, Stupid" philosophy.

It's made him a wise man.

G.I., Nicaragua Firms Ink Pact

Grand Island (AP) — Saying there is a lack of adequate grain storage and drying equipment in Central America, Chief Industries of Grand Island has signed an agreement with a Nicaragua firm to help alleviate the problem.

The shortage has been created by the demands to increase agricultural production, according to officials of the diversified Nebraska-based manufacturer and distributor of grain bins, accessories, pre-engineered farm and commercial buildings, mobile homes, automotive service equipment and sewage treatment systems.

Chief has negotiated an agreement with Metasa Metales y Estructuras, S.A., of Managua.

Metasa, a structural steel manufacturer, will produce various sizes of the Chief drying and storage bins, and bulk feed tanks.

Component parts, such as doors, ladders and lids, will continue to be manufactured by Chief, and will be shipped to Metasa.

Production is expected to begin next year.

Potted Pots Extra Color At Kearney

Kearney (AP) — It appears that a project sponsored by Kearney's Downtown Improvement Board is blooming, but some of the greenery is on the illegal side.

About two months ago, the board set about placing large redwood planters on the sidewalks in front of downtown businesses. Petunia's were planted in the circular containers to add a little color to the business district.

Tuesday, one of the merchants found more than petunias in the planter in front of his store.

In the planter, along with the petunias he had carefully been watering and caring for, were two, healthy marijuana plants.

Officials believe someone dropped the marijuana seeds into the planter as a joke.

More State Employes Seeking Overtime Pay

By United Press International

Three more claims have been filed with the State Claims Board in connection with request for payment of overtime pay owed to state employes, it was learned Tuesday.

The claims brought to five the total number that have been filed by employes seeking payment of overtime wages they feel are due them.

Among the claims was one filed by Mrs. Eunice Thein, 49, of Greenwood, the widow of the late deputy state fire marshal, Paul Thein, who was killed in an auto accident on March 10, while on a state business trip.

Mrs. Thein asked for all overtime monies due her late husband but could not supply a dollar figure in her claim. The state fire marshal's office, however, said as near as it could determine, some $4,437 was owed and recommended payment.

But, the office said, it did not have the money in its budget, which means the matter would have to be decided by the 1976 Legislature.

The man was killed at the intersections of Nebraska Highways 20 and 18 in Pierce County when he attempted a left turn. He turned into the path of an oncoming truck.

The former director of the State Commission on Aging, Joseph Gaida, 29, also filed a claim for $58.51 in overtime pay. He recently left the commission post.

The third claim was filed by Lyle K. Tanderup, 50, a State Game Commission employe. He said the state owes him for 77 hours of overtime pay.

King Leading As Jones Presses

By CHUCK SINCLAIR

Lincoln Country Club professional Jerry Fisher worked out a program to speed up play Tuesday for the notoriously slow men's city golf tournament and it was rewarded with a barrage of sub-par rounds besides speeding up play a little.

Fifteen-year-old Knox Jones mastered the shortened LCC layout with four straight birdies on the final four holes for a six-under-par 66 to move within two shots of the lead maintained by former University of Nebraska golfer Steve King.

With early play in the first round at Holmes Park taking five and one half hours to complete and past city rounds as long as seven hours, Fisher had the ICC greenskeeper set the tees and pins in relatively easy position to cut down the time around the greens.

Jones, Steve Statton, Rennie Sasse and King all found the pine placements to their liking as each scored under par for the day and King's 142 total put him two under for the tourney.

Statton, a recent graduate of Southeast High, fashioned a three-under 69 for an even par total of 144 and second place.

Jones, who played on Southeast's state championship runner-up golf team with Statton, combined his 66 with a 79 Monday at Holmes to put him three shots back tied with first round leader Mike Golter and Sasse who shot the day's second best round at 68.

King's leading score came after a three-week layoff following a poor showing at the Tournament of Champions in Grand Island Júne 10 where he shot 85 in the rain shortened meet.

"I've just played nine holes since Grand Island," King said. "I played so bad there, I decided to put away my clubs for awhile."

King couldn't explain how his score remained in the low 70s two days straight after such a long layoff.

"I thought being away from the course that long my short game would go bad," King said. "But the short game stayed and I lost my long game."

King had just 11 putts the entire back nine while shooting a three-under par 33. "My putting stroke feels unbeleivably good," he said.

Sasse celebrated his 20th birthday with his score of 68 following a disappointing 77 at Holmes.

"It (the birthday) never even entered my mind until the 13th hole when Rod (partner Rod Little) mentioned his boy's birthday was coming up next week," he said. "I was playing so good, I just didn't have time to think about it."

Sasse improved tremendously on the greens as he took just 26 putts compared to 39 at Holmes.

Statton's round, like Jones', was the best he's ever had in competition.

"I usually don't score real well, and if I do win any tournaments, the final scores are higher than usual, so I'm real surprised with my round," Statton said.

Statton, who was teeing off with irons the first six holes, discarded them and went to the woods with his drive on No. 6.

"I hit it into the trees, but it felt so good, I thought I could hit it the rest of the day," he said.

Statton stayed with his driver and shot a four-under-par 32 on the back nine.

Golfer, who scored consistently with his first round score (72-73), found trouble on the Country Club's 'coffin corner' (Nos. 15-18) and lost three shots to par on those four holes, the same holes that Jones birdied.

"I thought I played pretty good through 14," Golter said. "But when I hit 15, I just couldn't release on the ball. I started protecting and couldn't let go."

Golter was referring to 15 and 16 where there's out of bounds to the right side of the fairway.

"I think if I could've parred 15, I would have parred in for 70," Golter said.

Finishing with his 70, King admitted that luck played an important role in his score and looked for Sasse to provide the score to shoot at when the tournament moves back to Holmes on Wednesday.

"Sasse will be just as tough as nails tomorrow," he said.

Following Wednesday's round, the tournament moves to Hillcrest for the last of the 72 holes.

Winning Can Still Be Fun

By KEN HAMBLETON
Star Sports Writer

Terry Seymour doesn't think his approach is much different than any other swim coach. But his methods do sound refreshing, if not unique.

Seymour's Downtown YMCA team captured the AAU class A division of the Kearney Swim Association A-B Open Swim Meet last Sunday, the first meet win for the club; in over six years. And Seymour just became head coach this year, after a year as assistant.

"I don't know how they coached here before," the Nebraska swim team letterman said. "We're basically trying to teach the basic strokes and how to swim well fast."

Just those two things imply the fun aspect of the Seymour's coaching. "We have a lot of beginners on the team and a lot of kids who'll quit competitive swimming by the time they reach high school," Seymour said, "but we're teaching them a skill they will be able to use the rest of their lives."

"I went through a win-or-else program in competitive swimming, and it wasn't a lot of fun," Seymour noted. "We know we have some kids who'll never win in a meet but their enjoyment seems to come through improvement, no matter how fast they swim."

The Downtown YMCA team also has some top swimmers including Steve Kirby and Jon Divis.

Kirby won the 25-meter butterfly, 25-meter backstroke, 25-meter breaststroke, 100-meter individual medley and the 25-meter freestyle in the Kearney meet to take top honors for eight and under boys. He also participated on the winning 100-meter medley and freestyle relays.

Divis, a 12-year-old, won the 50-butterfly, 50-backstroke, 50-breaststroke, 200 IM and the 50-freestyle besides swimming legs on the winning relay teams for his age group.

"We have a lot of kids, that in three or four years will be the top high school swimmers in the area, I hope," Seymour related.

"But we make sure a kid wants to compete before we take him to a meet. If he doesn't want to swim alone we try to put him on a relay team," Seymour said. "We schedule a lot of relay meets for that reason, and because the kids get more of a team-effort feeling."

"We also stress a lot of individual attention in working with the kids," Seymour said. "If a kid hasn't learned a stroke correctly we'll take some time until he gets it right or at least improves it."

Seymour also notes the individual attention helps the kids get to know the coaches better and they seem to work harder, and have more fun.

"We try to reward hard work," Seymour said, "that means if a class B swimmer improves three seconds on his best time he's doing just as well as a class A swimmer improving 7 seconds.

"We hope to keep the program low profile so the kids don't feel they have to compete unless they want to," Seymour concluded

Through his methods it appears coach Seymour has found a way to make his team a happy one and a winning one.

The perennial Kearney Meet winners, the Lincoln Swim Club faired well in the weekend meet.

Jeanie Neal won the class A open division 100-meter breaststroke, 200-meter individual medley relay, and swam on the winning 200-freestyle relay.

Dick Conradt won the boy's 10 and under 100-meter freestyle and backstroke and the 200-IM.

Other Lincoln Swim Club members participated in the Lewis & Clark Swim Meet in Yankton, S.D.

Kathy Gustafson took honors in the girls 10 & under 200-IM, 50-breaststroke, 50-backstroke, 50-butterfly and 50-freestyle.

Ak-Sar-Ben Hit By Storm

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer

Omaha — While no action was taken at an eight-hour meeting Tuesday of the Nebraska State Racing Commission, the weatherman must have been angry about something at Ak-Sar-Ben.

A brief, yet violent wind and rain storm struck the track during the running of the second race Tuesday, causing minimal damage.

"It knocked out our closed circuit television camera for a while, knocked out a couple of tower cameras, blew off part of the inside rail near the eighth-pole and the canopy on the Junior Jockey Club," said Ak-Sar-Ben general manager Dick Becker.

"It also knocked out the air conditioning for a little bit and the tote machines (which control the pari-mutuel operation) have to be kept cooled by the air conditioning. But it's all right," he said.

Becker noted that parts of the press box, much of the lower levels and the exposed parts of the grandstand were slightly flooded with water. Cleanup crews spent most of the afternoon mopping water which caused no damage and only slightly inconvienced patrons.

"Our track could really use the water," Becker said. "The last time it rained was June 18. We had a lot of rain for a while, but we haven't had much lately. I'm sure our track can take this much water.

"I think it will be all right. Sometimes you can use some rain on the race track because you can only put so much water on it," he continued.

Meanwhile, Commission chairman Harry Farnham noted that no decisions were reached on the six cases presented to the commission in the all-day meeting.

This is the status of the following Tuesday presentations:

1. The case involving trainer S. A. Long over the finish of the June 28 Omaha Gold Cup Stakes where his My Juliet, owned by George Weasel, finished second was continued. Farnham requested legal briefs from Lang's attorney, Robert Mullin of Omaha.

2. The hearing involving H A. Mayer and Richard Bouskka, owners of the horse, Bold Trap, who won but was disqualified and placed third in the 4-H Handicap here on June 14, was concluded. It was continued until the legal briefs, explaining the position of the State Racing Commission in relation to overruling judgments of the stewards could be determined

3. The case of patron Harry E. Velpe of Bellevue concerning pari-mutuel disbursements for the third race here on May 24 was concluded. No decision was reached.

4. No decision was reached after the hearing of jockey Perry Compton, who is protesting a five-day suspension for alleged careless riding and interference leaving the starting gate in the eighth race on June 27.

5 The case of pony boy Jerry Breezes was continued to later this week since his attorney had to appear in a Lincoln court hearing.

6 No decision was reached in the case involving James W. Knowles and Stan Pulaski in a pari-mutuel disagreement at Fonner Park in Grand Island.

The first five cases protesting rulings issued by the Ak-Sar-Ben stewards Neel Chilcutt, Jack Fickler and Jim Hall.

Other commissioners present Tuesday included vice-chairman Ken Jenkins of Grand Island and member Duane Fudge of Newman Grove.

'Sex' Bill Altered

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House Education subcommittee approved legislation Tuesday that would let colleges use income from a particular money-making sport and contributions to the team primarily for that sport or team.

Under new federal regulations aimed at sex discrimination, the schools would have been required to put revenues from and contributions to those sports into a general fund. It would be used to be used to support, in equal measure, non-contact and minor sports in which women could field better-trained and better equipped teams than now exist.

National sports organizations and college athletic directors have complained that major crowd-attracting sports like football and basketball, with their scholarship programs normally geared only to men, would be devastated without the bill.

The bill, introduced by post-secondary education subcommittee Chairman James G. O'Hara, D-Mich., "will continue the inequities in sports all over this country for years to come," declared Rep. Michael T. Blouin, D-Iowa, the father of two girls.

Alston Skips Reds' Hurlers

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — National League All-Star manager Walter Alston Tuesday bypassed pitchers from the Cincinnati Reds, owners of the best winning percentage in the major leagues, but named three of his own hurlers for next week's game against the American League.

In addition to tapping Andy Messersmith, Don Sutton and Mike Marshall, aces of the Los Angeles Dodgers pitching corps, Alston selected Tom Seaver and Jon Matlack of the New York Mets, Philadephia's Tug McGraw, Randy Jones of San Diego, Pittsburgh's Jerry Reuss and Atlanta's Phil Niekro.

Baygo, Stratton Get Firsts

Omaha — Baygo and trainer Jerry Stratton each recorded a personal first here Tuesday at Ak-Sar-Ben.

The 6-year-old mare won the featured $21,300 Pioneer's Stakes by a neck over L. Lea Davis' Quivira on a muddy Ak oval It was Baygo's and Stratton's first stakes win, and it was accomplished in Baygo's usual style.

"She's a come from behind horse," Stratton noted of R. B. Jaquith's runner, who was fifth through much of the mile and 70-yard chase before making her typical rally around the far turn. "I knew she'd come on — she won't back up in the mud."

Stratton, who trains four horses, said Baygo will not run again here. Her next appearance will be at Centennial Track near Denver.

A muddy John Lively finally scored his first stakes riding here this season. Although Lively has easily annexed his fifth straight Omaha riding crown, he has not had an Omaha stakes win before the Pioneers.

As the even-money favorite of the crowd of 14,748 (the best Tuesday gathering since opening-day's 15,258), Baygo earned $11,715 and paid $4.00, $3.00 and $2.40. Quivira placed for $4.80 and $2.80 and Silver Pick Stable's Sacarlet Nymph showed for $2.80.

The mutuel handle of $1,221,885 set a non-holiday Tuesday standard, breaking the previous mark of $1,118,013 set on opening day this year.

Kosiski Expecting Battle

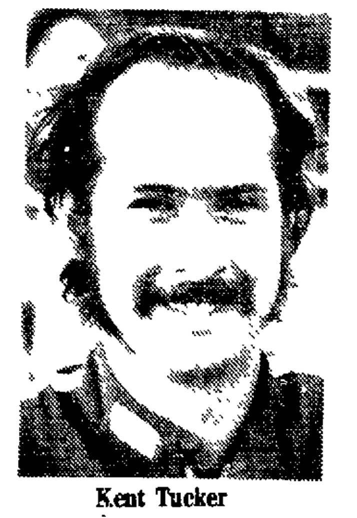
By KEN HAMBLETON
Star Sports Writer

Bob Kosiski isn't about to become overconfident.

Kosiski, an Omaha stock car driver, won the first half of the Twin City Challenge race at Sunset Speedway in Omaha and is now preparing to compete for the second leg at Lincoln's Midwest Speedway Wednesday night at 8 p.m.

"They'll be running to win," Kosiski said of the top twenty Midwest Speedway drivers, who'll be running against Sunset's top 20.

"I know that Kent Tucker will be trying harder than ever because of the way the race ended up here (Omaha)," Kosiski said referring to the first race.



Kent Tucker

In that match Kosiski ran off with the lead on the second lap and pulled away from the pack, expecting Tucker. Tucker stayed right on the Omaha driver's bumper throughout the next 15 laps before dropping from the race with a broken axle.

"I still think I could have beaten him," said Kosiski, "but it would have been a really good race if he had been able to stay in there."

"Just because I won in Omaha doesn't mean that much," he added. Tucker, the Midwest Speedway point leader, agreed.

"I really wasn't pushing him at all. I was going to let him lead for a while and then take him. It's much easier to drive from second place because the other driver makes a mistake and you can take the lead," Tucker said.

Kosiski, a former NASCAR driver, felt the races between the two tracks were good for racing.

"We never get to race each other because both tracks run on Sunday nights," Kosiski noted. "So this is a challenge and a lot of fun."

"I haven't raced in Lincoln, except at the State Fair, for about 15 years," Kosiski explained. "That was back when I was first starting in the coupe racing."

But a lot of things including skills and cars have changed since then and Kosiski figures to be the favorite in the race along with Tucker.

Other Lincoln drivers expected to compete include Al Humphrey, who placed second in the 35-lap feature at Sunset and Jerry Reeder, who placed third in the B feature.

Midwest Speedway drivers who did not compete in the first half of the series but plan on competing in Wednesday's race include Al Truax, Ardean Buller, and Randy McDonald, who won last Sunday's feature race.

Top Omaha drivers expected to attend the race are Ed Morris, Jerry Wamcewicz, Bill Wrich and Keith Leithoff who will also compete for the $3,000 purse.

Lincoln High's Pfeiff Still Keeping Things Simple

By RANDY YORK

It's early morning in Bill Pfeiff's enclosed porch patio. He's sitting at the picnic table. Nearby is a portable television, but FM-radio is the preference.

Plant growth is robust in the Pfeiff sanctuary, which uses a single-car garage as its north wall. On the west wall is a sign: "Grant Me Patience Lord ... But Hurry." Two books lie on an end table: All The President's Men and This Game Called Life.

Bill Pfeiff

Pfeiff, the Sunday Journal and Star's first High School Coach of the Year in 1952 and now vice-principal at Lincoln High, was enjoying the early-morning serenity and the opportunity to pleasantly reminisce.

He's spent the last 29½ years at Lincoln High and admits he hasn't changed much. "I still follow the same motto," he says, holding up a worn-out piece of cardboard inscribed in red letters with KISS (Keep It Simple, Stupid).

"That still applies to me," says Pfeiff with a hearty chuckle. "Someone gave that to me when I first started coaching football."

Pfeiff has kept things simple for almost three decades — 10 years as football coach and teacher, 10 years as dean of boys and athletic director and 10 years as vice principal.

At Lincoln High's centennial reunion, Pfeiff recalls "seeing all kinds of people from all socio-economic levels. I wasn't envious of a person I saw. I can't think of anything I'd rather do with my life than work with young people.

"I tried to stress to my kids the importance of doing something you enjoy doing. Otherwise, don't bother," Pfeiff says.

Bill Pfeiff Jr., a 33-year-old Army major who is vacationing at his parents' Lincoln home before moving his own family to Japan, was sitting in a lawn chair, listening to his father.

"Biff (a 32-year-old engineer in Kansas City) and I weren't near the athlete dad was, but we both got so much out of it," Bill offers.

As a coach, Pfeiff indeed was demanding, according to Bill Jr. As a counselor, they don't come any friendlier. Pfeiff has touched the lives of hundreds with positive impact.

"Each year, before school starts, I tell my staff the next best thing to being young is working with young people," relates Pfeiff. "Kids always deserve enthusiastic, well-prepared, responsible leadership.

"There's a couple of times where maybe I could have made a move," says Pfeiff. "But there's too much satisfaction, staying with a school you've developed loyalties to.

"The best thing about high school athletics is that kids come to you because they want to, not because of grant-in-aid or something similar," he adds.

Lincoln High's athletic fortunes have dipped in recent years, admits Pfeiff "But," he insists, "I'm not going down with the ship. Perhaps we need a few more athletes. But we'll come back. I recall times when some other schools were on the other end."

Pfeiff credits a couple of Lincoln sportswriters, Jack Donovan and Wayne Panter, for helping him change his coaching outlook.

"I used to be a statistical nut," he explains. "In 1950, we outdowned and outyarded Northeast and got beat four touchdowns. Donovan wrote me and said, according to the rulebook, games are won on an accumulation of points.

"Since we didn't have film in those days, I started going through the sportswriters' notebooks after games and found my coaching was doing more to interrupt the ball than my team," recalls Pfeiff.

"My basic philosophy and guidance changed after analyzing the situation," says Pfeiff. "We started working on keeping the ball. The best defense is still possession of the ball."

He also learned to keep things simple. "My teams played basic football. I was a single wing man. The T-formation meant excessive ball handling and therefore, more room for error.

"I always thought you could run from a mud formation if you blocked and tackled and kept it simple," says Pfeiff

Since such simplicity reaped so much success, it's no wonder Pfeiff stays with his "Keep It Simple, Stupid" philosophy.

It's made him a wise man.

Exon Asks State Leave ECS

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

Gov. J. James Exon on Tuesday called for a quick end to Nebraska's membership in the Education Commission of the States (ECS).

But some Nebraska education leaders support continued affiliation, and existing state law might shackle Exon's move to withdraw, possibly until as late as 1977.

The 1967 Legislature enacted LB470, adopting the education compact and establishing Nebraska's membership in ECS, founded in 1966.

To withdraw from ECS, the law says the Legislature must repeal LB470, but only a year after Exon has given written notice of that intent to the governors of all the other member states. Currently, 44 other states, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands are ECS members.

Exon said Tuesday, "If it's necessary for me to write all of my fellow governors announcing my decision and the fact that we are pulling out" of ECS, "I'll take that action."

But because some other states "are sold on the services that are provided" by ECS, Exon added, "I'm hopeful that Nebraska can withdraw for its own reasons, without throwing an overall cloud on the future of that organization."

ECS Services

ECS provides research, publications, technical assistance and other requested services on education matters of concern in member states, ranging from collective bargaining and school finance to early childhood and special education.

Exon line-item vetoed a $19,750 appropriation in 1975-76 governor's office funds that would have paid ECS dues ($14,250) and travel expenses for Nebraska ECS commissioners.

"This," Exon explained in his May 22 veto message to the Legislature, "will allow us to withdraw from this multi-state compact, which I feel has been of little if any benefit to Nebraska."

Exon acknowledged Tuesday that ECS has provided services to the state "that may have been helpful in some isolated instances. But I don't believe that's been to the tune of $20,000 worth a year."

But the 1967 Nebraska law also says, "No withdrawal shall affect any liability incurred by, or chargeable to, a (member) state prior to . . . such withdrawal."

Exon said he hasn't yet checked with Atty. Gen. Paul Douglas to learn if the line-item veto and nonpayment of dues would violate Nebraska's continuing commitment to ECS under LB470.

Dues Still Owed

Moreover, at ECS headquarters in Denver, communications director Sally V. Allen said Tuesday, "Nebraska has not yet paid us $5,250, which was the dues increase" in 1974-75. Even if Nebraska withdraws, the state would be in arrears as well for 1975-76 dues, or a total of $19,500, she said.

The money, however, isn't the main issue, said ECS Executive Director Wendell H. Pierce. He stressed that "one of our main missions" is communication on broad education issues affecting all member states.

Pierce said he regrets Exon's desire to end Nebraska's membership in ECS, "because the very strength of such a compact is based on participation of the states. What we do has to be used there.

"We feel they (Nebraskans) will lose some of the opportunities for improvement of education . . .

Nebraska Education Commissioner Anne Campbell said she supports continued membership in ECS, because it can provide services more cheaply than Nebraska alone can buy them.

An ECS commissioner herself, Dr. Campbell attended the organization's annual meeting last weekend in Kansas City. Others attending included Ross Rasmussen, prime sponsor of LB470 when he was a state senator, and now Nebraska State School Boards Association (NSSBA) executive director, and Sen. Frank Lewis of Bellevue, the Legislature's Education Committee chairman.

The Nebraska ECS commissioners named Lewis chairman pro tem to discuss continued membership with Exon. Lewis was unavailable for comment Tuesday.

ECS Has 'Broad Base'

Meanwhile, Rasmussen said, "I definitely feel" ECS is "a benefit." It is "the only national organization which has such a broad base in representing education," and not a biased segment such as administrators or teachers.

He added he hopes Exon "would review his position."

If Rasmussen and Dr. Campbell believe continued ECS affiliation is valuable, Exon said the NSSBA and the State Education Department budgets should pay for it.

Would Be In 1977

If Exon wrote the required letters to ECS-member governors and followed the one-year waiting requirement in LB470, the 1976 Legislature will already have met and adjourned, thus delaying action until 1977.

"I have heard indications," Exon said, "that at least some members of the Legislature are considering payment of any (ECS) dues from legislative sources."

Meanwhile, LB470 stipulates formation of a "Nebraska Education Council" separate from the state ECS commissioners, and which must meet at least three times a year. The council was never formed.

Dr. Campbell said that for Nebraska "to receive full benefit" from ECS under the law, "we're going to have to do some work internally" in setting up the statewide council.

Ecology Movement Alive For Collectors In Howells

Howells (AP) — The ecology movement is alive and collecting in Howells.

Since 1971, the town of 700 residents has been recycling newspapers, cans, glass and other items.

David Eurek, the drive chairman, said "we would like to keep on recycling forever and ever. We are trying to show other towns that if you stick with it, people will cooperate."

Eurek, high school business teacher and a volunteer fireman, said he started the drive after attending an environmental institute at Bellingham, Wash.

He received an environmental action award and silver cup from Gov. J. J. Exon at a luncheon in Lincoln recently.

Eurek said Howells residents are collecting enough material but are having a hard time finding buyers.

"The market for recyclable materials is not as good as it was when we started," he said. "We are taking everything to Norfolk right now."

Money collected from the paper drives goes to the volunteer fire department and rescue squad.

Exon Calls Ford Plan On Fuel Tax 'Radical'

Gov. J. James Exon said Tuesday he's reserving judgment on President Ford's proposal on how to put federal highway revenue to use in the future even though the governor said it appeared Ford is suggesting a "radical change."

Under the proposal, half the money collected from the four-cent-a-gallon federal gasoline tax would go to the general treasury and would be allocated from there for highway purposes.

Money now is channeled through the federal highway trust fund to the states.

Under the distribution formula contained in the proposal, Nebraska would get $17.7 million in rural highway money, $3.8 million for urban highways and $4.4 million for highway safety.

The Ford administration said primary emphasis is given in the proposal to the completion of the interstate system and the figures released in Washington did not include interstate allocations.

However, Nebraska officials have for some time been concerned about continued emphasis on the interstate when Nebraska has its system virtually constructed. Those officials said they feared substantial losses, which they said in reality amounted to penalties, just because the state is well ahead of most others in getting its share of the interstate system completed.

Under the federal highway money allocation schedule for 1976, Nebraska stands to receive a total of $52.7 million from the highway trust fund.

The breakdown includes: interstate, $14.4 million; primary highways, $13.9 million; primary priority projects, $3.7 million; secondary highways, $7.8 million; urban extensions of primary and secondary highways, $1.7 million; urban system, $4.3 million; planning, $800,000; economic growth projects, $1.8 million; as well as $4.2 million for safety projects.

Exon also said it appeared to him that once the fuel tax money goes into the general treasury, highway needs would be competing with other needs, such as welfare, for the return of that money.

Marsh: Illegal To Leave Kids Alone In Autos

Lincoln Sen. Shirley Marsh said Tuesday that it is illegal in Nebraska to leave children under 6 unattended in an automobile.

She said the law also says that anyone seeing unattended children in an automobile must make a report to police.

Sen. Marsh's statement was issued after two children, left in a car in Wichita, Kan., last weekend, died from the intensive heat.

Local Swim Areas Closed

All swimming beaches at Branched Oak Lake near Malcolm have been closed, so that the Game and Parks Commission can deal with excessive growths of aquatic plants that have invaded the swimming areas.

The closure will remain in effect until further notice, though treatment is not expected to take much more than 10 days to two weeks. Beaches at Pawnee Lake near Emerald and Wagon Train Lake east of Hickman remain open to swimmers.

Exon Asks State Leave ECS

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

Gov. J. James Exon on Tuesday called for a quick end to Nebraska's membership in the Education Commission of the States (ECS).

But some Nebraska education leaders support continued affiliation, and existing state law might shackle Exon's move to withdraw, possibly until as late as 1977.

The 1967 Legislature enacted LB470, adopting the education compact and establishing Nebraska's membership in ECS, founded in 1966.

To withdraw from ECS, the law says the Legislature must repeal LB470, but only a year after Exon has given written notice of that intent to the governors of all the other member states. Currently, 44 other states, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands are ECS members.

Exon said Tuesday, "If it's necessary for me to write all of my fellow governors announcing my decision and the fact that we are pulling out" of ECS, "I'll take that action."

But because some other states "are sold on the services that are provided" by ECS, Exon added, "I'm hopeful that Nebraska can withdraw for its own reasons, without throwing an overall cloud on the future of that organization."

ECS Services

ECS provides research, publications, technical assistance and other requested services on education matters of concern in member states, ranging from collective bargaining and school finance to early childhood and special education.

Exon line-item vetoed a $19,750 appropriation in 1975-76 governor's office funds that would have paid ECS dues ($14,250) and travel expenses for Nebraska ECS commissioners.

"This," Exon explained in his May 22 veto message to the Legislature, "will allow us to withdraw from this multi-state compact, which I feel has been of little if any benefit to Nebraska."

Exon acknowledged Tuesday that ECS has provided services to the state "that may have been helpful in some isolated instances. But I don't believe that's been to the tune of $20,000 worth a year."

But the 1967 Nebraska law also says, "No withdrawal shall affect any liability incurred by, or chargeable to, a (member) state prior to . . . such withdrawal."

Exon said he hasn't yet checked with Atty. Gen. Paul Douglas to learn if the line-item veto and nonpayment of dues would violate Nebraska's continuing commitment to ECS under LB470.

Dues Still Owed

Moreover, at ECS headquarters in Denver, communications director Sally V. Allen said Tuesday, "Nebraska has not yet paid us $5,250, which was the dues increase" in 1974-75. Even if Nebraska withdraws, the state would be in arrears as well for 1975-76 dues, or a total of $19,500, she said.

The money, however, isn't the main issue, said ECS Executive Director Wendell H. Pierce. He stressed that "one of our main missions" is communication on broad education issues affecting all member states.

Pierce said he regrets Exon's desire to end Nebraska's membership in ECS, "because the very strength of such a compact is based on participation of the states. What we do has to be used there.

"We feel they (Nebraskans) will lose some of the opportunities for improvement of education . . .

Nebraska Education Commissioner Anne Campbell said she supports continued membership in ECS, because it can provide services more cheaply than Nebraska alone can buy them.

An ECS commissioner herself, Dr. Campbell attended the organization's annual meeting last weekend in Kansas City.

Others attending included Ross Rasmussen, prime sponsor of LB470 when he was a state senator, and now Nebraska State School Boards Association (NSSBA) executive director, and Sen. Frank Lewis of Bellevue, the Legislature's Education Committee chairman.

The Nebraska ECS commissioners named Lewis chairman pro tem to discuss continued membership with Exon. Lewis was unavailable for comment Tuesday.

ECS Has 'Broad Base'

Meanwhile, Rasmussen said, "I definitely feel" ECS is "a benefit." It is "the only national organization which has such a broad base in representing education," and not a biased segment such as administrators or teachers.

He added he hopes Exon "would review his position."

If Rasmussen and Dr. Campbell believe continued ECS affiliation is valuable, Exon said the NSSBA and the State Education Department budgets should pay for it.

Would Be In 1977

If Exon wrote the required letters to ECS-member governors and followed the one-year waiting requirement in LB470, the 1976 Legislature will already have met and adjourned, thus delaying action until 1977.

"I have heard indications," Exon said, "that at least some members of the Legislature are considering payment of any (ECS) dues from legislative sources."

Meanwhile, LB470 stipulates formation of a "Nebraska Education Council" separate from the state ECS commissioners, and which must meet at least three times a year. The council was never formed.

Dr. Campbell said that for Nebraska "to receive full benefit" from ECS under the law, "we're going to have to do some work internally" in setting up the statewide council.

PAPER SAVER . . . Eurek shows cup.

Ecology Movement Alive For Collectors In Howells

Howells (AP) — The ecology movement is alive and collecting in Howells.

Since 1971, the town of 700 residents has been recycling newspapers, cans, glass and other items.

David Eurek, the drive chairman, said "we would like to keep on recycling forever and ever. We are trying to show other towns that if you stick with it, people will cooperate."

Eurek, high school business teacher and a volunteer fireman, said he started the drive after attending an environmental institute at Bellingham, Wash.

He received an environmental action award and silver cup from Gov. J. J. Exon at a luncheon in Lincoln recently.

Eurek said Howells residents are collecting enough material but are having a hard time finding buyers.

"The market for recyclable materials is not as good as it was when we started," he said. "We are taking everything to Norfolk right now."

Money collected from the paper drives goes to the volunteer fire department and rescue squad.

Exon Calls Ford Plan On Fuel Tax 'Radical'

Gov. J. James Exon said Tuesday he's reserving judgment on President Ford's proposal on how to put federal highway revenue to use in the future even though the governor said it appeared Ford is suggesting a "radical change."

Under the proposal, half the money collected from the four-cent-a-gallon federal gasoline tax would go to the general treasury and would be allocated from there for highway purposes.

Money now is channeled through the federal highway trust fund to the states.

Under the distribution formula contained in the proposal, Nebraska would get $17.7 million in rural highway money, $3.8 million for urban highways and $4.4 million for highway safety.

The Ford administration said primary emphasis is given in the proposal to the completion of the interstate system and the figures released in Washington did not include interstate allocations.

However, Nebraska officials have for some time been concerned about continued emphasis on the interstate when Nebraska has its system virtually constructed. Those officials said they feared substantial losses, which they said in reality amounted to penalties, just because the state is well ahead of most others in getting its share of the interstate system completed.

Under the federal highway money allocation schedule for 1976, Nebraska stands to receive a total of $52.7 million from the highway trust fund.

The breakdown includes: interstate, $14.4 million; primary highways, $13.9 million; primary priority projects, $3.7 million; secondary highways, $7.8 million; urban extensions of primary and secondary highways, $1.7 million; urban system, $4.3 million; planning, $800,000; economic growth projects, $1.8 million; as well as $4.2 million for safety projects.

Exon also said it appeared to him that once the fuel tax money goes into the general treasury, highway needs would be competing with other needs, such as welfare, for the return of that money.

Marsh: Illegal To Leave Kids Alone In Autos

Lincoln Sen. Shirley Marsh said Tuesday that it is illegal in Nebraska to leave children under 6 unattended in an automobile.

She said the law also says that anyone seeing unattended children in an automobile must make a report to police.

Sen. Marsh's statement was issued after two children, left in a car in Wichita, Kan., last weekend, died from the intensive heat.

Auditorium Board Sees New Colors, Equipment

The facelift planned for the interior of Pershing Municipal Auditorium moved one step closer to realization Tuesday when auditorium advisory board members got a first-hand look at proposed color scheme and equipment changes.

Andrew Morrow, local interior designer who has been hired to coordinate the changes, told board members major renovation would consist of repainting the interior walls.

In addition, the concourse area floors will be covered with quarry tile; the arena seats will be completely rebuilt.

In order to make it easier for ticket-holders to find the seats assigned them, the various sections will be covered in fabric that is color-coded to the tickets.

The corridors leading to the seating sections will also be painted in the colors that correspond to the ticket colors, Morrow said. Hopefully, this "will make traffic flow better."

If sufficient funding is available, Morrow said new, more attractive lighting also may be planned for the lobby and first concourse areas.

"We're going to try to get a new look, a new feeling in here," said Pershing manager Ivan Hoig. The blues and greens — which have, in Hoig's words, given the auditorium a "cold" look — will be replaced by warmer colors.

Most of the remodeling will have to wait until after Sept. 1, the beginning of the auditorium's fiscal year, Hoig said. The extent of the remodeling will depend on the amount of money made available by the city.

Norfolk School Board Approves Budget Increase

Norfolk (AP) — The Norfolk Board of Education has approved a 1975-76 operating budget of $3,650,000, an increase of 14.8%, or about $470,000 over the 1974-75 budget.

The largest item in the budget, is instructional costs, including teachers salaries, totalling about $2.4 million.

Despite the increase, officials said the property tax mill levy for support of the district will drop to 37.72 mills, down 3.10 mills from the current levy. An increased tax base was given as the major factor in that drop.

Property Taxes Deadline Nears

The deadline for payment of the second half of the county property tax is approaching, warned County Treasurer Frank Golden.

Interest on delinquent taxes for the second half of the year begins Aug. 1, Golden said. The 9% interest is compounded daily.

Lancaster and Douglas Counties have April 1 and Aug. 1 tax deadlines respectively, Golden said.

Pools To Eliminate Hoarding Of Tickets

Ticket hoarding has been eliminated in a revamped program which gives free swims in city pools to low income youngsters, said Gary Cooper, supervisor of the city's recreation centers and aquatics.

In the past, 20,000 free tickets were authorized for low income residents. The tickets were given out at distribution points throughout the city, including the Salvation Army, recreation centers and the Lincoln Action Program office, Cooper said.

A problem of ticket hoarding was discovered, and one woman was caught trying to pay for her child's Red Cross swimming lessons with 80 of the passes.

Now the ticket system has been abolished, and any tickets still in circulation are no longer good, Cooper said.

Instead, each of the eight city pools has a master volume of all the applications for the free swim tickets. This is how the new system will work:

When an individual comes for a swim he or she will print his name on a sign in sheet and the cashier will look up the application. If he has an application he will be allowed to swim.

Those individuals who have not yet filled out an application can obtain one at any city pool, take it home and complete the income information required.

If the family meets the federal poverty guidelines the application will be put in the master file at all the pools.

There are no longer any tickets and thus no hoarding of tickets, and there are no distribution points. "Everything is done at the pool," Cooper said.

"We think this is going to be a workable type program which will get the kids into the water and able to swim," Cooper said.

Any questions about the program, now being handled by the Park and Recreation Department, can be answered by Sue Renken at the F St. Recreation Center (435-3491), Cooper said.

School Bonds Passed

Ankeny, Iowa (UPI) — Voters in Ankeny approved a $1,250,000 bond issue which will finance the third and final stage of a new high school.

Stock Mart Curbs Wide Early Loss

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market, still moving in step with interest rate developments, recovered part of a wide early loss Tuesday to finish moderately lower.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, down more than 6 points after the first hour, closed out the day with a 3.29 loss at 857.79.

Declines outnumbered advances 799 to 622 among the 1,835 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange. Losers had predominated by as much as 3 to 1 in the early going.

Big Board volume increased to 18.99 million shares from Monday's 2½-week low of 15.85 million.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index showed a .15 drop at 93.39. and the NYSE's composite index was off .07 at 49.96.

Brokers ascribed the early declines to continued anticipation of some quarter-point increases soon in the bank prime lending rate, which now stands generally at 7 per cent.

A move to 7¼ per cent in the key rate on corporate loans has been widely forecast because of the recent upswing in short term rates in the open market, which are a major determinant of banks' costs of obtaining funds.

When those money rates took a downward turn at midmorning, stocks began a mild and intermittent recovery through the rest of the session.

Brokers said the attempt at a rebound was restrained partly by uncertainty over the Federal Reserve's credit policy.

The Fed's operations in the money markets during the day were interpreted as signaling a continued desire by the central bank to cool off the growth of the money supply by supporting interest rates.

Airline issues were broadly higher amid apparent interest in the Civil Aeronautics Board's plan to experiment with giving carriers more freedom to choose routes and set fares.

Braniff International, the Big Board volume leader, picked up ⅛ to 7⅜ in trading that included blocks of 265,500 shares at 6⅞ and 50,000 shares at 7⅛.

UAL rose 1¼ to 21⅛; American Airlines ½ to 8⅝; Delta ¼ to 36⅝; Western ⅝ to 8¾, and National 1⅛ to 13½.

National said Monday its no-frills air fare plan instituted recently was an "unqualified success."

Polaroid gained 2⅝ to 39¼. The company said in an employe newsletter that its second quarter earnings would be better than had generally been expected at the start of the year.

Hog Prices Turn Lower At Omaha

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—After a good week-opener Monday, hog prices on the Omaha livestock market reverted Tuesday to the downward slide that began more than a week ago, and cattle prices continued their sag.

Tuesday's hog run totaled about 4,000 head, with barrows and gilts seeing moderately active trade. However, the trend was 50-cents to $1.00 lower, with many sales 75-cents off.

Sows over 400-pounds trended mostly steady, but weights under 400-pounds were called steady to 50-cents lower.

The cattle run was estimated at about 6,000 head.

The trade on steers and heifers, reflecting wholesale trends, was slow. Steers moved 50cents to $1.00 lower, instances $1.25-to-$1.50 off. Heifers were mostly 50-cents lower, instances 75-cents to $1.00 off, and cows were firm.

There were 600 sheep on offer, and it turned out to be one of the best sheep trading days in quite awhile.

Spring slaughter lambs trended firm to 25-cents higher, and slaughter ewes moved $2.00 higher.

Grain Purchase Rumors Boost Farm Futures

Chicago (AP) — Rumors cropped up again of huge Russian purchases of food and feed grains in this country and Canada and farm commodity futures advanced to daily allowable limits on the Chicago Board of Trade Tuesday. The various stories of wheat purchased from Canada and wheat, corn and soybeans from the United States remained unconfirmed from official government sources but served to set off a wild buying spree remeniscent of 1972. That was the year huge Russian purchases of wheat at fairly low prices set off a bull market in grains that did not end until late in the year.

The advances in the major pits this session hit limits twice and remained locked in those positions at the close. There were millions of bushels of wheat, corn, oats and soybeans to be bought but there were no sellers. The market had no selling contingent even when word filtered to the floor that the Agriculture Department in Washington could not confirm any recent Russian grain purchases.

Soybean oil advanced the limit of 100 points or 1 cent a pound and meal closed $7 higher. Iced broilers closed unchanged to about ½ cent a pound lower.

Domestic gold futures advanced up to $2.50. The market thus recaptured its Monday losses on word that Russia was selling gold.

Steel Prices Increased

Tokyo (AP) — Nippon Steel Corp. announced an average 15.4% price increase for steel sold on the domestic market.

Auditorium Board Sees New Colors, Equipment

The facelift planned for the interior of Pershing Municipal Auditorium moved one step closer to realization Tuesday when auditorium advisory board members got a first-hand look at proposed color scheme and equipment changes.

Andrew Morrow, local interior designer who has been hired to coordinate the changes, told board members major renovation would consist of repainting the interior walls.

In addition, the concourse area floors will be covered with quarry tile; the arena seats will be completely rebuilt.

In order to make it easier for ticket-holders to find the seats assigned them, the various sections will be covered in fabric that is color-coded to the tickets.

The corridors leading to the seating sections will also be painted in the colors that correspond to the ticket colors, Morrow said. Hopefully, this "will make traffic flow better."

If sufficient funding is available, Morrow said new, more attractive lighting also may be planned for the lobby and first concourse areas.

"We're going to try to get a new look, a new feeling in here," said Pershing manager Ivan Hoig. The blues and greens — which have, in Hoig's words, given the auditorium a "cold" look — will be replaced by warmer colors.

Most of the remodeling will have to wait until after Sept. 1, the beginning of the auditorium's fiscal year, Hoig said. The extent of the remodeling will depend on the amount of money made available by the city

Norfolk School Board Approves Budget Increase

Norfolk (AP) — The Norfolk Board of Education has approved a 1975-76 operating budget of $3,650,000, an increase of 14.8%, or about $470,000 over the 1974-75 budget.

The largest item in the budget, is instructional costs, including teachers salaries, totalling about $2.4 million.

Despite the increase, officials said the property tax mill levy for support of the district will drop to 37.72 mills, down 3.10 mills from the current levy. An increased tax base was given as the major factor in that drop.

Property Taxes Deadline Nears

The deadline for payment of the second half of the county property tax is approaching, warned County Treasurer Frank Golden.

Interest on delinquent taxes for the second half of the year begins Aug. 1, Golden said. The 9% interest is compounded daily.

Lancaster and Douglas Counties have April 1 and Aug. 1 tax deadlines respectively, Golden said.

Pools To Eliminate Hoarding Of Tickets

Ticket hoarding has been eliminated in a revamped program which gives free swims in city pools to low income youngsters, said Gary Cooper, supervisor of the city's recreation centers and aquatics.

In the past, 20,000 free tickets were authorized for low income residents. The tickets were given out at distribution points throughout the city, including the Salvation Army, recreation centers and the Lincoln Action Program office, Cooper said.

A problem of ticket hoarding was discovered, and one woman was caught trying to pay for her child's Red Cross swimming lessons with 80 of the passes.

Now the ticket system has been abolished, and any tickets still in circulation are no longer good, Cooper said.

Instead, each of the eight city pools has a master volume of all the applications for the free swim tickets. This is how the new system will work:

When an individual comes for a swim he or she will print his name on a sign in sheet and the cashier will look up the application. If he has an application he will be allowed to swim.

Those individuals who have not yet filled out an application can obtain one at any city pool, take it home and complete the income information required.

If the family meets the federal poverty guidelines the application will be put in the master file at all the pools.

There are no longer any tickets and thus no hoarding of tickets, and there are no distribution points. "Everything is done at the pool," Cooper said.

"We think this is going to be a workable type program which will get the kids into the water and able to swim," Cooper said.

Any questions about the program, now being handled by the Park and Recreation Department, can be answered by Sue Renken at the F St. Recreation Center (435-3491), Cooper said.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Forecast for Wednesday

"You constantly amaze me, in your columns and on television. My sister studies astrology and she cannot do what you do, at least not so quickly or with such confidence. What's your secret?" — Paul Solomon, Los Angeles, Calif. Response: I am sure your sister is going to be proficient and skillful. If I have a "secret," it is that the more I know the less I know. Only an amateur "knows it all." I hope I continue to amaze you. I amaza myself, at times, by being able to get up mornings.

☆ ☆ ☆

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Accent on making home a happier place. Despite what appears to be a "gloom cloud," you are going to receive heartening news. You will get more for your product, real estate or creation than originally anticipated.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): New Moon position highlights dealings with those whose interests are intertwined with your own. Relatives or not, these persons feel you have an obligation to them. Fair or not, you have to deal with it. Behind scenes, there is backing, support. You're not alone!

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): New Moon position, aspects point to costs, what is worth what, how you adjust to changing conditions, boost from friends and basic, creative changes. Another Gemini and a Virgo figure prominently. Gain is shown through written word.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Lunar aspects coincide with knowledge gained in past and currently utilized. Practical affairs, including property values, tend to dominate. One you love shows that you are loved, too. Spiritual regeneration could be on agenda.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Where there was heat, there now could also be light. Darkened areas receive benefit of investigation. You are able to perceive difference between knowing, wishing and fantasizing. You learn a secret. Use knowledge constructively.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Friends may have bleak outlook. Key is to be realistic without becoming a pessimist. Member of opposite sex seeks sympathy. Be understanding but avoid being "used." Surprise refund could be on agenda.

LIBRA (Setp. 23-Oct. 22): You get plenty of action — and you'll enjoy it. What had been a restrictive influence is removed. There are obstacles, but you can hurdle them. You climb, elevate yourself, prove a point and gain self-satisfaction. Another Libra and an Aries could be in picture.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): New Moon highlights travel, special studies for you. Accent also is on fresh start, original approach, added independence. You can get to hear of matters. Be direct. See beyond apparent limitations.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Your intuition works overtime. You get valid impressions, hunches. Accent is on money handled by others, including taxes. You could be "lucky" now in games of chance.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Conservative course is now most constructive for you. Let others take initiative. You gain through listening, observing, planting seeds for future. You learn valuable lessons. Attention centers around legalities, formalities, signings — and partner or mate.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Work areas receive benefit of greater light. Specific instructions can be profitably utilized. Friends lends benefits of experience. You can extricate yourself from emotional corner. Key is desire to "get well."

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Some habit patterns will be curtailed due to budget restrictions. Key is to adjust — with humor. Member of opposite sex provides excitement, color. Be ready for change, travel, variety.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you have voice which can be used musically, for teaching and for impressing others with special messages, points of view. Taurus, Libra persons play important roles in your life. A new contact, exciting prospects indicated for August. If single, the year points to marriage. Married or single, you can expect additional business responsibilities.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Stock Mart Curbs Wide Early Loss

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market, still moving in step with interest rate developments, recovered part of a wide early loss Tuesday to finish moderately lower.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, down more than 6 points after the first hour, closed out the day with a 3.29 loss at 857 79.

Declines outnumbered advances 799 to 622 among the 1,835 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange. Losers had predominated by as much as 3 to 1 in the early going.

Big Board volume increased to 18.99 million shares from Monday's 2½-week low of 15.85 million.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index showed a .15 drop at 93.39. and the NYSE's composite index was off .07 at 49.96.

Brokers ascribed the early declines to continued anticipation of some quarter-point increases soon in the bank prime lending rate, which now stands generally at 7 per cent.

A move to 7¼ per cent in the key rate on corporate loans has been widely forecast because of the recent upswing in short term rates in the open market, which are a major determinant of banks' costs of obtaining funds.

When those money rates took a downward turn at midmorning, stocks began a mild and intermittent recovery through the rest of the session.

Brokers said the attempt at a rebound was restrained partly by uncertainty over the Federal Reserve's credit policy.

The Fed's operations in the money markets during the day were interpreted as signaling a continued desire by the central bank to cool off the growth of the money supply by supporting interest rates.

Airline issues were broadly higher amid apparent interest in the Civil Aeronautics Board's plan to experiment with giving carriers more freedom to choose routes and set fares.

Braniff International, the Big Board volume leader, picked up ⅛ to 7⅜ in trading that included blocks of 265,500 shares at 6⅞ and 50,000 shares at 7⅛.

UAL rose 1¼ to 21⅛; American Airlines ½ to 8⅝; Delta ¼ to 36⅝; Western ⅜ to 8¾, and National 1⅛ to 13½.

National said Monday its no-frills air fare plan instituted recently was an "unqualified success."

Polaroid gained 2⅝ to 39¼. The company said in an employe newsletter that its second quarter earnings would be better than had generally been expected at the start of the year.

Sugar Price Rising Again

New York — Grocery sugar prices, which have dropped 67% from their peak in November, are on their way up again.

The Amstar Corp., the country's largest sugar refiner, and the Sucrest Corp., a leading refining company, announced price rises of $2 per hundred pounds on grocery sugar and $3 per hundredweight on specialty sugars, defined as brown sugar, tablets and sugar in small cartons.

The price rise, the first since Nov. 25, may be passed on to consumers within the next week depending upon retailer practice.

Hog Prices Turn Lower At Omaha

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—After a good week-opener Monday, hog prices on the Omaha livestock market reverted Tuesday to the downward slide that began more than a week ago, and cattle prices continued their sag.

Tuesday's hog run totaled about 4,000 head, with barrows and gilts seeing moderately active trade. However, the trend was 50-cents to $1.00 lower, with many sales 75-cents off.

Sows over 400-pounds trended mostly steady, but weights under 400-pounds were called steady to 50-cents lower.

The cattle run was estimated at about 6,000 head.

The trade on steers and heifers, reflecting wholesale trends, was slow. Steers moved 50cents to $1.00 lower, instances $1.25-to-$1.50 off. Heifers were mostly 50-cents lower, instances 75-cents to $1.00 off, and cows were firm.

There were 600 sheep on offer, and it turned out to be one of the best sheep trading days in quite awhile.

Spring slaughter lambs trended firm to 25-cents higher, and slaughter ewes moved $2.00 higher.

Grain Purchase Rumors Boost Farm Futures

Chicago (AP) — Rumors cropped up again of huge Russian purchases of food and feed grains in this country and Canada and farm commodity futures advanced to daily allowable limits on the Chicago Board of Trade Tuesday. The various stories of wheat purchased from Canada and wheat, corn and soybeans from the United States remained unconfirmed from official government sources but served to set off a wild buying spree remeniscent of 1972. That was the year huge Russian purchases of wheat at fairly low prices set off a bull market in grains that did not end until late in the year.

The advances in the major pits this session hit limits twice and remained locked in those positions at the close. There were millions of bushels of wheat, corn, oats and soybeans to be bought but there were no sellers. The market had no selling contingent even when word filtered to the floor that the Agriculture Department in Washington could not confirm any recent Russian grain purchases.

Soybean oil advanced the limit of 100 points or 1 cent a pound and meal closed $7 higher. Iced broilers closed unchanged to about ½ cent a pound lower.

Domestic gold futures advanced up to $2.50. The market thus recaptured its Monday losses on word that Russia was selling gold.

Steel Prices Increased

Tokyo (AP) — Nippon Steel Corp. announced an average 15 4% price increase for steel sold on the domestic market.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE – Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Forecast for Wednesday

"You constantly amaze me, in your columns and on television. My sister studies astrology and she cannot do what you do, at least not so quickly or with such confidence. What's your secret?" — Paul Solomon, Los Angeles, Calif. Response: I am sure your sister is going to be proficient and skillful. If I have a "secret," it is that the more I know the less I know. Only an amateur "knows it all." I hope I continue to amaze you. I amaze myself, at times, by being able to get up mornings.

☆ ☆ ☆

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Accent on making home a happier place. Despite what appears to be a "gloom cloud," you are going to receive heartening news. You will get more for your product, real estate or creation than originally anticipated

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): New Moon position highlights dealings with those whose interests are intertwined with your own. Relatives or not, these persons feel you have an obligation to them. Fair or not, you have to deal with it. Behind scenes, there is backing, support. You're not alone!

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): New Moon position, aspects point to costs, what is worth what, how you adjust to changing conditions, boost from friends and basic, creative changes. Another Gemini and a Virgo figure prominently. Gain is shown through written word.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Lunar aspects coincide with knowledge gained in past and currently utilized. Practical affairs, including property values, tend to dominate. One you love shows that you are loved, too. Spiritual regeneration could be on agenda.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Where there was heat, there now could also be light. Darkened areas receive benefit of investigation. You are able to perceive difference between knowing, wishing and fantasizing. You learn a secret. Use knowledge constructively.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Friends may have bleak outlook. Key is to be realistic without becoming a pessimist. Member of opposite sex seeks sympathy. Be understanding but avoid being "used." Surprise refund could be on agenda.

LIBRA (Setp. 23-Oct. 22): You get plenty of action — and you'll enjoy it. What had been a restrictive influence is removed. There are obstacles, but you can hurdle them. You climb, elevate yourslef, prove a point and gain self-satisfaction. Another Libra and an Aries could be in picture.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): New Moon highlights travel, special studies for you. Accent also is on fresh start, original approach, added independence. You can get to hear of matters. Be direct. See beyond apparent limitations.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Your intuition works overtime. You get valid impressions, hunches. Accent is on money handled by others, including taxes. You could be "lucky" now in games of chance.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Conservative course is now most constructive for you. Let others take initiative. You gain through listening, observing, planting seeds for future. You learn valuable lessons. Attention centers around legalities, formalities, signings — and partner or mate.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Work areas receive benefit of greater light. Specific instructions can be profitably utilized. Friends lends benefits of experience. You can extricate yourself from emotional corner. Key is desire to "get well."

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Some habit patterns will be curtailed due to budget restrictions. Key is to adjust — with humor. Member of opposite sex provides excitement, color. Be ready for change, travel, variety.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you have voice which can be used musically, for teaching and for impressing others with special messages, points of view. Taurus, Libra persons play important roles in your life. A new contact, exciting prospects indicated for August. If single, the year points to marriage. Married or single, you can expect additional business responsibilities.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
